A SUICIDE AT MILWAUKEE.

Peter McGeoch Kills Himself Because His Wife Wanted to Leave Him.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 28.—About 10:30 o'clock this morning Peter McGeoch, who lived opposite the National Soldiers' Home in an elegant mansion, ordered his carriage to go to the city, and then went up stairs. He was not seen alive after that. As he did not appear, the servants became alarmed and instituted a search for him, Miss Annie Beese, who has been a servant in the house for about a year, looked through the keyhole of the bath-room door, which was locked, and saw McGeoch lying on the floor with a revolver in his hand. He had shot himself through the mouth and death was presumably instantaneous. The servants immediately notified Major W W Rowley, quartermaster of the Soldiers' Home, an intimate acquaintance of Mr. McGeoch, who immediately sent for Mr. McGeoch's son, Arthur, who resides in the city. When found Mr. McGeoch had on his business suit and was apparently ready to start for the city. The servants noticed nothing peculiar about his actions before the time.

Mr. McGeoch's suicide is taken to be the result of divorce proceedings begun last Monday by Mrs. McGeoch on the ground of incompatibility of temperament. Mrs. McGeoch was Mrs. Libbey, of Kenwood, a suburb of Chicago, when she met Mr. McGeoch. They were married about eight years ago at the Leland Hotel, Chicago. Since their marriage they have lived at the National avenue homestead of Mr. McGeoch. Mr. McGeoch had three children, a son and two daughters, two after his marriage occupied a house on Grand avenue which their father provided. Since Mrs. McGeoch left the residence one of the daughters, it is understood, has been keeping house for her father.

No man was for years better known on the Chicago and Milwaukee boards of trade than Mr. McGeoch. He was a daring speculator up to the disastrous lard deal of 1883, when he attempted to corner the lard of the country, which scheme failed. Daniel Wells, Jr., of the deal, and a long and acrimonious law suit followed.
