CONCORD, JANUARY, 5 1895.

THE SEASON OF PRAYER.

In another column the Standard publishes a programme for the week of prayer. There is something in all this that brings us closer together. The services will be held from church to church throughout all the churches in town save one. And every preacher in town is called upon to contribute to the pleasure and profit of the meetings.

There is something nice in all this business. One flock goes from another to another and to make the mixture more complete and effective, a different pastor to the one regularly presiding there is put up as leader. Why not?

Why not? Why all this selfishness anyway.

The great bulk of humanity, that is trying to go to heaven, may select different routes, but if they are correct in essential, why then be stickless on denominations. The best thing about these union meetings and the week of prayer is the bringing together in closer ties the different Christian denominations.

But enough of this. The pastors have done all they can. They have presented the programme and are ready to play their parts. Now let the people—the Christian people—fall in and do their part. People never hurt themselves in going to church and when there they do not hurt themselves listening and profiting by what is said.

Now let us all fall in and make the meetings largely attended. Such is our duty.

Still Another Postal Thief Caught Up With.

Pittsburg, Jan. 4.—M. P. Sayher, United States mail carrier, was arrested in the postoffice this morning by Inspectors Hooton and Gorman while preparing the mail for distribution along his route. Suspicion was aroused six months ago by the repeated failure of letters to arrive at their destination. It is thought that Sayher has purloined several hundred letters while in the service of the department. He was caught in the act of opening decoy envelopes containing marked money, and the money was afterwards found on his person. Sayher's method was to steal mail from the boxes of other carriers, and for months every carrier in the office was under suspicion. Sayher admits having taken small sums of money at various times, in all, he says, about $13.

Coxey Moves to Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 5—J S Coxey, the Populist leader, has removed from Masillon, Ohio, to this city and taken up his home on Girard Avenue near Broad street. The change of home, Mr. Coxey says, is made in the interest of his family, from an educational point of view. Coxey will appear before the subcommittee of the House in Washington next week, and before the finance committee of the Senate, to advocate his non-interest bearing bond scheme, the bill covering this Populist demand having been introduced last July.

No Special Message Just Now.

Washington, Jan. 5—Satisfaction was expressed by Democratic leaders of the House when the news reached the capitol that as a result of the deliberations of the cabinet yesterday, it was deemed inadvisable that the President should at this time send a special message to Congress urging passage of the Carlisle banking bill. If the House caucus to be held on Monday should decide to support the bill as a party measure, a special message will be unnecessary. Should the caucus, on the other hand, develop strong opposition to the measure, and a determination radically to amend it, it is believed to be certain that the President will immediately follow the caucus action with a special executive message.
