GEN. MAHONE DEAD.

General Mahone, the soldier, politician and financier is dead. He had been daubed "Little Billy Mahone." There was nothing about him except physique that justified this name. Gen. Mahone, though he lost his grip and his influence, accomplished a work, be it good or bad, that but few men would dare undertake, and, if undertaken, could scarcely hope for success. No little man in mind, courage and ability could accomplish what he did in the Old Dominion.

That he at last failed, only reminds us of many, whose names stand conspicuously on the pages of history, that flourished once but died whipped and broken hearted.

He had many traits of character that made him more than ordinary. He helped many, when in struggles, who in after days turned, as a dog, upon him and abused his name—vilification and hatred so strong that even their children inherited it.

Mahone did his wrongs, made his mistakes and committed his blunders—he, to accomplish his purpose, must necessarily have done so.

In after years, will North Carolina not have a figure, not so grand and strong to be sure, once full of power but then stripped of grip and influence, to whom we may point as North Carolina's Mahone?

The Philadelphia Times has a column editorial on "Grooming for the Presidency." In its own way it shows how ex-president Harrison can not secure the nomination. It regards Reed and Allison the strongest men before the country for the Republican nomination. It thinks McKinley is knocked out by his own Tariff record. The whole article is concluded by stating that Col. Bradley, the Republican candidate for Governor in Kentucky, if he is elected, would be the logical candidate for President. Has the Philadelphia Times heard of Dan. L. Russel of North Carolina? We think not.

The question will always be who struck Billy Patterson out. The whole thing is some times modified by asking who wrote that, who said that, etc. "When the cats are away the mice will play."

The ideal new woman has evidently not forgotten in her acquisition of everything mannish the "manly art of self-defense." According to report, a New Woman of Cloquet, Minn., recently administered a sound thrashing to a young man of that place who has been in the habit of abusing women on the street. When he tackled this particular woman she did not feel in humor to be hugged, and quickly led with her right. Before the audacious young man had recovered from his surprise he had been soundly whipped by his intended victim.

A Maine editor has sent little Marion Cleveland a poodle. Most of the editors have been giving her father pointers.

It is said that you don't know how a jury will go; and it is equally as hard to tell sometimes what the type will make you say. Sometimes the type makes us say things we don't want to; sometimes they don't say enough; and again, by oversight, matters get in uncredited and the earmarks betray a fellow. Every newspaper man, by the dint of circumstances, gets credit for things he's not the author of and couldn't be if he wanted, by a great sight.

Attorney General Frank Osborne and Buffalo Bill are debating the question "is Bill's show a circus." Buffalo Bill's man pulls Latin on the Attorney General. But this is Frank Osborne's forte; he can speak Latin faster than he can German. But it has been said that the study of Latin is unnecessary because no one can learn to speak it—but if Buffalo Bill's man can make his Latin work on Frank Osborne, he will have saved $180 in taxes in each county he shows.

It may be that the reason the board of county commissioners don't fix up the court house fence is to keep some of Cabarrus' favorite sons from roosting upon it during the next election for State and county officers.

Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

SPECIAL TAX NOTICE.

The law of North Carolina. See Chapter 116 Secs. 34, 35, 36 and 37 acts of 1895 requires every Physician, Dentist, Lawyer and Hotel or Boarding house keeper to pay a license tax and take out a license, under a penalty of thirty days imprisonment or fine of fifty dollars, for failure to pay the license tax. The law further makes it my imperative duty to see that the penalty of fifty dollars is enforced. Very few have complied with the law. Unless the parties liable to pay this tax, come forward promptly, I will be compelled (unwillingly as I am) to see that the law is enforced.
