A YOUNG TRAIN WRECKER.

A Boy Changed the Switch and Came Very Near Wrecking the Train

This morning between eight and nine o'clock, Davis Beck, who stays at Mrs. Wm. Brown's informed Mr. Higgins at the ice factory that he had just seen a small boy whose name he did not know change the switch in front of the ice factory. The train from the South was due in about five minutes and Mr. Higgins hastened to the track where he found the switch turned and an iron spike lying on the track. He changed the switch and notified the railroad authorities at once.

Officer C W Pool was put on the case and in an hour had arrested the would-be train wrecker, little John Hunt, a white boy about fourteen years old, who delivers goods for John Howard. He was arrested and locked up, but was liberated shortly afterwards. He will be tried this evening at five. Had it not been discovered the train from the South would have been thrown from the track and great damage done. The boy, however, is so youthful that it is hardly likely that he will be prosecuted.—Salisbury World.

The Mad Stone First; Pasteur Second.

A little son of Dr. G A Ramseur, of China Grove, was badly bitten by a mad dog Tuesday afternoon, and was brought here yesterday by his father to have the mad-stone applied. The stone stuck, but Dr. Ramseur is so uneasy about the boy that he will take him North for the Pasteur treatment.—Charlotte Observer.

A Valise Was Full.

A certain farmer came down Main street this morning perched upon a wagon on which were several bales of cotton and a valise, and just as he fronted Mr. Monroe Brown's residence, the wagon wheels struck the dummy track, which jolted the valise off. It fell with a crash and there was a great loss. The valise was filled with quart and pint bottles and the bottles were filled with newly-made fire-water, which wasted upon the ground. The man has plenty of sympathizers, but the reporter was only amused as the man's countenance, like the valise, fell. If the man had been as full as the valise he would likely have had a double accident.

A Ghastly Wound.

While en route from his home to his father's gin this morning, Master Louis Brown met with a terrible accident. He was riding his bicycle and was going out West Corbin street. When reaching the high fill at the Starrette springs he met J W Walker's sewing machine wagon in the narrow road and Doc Shankle, an old wood chopper, on the outer edge. He attempted to pass between them and in doing so, he ran into Shankle, knocking him down the embankment and falling himself, when his head struck the edge of the axe, cutting a ghastly triangular wound on the forehead, just above the eyes. He was carried to Dr. L M Archy, and received prompt surgical attention.

AT CANNONVILLE.

The Big Mill Walls Up—Masonry Work Suspended—Moving Into New Houses

The massive walls to the new addition of Cannon cotton plant are nearly complete and the structure is quite an enormous one. Masonry work was suspended Monday for a few days and the crew transferred to the Buffalo mills, where a large reservoir is being built. Only a few more days' work will finish the brick work, and be ready for the roofers. Nearly the entire lower floor is down, and the workmen will begin up stairs to-morrow.

J M Miller is about done with his ten houses. Some of them are complete and families are moving into them. W D Anthony has twenty-four houses to paint and is hard at it plying the brush.

Everything in that part of the city is busy and present a hustling appearance.

Will be Here Friday Night.

"Only a Farmer's Daughter" is a play dealing with modern society life, wherein a happy family, consisting of a talented husband and father, his wife, the wealthy farmer's daughter, and their little girl, are agitated and almost divided through the machinations of an adventuress to supplant the wife in her husband's affections, and thus gain access to his large fortune. Her deeply laid plans approach success, when Lenox, the husband, has a vision of his future career, seeing himself at the end a raving maniac, destitute of both friends and fortune. From this horrid nightmare he wakes to find himself still surrounded by wife and child, and his fortune still intact. The conclusion is patent; he immediately breaks with the adventuress, and resolves neither to see her nor her associate again, and the curtain drops on a reunited family circle, happy in their mutual love.—New York Dispatch. Reserved seats at Gibson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard.

That's the way it goes now, after the quiet marriage Wednesday night of Mr. Will Maynard, for several years a resident of this city, but now of Charlotte, to Miss Verna Troutman, also of this city. At 6 o'clock last evening a number of invited guests gathered at the home of the bride and partook of an elegant supper that had been prepared for the occasion and at 8:30 o'clock in their presence Rev. M G G Scherer, of St. James Lutheran church, performed the ceremony that made the couple man and wife, and then came a round of congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Maynard left on the 10 o'clock train Wednesday night for Charlotte, where the groom is employed.

Does Not Need Counsel.

The Raleigh Press-Visitor says locally:

"Mr. S P Satterfield is still here. He has been given permission to make up his bond in Person. The amount is $300. Mr. Satterfield says he is glad the true bills have been returned as it will enable him to completely vindicate himself. He thinks the trial will locate the blame on the guilty parties. Mr. Satterfield has a large array of fusion counsel. Among the number are Harris, Whitaker, Purnell, Walser and others. He says he could clear himself without counsel. Mr. Satterfield thinks others will have to do more explaining than himself.

CHAIN, FOB, GOLD TOOTH

And Some Hair Found in a Shaft at the Reed Mine—The Neighborhood Thinks it a Mystery—Many Believe Them the Property of a Missing One.

Some bits of news have come to town from the section of the Reed Mine in Southeastern Cabarrus.

Years ago a 28-pound piece of gold was found. It is here, too, that last week in working round in an old shaft that a lady's watch chain, fob and a piece of gold that resembled a gold tooth, together with small bits of hair, were found. This discovery and find have given the neighborhood something to talk about. A matter like this will not down without an effort to explain, solve, clear up or unravel.

Several parties from that section have been asked about the discovery and all state that a fob, a lady's chain, a gold tooth and some bits of hair were found in an old shaft which Dr. Lisle, the manager of the Reed Mine was having cleaned out preparatory to sinking deeper.

It is said that the dirt in that shaft has been stirred within the last ten years, and this only aggravates those, who desire a clearing up, to search all the more.

Some people think all these things are evidences of a murder or suicide that must have occurred some time or other. How did the fob get there? How did the lady's chain get there? How did the tooth get there? and to whom did they belong, are questions the neighborhood is interested in knowing.

There are some things that are never known—will this be one of them?

It is believed that this property belongs to a missing party.

THE STANDARD learns that Dr. Lisle has these findings in safe keeping.

The Bulletin Says:

"Only a Farmer's Daughter" was given its first representation at the Arch Street theater last night. It was an old-fashioned melodrama, but this version presents it more in accordance with the probabilities of life. The dream, which was a prominent feature before, has been cut out. The play possesses a good deal of what is called human interest—to excite laughter and tears is the aim—and partly by reason of its interesting situations and more particularly by the acting of an unusually efficient company, it is successful. Miss Helen North, an exceptionally pretty young woman, was the best Justine that ever essayed the part." Here Friday night. Reserved seats at Gibson's.

A Household Treasure.

D W Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best of results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. C A Dykeman, druggist Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy that he has used in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Fetzler's Drug store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.
