The Ashe Murder Case.

The Landmark of Tuesday noted that Caryn Eller, who was tried in Ashe county last week for the murder of his cousin, Roy Latham, was convicted of murder in the second degree. He was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary and as his case was not appealed he was at once taken to Raleigh. The Wilkesboro Chronicle had a conversation with Eller when he passed through Wilkesboro on his way to Raleigh, and says:

"The case is a peculiar one, and Calvin Eller is either a cold-blooded murderer with heart as insensate of feeling as adamant, or is innocent. He talked freely when approached by this editor, and his expressions seemed frank and truthful. He is an extraordinary expert liar or a truthful boy. He is only 19 years old, has dark blue eyes, dark hair and weighs about 185 lbs. He has that brogue peculiar to the mountaineer. He seemed in a hopeful mood and when asked how he liked the idea of going to the pen, he said it was hard but he couldn't help it; his enemies had sworn lies against him and convicted him; but he hoped soon to be pardoned, and that the real murderer would be discovered. He said that he expected to try to perform every duty imposed upon him by the authorities. He denied bitterly that he had killed Latham and said they were kinsfolks and had been chums all their lives."

Mr. C H Armfield, of Statesville, who was of counsel for Eller, says he believed Eller guilty before the trial, but during the trial his demeanor was such that he was compelled to believe in his innocence. Early in the trial counsel for the State offered to compromise on a verdict of manslaughter. Eller's counsel laid the offer before him, but he promptly rejected it. He said he was innocent and for that reason he could not consent to any compromise. As the Chronicle says, he is evidently a cold blooded scoundrel or he is innocent.

Liveryman J C Deaton, of Mooresville, was in town to-day.

Some men try advertising as the Indian tried feathers. Ha took one feather, laid it on a board and slept on it all night. In the morning he remarked: "White man say feathers heap soft; white man d— fool." You may start in a small way (most of the large advertisers have) but by keeping persistently before the public you cannot fail of success. Never were the people so progressive and well-to-do as now.
