CONCORD, DEC. 7, 1895.

THE OLD NORTH STATE.

Col. A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, who recently made an extensive trip through the South, commenting upon the resources of this State, says:

"The Raleigh News and Observer has issued a Thanksgiving edition of thirty-six pages, devoted to the portrayal of the material progress of the old North State. This issue of our Raleigh contemporary proves the substantial prosperity and growth of the South more conclusively than could be shown in any other way.

"The fact that the cotton factories of North Carolina are today more than five times in number what they were before the war, and the fact that they have more than doubled within the last five years, present the steady and substantial growth of the industries of that State in the clearest manner; and this issue of the News and Observer, illustrated as it is not only with the leading factories of the State but with portraits of the active men in all the varied industries which have been so rapidly advancing, is the most eloquent tribute to the solid progress of North Carolina that has ever been presented.

"The only feature of North Carolina's advantages over many States is given just prominence in this issue is the inviting field opened by that State for agricultural emigration both from abroad and from the North. There is no better State in the South, and none in the West that approaches it, in its many superior inducements of men who desire to till the soil. Considering the genial climate, cheap lands, the abundant timber and water, and the proximity to markets, North Carolina is second to no State of the Union in offering the richest rewards to agricultural emigrants."

Hon. Stephen Clay, a prominent lawyer and ex-Speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives, recently had the misfortune to incur the displeasure of a citizen against whom he was employed in a law-suit and received from the latter a call to the field for a settlement of the "affair" according to the code. To this Mr. Clay replied, declaring that he was opposed to dueling because it was condemned by every principle of our laws and every doctrine of our religion; that he had a wife and dependent little ones, who had higher claims on him than his challenger, who himself had neither a family nor a future, and nothing to risk but a life without ties or associations to make it worth living.

The latest story of a wondrous gold find in Alaska is of a lake whose bed is literally paved deep with gold dust. The lake is 100 yards long, 400 yards wide and 150 feet deep. It is fed by water from a glacier, and its only outlet is a little stream two feet deep, but of incredible swiftness. The assay of the sand which a sea captain brought to Seattle recently showed $8 to $10 a cubic yard, and on this basis a man alone could take of $10,000 a year.

Mrs. Helen Morris Lewis, of Asheville, who is the president of the North Carolina Woman's Equal Rights Association, says that 1896 will be a year of great importance to the woman's suffrage movement in this State. It would really be interesting to know in what way.

If a writer in the Titusville, Fla., Advocate isn't stretching it, banana growing in the Indian River section is a daisy business. He tells of a planter who cut 1,400 bunches from one acre of land and netted $700 on them, which is doing reasonably well for one acre.

Alex Adkins, of Wilkes, has just married his fourth wife. He is forty-six years of age. On his first bridal tour he and his wife fell five hundred feet down the side of Stone mountain. She was killed. His escape was miraculous.

A Negro Hanged.

CHESTER, S. C., Dec. 6.—Charles Lloyd, the negro who killed young Willie Welsh at the Haile Gold Mine, Lancaster county, was hanged here today in the county jail. The drop fell at 11:38 and Lloyd was pronounced dead by Dr. Brice in 26 minutes. The readers of the STANDARD will remember that, owing to rumors that Lloyd would be lynched in Lancaster, Solicitor Henry secured a change of venue and the prisoner was brought here for trial. He was convicted at the October term of court and today suffered the full penalty of the law.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any reason, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at Fetzer's drug store.

A SPECIFIC

FOR
La Grippe, for Colds, Coughs,
AND LUNG TROUBLES,
AYER'S CHERRY
PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.
