IRON AND COTTON.

So long as the price of cotton was in the neighborhood of 5 cents a pound the free silver organs in this region told the farmers every day that cotton was low because silver was low and that the only way to raise the price of both was by the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

The theory that the price of silver fixes and controls the price of cotton was one of the main arguments of the free silver advocates both in newspapers and on the stump.

It is not probable that we shall hear any more of this tomfoolery. The experience of the last few months has put a final quietus upon it.

Silver is actually lower now than it was when cotton was selling on the streets of Atlanta at 5 cents a pound and Monday cotton sold here at 8 1/2 cents a pound.

If anybody had told the farmers last spring that iron fixes the price of cotton and that cotton would not rise until iron went up he would have been considered a fool and, yet his argument would have been far better than that which the free silverites were making at that time.

Iron is one of the best barometers of business and when general business improves the price of cotton and all other products, as a rule, advances.

The rise in the price of iron and the rise in the price of cotton began at the same time and the two have risen in about equal proportions.

The man with the iron argument is in a far better position than the free silverite. There is much more sense in the general proposition that the prices of iron and cotton correspond than there is in the idea that cotton moves with the former and dead against the latter theory.

When the silverites appear to the farmers hereafter they will let the cotton argument severely alone.—Atlanta Journal.

IMPOSITIONS.

It is not uncommon for persons to call at a newspaper office and ask for a paper of a certain date and turn to walk out without paying for it. It is also about as often publishers are called upon to make public announcements that are strictly of an advertising character. Direct impositions are thus practiced upon newspapers, whose business is just as legitimate as any other.

There is no more reason in making such requests than to go to a grocery store and ask for a pound of meat, or a dry goods house and ask for a yard of cloth. The Franklin Times, one of our exchanges, has this to say on the subject:

"A man sent several miles to us for a copy of last week's Times, and took it away without saying anything about paying for it, or even 'thank you.' It costs money and labor to make a newspaper, and at the top of the first column of the editorial page we have had this information for more than six years: 'Single copies 5 cents.' If that man has a right to demand a free copy one week in the year, he has the right to demand fifty-two free; and if he has that right why has not every man in the county the same right? Our paper is our stock in trade, and it has a commercial value, and if read it should be paid for. Now, we make this comment without knowing the name of the man who sent for the paper, therefore it is not personal."

At this season the favorite sales-room bait is bonnets and wraps. The salesman with his radiant smile, his insinuating manner and his long-winded mellow voice, will explain that "these imported articles of appeal are quite the latest agony, etc.," until it is an astonishing sight when you see the delivery boy arrive at home loaded with said novelties, that the woman of style and fashion has selected for her winter wardrobe. But while all this is going on, the significant part is: "Papa will pay the bill."

YOUNG MEN ARE WILLING.

Nearly 500 of Them Wish to Marry Hip Sing Lee's Daughter.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 1.—Letters and telegrams continue to pour into the telegraph and postoffice addressed to Hip Sing Lee, the mythical Chinese merchant prince in whose name an advertisement recently appeared in a San Francisco paper offering flattering inducements to any respectable white man who would marry his daughter, Moi Lee. There are at present, nearly five hundred letters in the postoffice addressed to the mysterious Hip Sing Lee, all presumably in answer to the advertisement referred to.

THE BEST FAMILY MEDICINE

She Has Ever Known. Words of Praise from a New York Lady for

AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled."

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent la grippe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-round family medicine I have ever known.—Mrs. MAY JOHNSON, 368 Rider Avenue, New York City.

SPECIAL TAX NOTICE.

The law of North Carolina. See Chapter 116 Secs. 34, 35, 36 and 37 acts of 1895 requires every Physician, Dentist, Lawyer and Hotel or Boarding house keeper to pay a license tax and take out a license, under a penalty of thirty days imprisonment or fine of fifty dollars, for failure to pay the license tax. The law further makes it my imperative duty to see that the penalty of fifty dollars is enforced. Very few have complied with the law. Unless the parties liable to pay this tax, come forward promptly, I will be compelled (unwillingly as I am) to see that the law is enforced.
