A BATCH OF LOCAL NEWS.

Picked Up and Put in Shape By Our Hustling Pencil Pusher.
Mr. F V Barrier is buying cotton in Salisbury.

The evening train Thursday was several hours late.

The wife of Bob Russell, colored, died in Pineland Thursday night.

Stany cotton is coming in. Campers are becoming numerous.

Sam Jones and Dick Morse, of Charlotte, are a mutual admiration society.

Get your ticket for "Only a Farmer's Daughter." Tickets are on sale at Gibson's drug store.

It is not altogether in an Adam and Eve joke aspect that chestnuts come in with the fall.

Whole train loads of mountain cabbage are passing down the Southern, tagged for Atlanta.

Folks may themselves shiver later, but usually the first sign of chilly weather is the shaking of the straw hat.

Mr. M L Julian, who several months ago moved his family here from Salisbury, moved them back on Thursday.

Even at this early date preparations are beginning for the holiday trade. Now is the time to advertise your business.

A negro's finger was found in a back lot in Greensboro Tuesday morning. The owner is, however, still unidentified.

The protracted meeting at Forest Hill Methodist church grows in interest at every service. Much good is being accomplished.

The Charlotte News springs the startling news that the Catawba river is going dry. No indication of Charlotte going that way.

Stop at D M Walker's if you want anything in the grocery and notion line. Don't forget the place opposite D C Furr's at Forest Hill.

North Carolina has two additional scholarships at Johns Hopkins University. They are G O Lise, of Chapel Hill, and James W. Reid, of Pineville.

Prof. Setzler, of the chair of ancient languages at North Carolina College, has tendered, to the Board of Trustees, his resignation to take effect next May.

Some of those who went over to the circus to-day may have been too late to see the street parade, but we will vouch for them having seen the "White Elephant."

D M Walker pays the highest market prices for all kind of country produce, cash or barter. Don't forget the place opposite D C Furr's at Forest Hill.

Cotton seed buyers are not seen on the streets this year as formerly. Seed are bringing only about 9 cents per bushel, and rather than sell at that price farmers would do better to use them in compost.

Caldwell county has a mighty hunter in the person of George W Taylor, now 70 years old. This is a list of the things, as furnished by the Lenoir Topic: 40 deer, 100 wild turkeys, 12 ground hogs, 15,000 squirrels, 1,000 rabbits, 500 possums, 50 coons, 500 crows, 400 hawks, 50 owls, 6 minks, 100 muskrats and 40 pheasants.
