BRIDGES EVERY CHASM.

There is one matchless hour in a man's life. Every sense of his being surrenders to the delicious, intoxicating influence, and all the world seems to be reveling in a carnival of joy. Sound becomes music, common place things become beautiful and sight and feeling conspire together to intensify the illusion.

This hour is when, for the first time, the woman he loves yields up her first confession of love for him, and for the first time gazes soulfully into his face, a wealth of love, trust and happiness beaming from her dark eyes. Then it is not what he has been or will be, but what he is and what is his that concerns him.

Love is abroad in the land. In every city, town and hamlet, the young and old are mating—the heavenly influence is exerting its power. Where rightly regarded and entered into discreetly the tendency should be to make this old world better. A great deal depends on happy homes. Men are better, happier, more energetic. Let us hope there will not be a disappointed or unhappy home amid all those who have already established family altars, or those contemplating doing so. There is no fear where love is.

Where love is not, discord and clashing reign. It has been said that love conquers all things; but seeing it spent and applied day after day—for years—and seeing the patient that is dosed with the love that conquers yielding not to the medicine, one is inclined to wonder how long it takes LOVE to do its conquering?

How much better this world would be were there more love and its children—patience, consideration, thoughtfulness, gentleness, respect? The clashing, snapping, sour, ill tempered, selfish, narrow minded, little-souled, peevish, grumbling and headstrong dispositions are those that make the world look hard, the neighborhood appear bad, the circle feel uneasy, and home gloomy and a bundle of discords and regrets.

Let love reign in the homes that are, in the homes that are to be, in the neighborhood that is ours.

Nothing smoothes all rough places, tears down barriers and bridges chasms like love.

A Polander living in Meriden, Conn., cured himself of rheumatism the other day with a mixture of his own concoction, composed of equal parts of alcohol, turpentine and camphor. He rubbed it into his legs well. To aid in the penetrating process his wife lighted a torch and held it under his knees. She didn't hold it long for Jumpskyhi, (his name sounded something like that,) was soon dancing around as if he had never been within four hundred miles of the rheumatism. The rheumatism left. No self respecting rheumatism would associate with a man who would treat it that way.

The Virginia penitentiary yielded the state a revenue of $50,000. This is business that is attributed to the magic hand of a flowery, oratorical Governor. Oratory, gay and festive, will accomplish anything.

The proper disposition to make of H H Holmes is to hang him for his Philadelphia crime and suspend proceedings in the other cases during good behavior.

The Duke and the ducats have been made one.

Ever since Bushnell has been spoken of as a Presidential candidate McKinley is disposed to ask for protection.

Farmers are about done sowing wheat. They look forward with joyous anticipations to a good wheat year, hence every foot of land available has been utilized for wheat.

Cotton is about all picked. Gins are still running, but their supply of cotton is waning.

Corn shuckings constitute an important factor in the routine of nightly affairs. Musicians attend these festivals, and extract exquisite and delightful harmony from their instruments.

The writer left Oak Grove recently to remove to the scene of his early boyhood at Locust, where he and Miss Ada Burris will be engaged in teaching the public school at that place.

The public school at the Jerome school house began on the 11th instant under the auspices of Miss Ida Hagler, a most excellent and judicious teacher.

D O Long will sell his personal property on the 20th instant, and, shortly thereafter, remove to the sunny land of Florida, where he may bask in the sunlight of orange groves, and help the hired girls gather oranges. We wish him a successful journey, and extend our sympathies and congratulations in advance.

Some one has hinted that we are living in an age of progress—of social development. We are indeed. We are living in an age in which great men have climbed to the apex of magnificence, exerting an ameliorating influence upon lost and fallen man, and in which nocturnal visitors increase their visits to the hen house. This is an age in which terror reigns supreme. Recently some nightly pedestrians took advantage of the dark nights and clement weather, and relieved some neighbors of their surplus cotton, receiving as a compensation for their service a few weeks in a brick house.

A preacher recently called upon the steward of his church for his salary, but received the complimentary reply that it was impossible to collect the money as members of the order were under arrest for stealing and confined in the county jail.

Protracted meeting at Bethlehem will convene during the following week under the wise leadership of Rev. Morrison, who has acquired much celebrity as a local preacher. For enthusiasm and ardent aspirations he may well be emulated. The writer once heard him deliver thunderbolts to his audience, and his manner excited admiration; for now his voice rose till it seemed that he would almost awaken the sleeping nations, then, again, it was low, soft and gentle, like the murmur of insects, wafted to and fro, by the quite breezes of heaven. F. M. H.

LOSS OF VOICE After Acute Bronchitis CURED BY USING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.

Large profits no longer come from merchandise sold at 50 to 100 per cent. on a credit of from one year to eternity, only four out of every hundred credit merchants ever succeed. We prefer 20 per cent. cash to a struggle with 96 chances against us.

Last Saturday we placed a lot of gingham on sale at 2½ cents per yard and a lot of good towels that we snapped up at 50 cents per dozen that sell regularly at 10 cent each. We marked them 5 cent each. The gingham went before sun-down and the towels before we closed. When we counted out our cash we had our money invested in these and 20 per cent. profit ready to invest again Monday.
