A Cow Got Marriage License.

A Caldwell county cow delayed a marriage a few days ago. How it was done is told in this wise by the Lenoir Topic: A cow that would eat a new coat and marriage license should at once be killed, at least, that is what a certain young man in this county thinks. That is what one did Saturday night week. A young man had just bought his license and was going to get married Sunday. Saturday night he went to a corn shucking. Before he began to shuck corn he pulled his coat and hung it up, the license being in the pocket. When he had finished shucking he went to get his coat, when lo, he found it not. An old cow had eaten the coat, license and all. The young man made a few broken remarks, went home in his shirt sleeves and on Monday morning bought him another coat and when he gets his license he says he will marry forthwith.

Cabarrus First.

The report of Col. W E Ardrey, of the Charlotte mint shows: Cabarrus county leads all the others in the gold and silver produced in 1894, the figures being $8,681.52. Rowan is next with $6,120.19.

Rowan County—The production of this county was materially increased. The only mines regularly at work are the Eame and the Gold Hill. It is possible that the recently re-opened Rhymer mine, with its connected chlorination plant, may be in operation in 1895; otherwise there is no ground for expecting a larger return from this county.
