Caught a Tiger.

Sheriff John A Sims and chief of police Boger made a raid upon several suspected 'blind tigers' Tuesday. John Williams, an old negro living on the hill beyond the depot, was arrested and placed under a $200 bond for his appearance at court.

Henry Morrison, another suspected "dead game" fiddler and whiskey peddler was pulled this (Wednesday) morning, but was released for the lack of evidence to convict, the only witness having disappointed the officers by not putting in his appearance.

It is now only a matter of time until others will be run in for lack of offense.

Complete It Stands.

The additional mill to the Cannon plant is now complete, with the exception of the placing of a little more machinery. Up stairs, or in the second story, are the spinning frames and in the lower room the looms will be stationed.

Contractor Brown Tuesday completed the brick work and the engine was fired up for the first time. A great volume of smoke was seen issuing from the new stack, which was a beckon for the public to "look for me" regularly in the near future.

Here With His Christmas Turkeys.

Old Andy, who was the late Dr. Columbus Mills' body servant, was in town today, with his usual wagon load of Christmas turkeys. He says that Mrs. Mills is now living in Atlanta with Mrs. Dr. John Cureton, who keeps a hotel on South Pryor street. When Mrs. Mills went there, she took old Andy's wife with her, and Andy himself got back last week after a six week's visit to "old Misses." Andy and his wife were faithful servants in Dr. Mills' household, and after the Doctor's death, Mrs. Mills gave the old darkeys a farm with wagons and stock and a good house, out of a portion of Dr. Mills' plantation at Poplar Tent. Only a Dream.

In dreams I was a child again and wore my ironers short, and royed the delis and plucked the flowers and heard the birds cavort. I lived again the pleasant gone, when I was young and fair; and slept once more in youthful sleep unknown to care. I lounged again beneath the oak, its genial boughs and shade, and hailed once more the sacred spots whereon I've played and played. Soft voices sung the songs I knew so many years ago; I seemed again to see the forms of those I used to know; to walk with her, the one I loved, down by the chanting streams; to gaze again upon the form, I see, but in my dreams I tread once more the youthful paths, so free from thorns and briars; I rose again at my father's voice and built the morning fires; I saw again the faces dear, in days of happy youth, when I a lad and just a boy would always tell the truth. I dreamed of friends, I dreamed of youth, of prunes, and then I woke—to rustle round and borrow money to get my duds from soak.—Ex.

December and May to Wed.

Saturday a marriage license was issued from the register's office for Col. R J Mitchell, of Oxford, and Miss Florence Bowden, daughter of Mr. U T Bowden, of Statesville. Col. Mitchell gave his age as 67, although it is stated that he was a soldier in the Mexican war. The young lady's age is 26.

Just when the marriage is to take place could not be learned yesterday. The Landmark inquired of the bride's father, but the question was the first intimation he had had that the license had been issued or that the marriage was to take place. He was very much surprised but did not say that he would put any obstacles in the way of the union. Col. Mitchell has been Mr. Bowden's guest for some days and has for years been intimate with the family, but Mr. Bowden had never looked upon him in the light of a prospective son-in-law.

Col. Mitchell is said to be a wealthy and prominent citizen of Oxford. He is a widower and has a number of married daughters.—Statesville Landmark.

Cupid's Dart.

On Tuesday afternoon Zillie Griffin returned to her looms after a thrilling experience in her flight from her work to the protecting care of her lover only a few brief hours previous, but determined was she to wed on yesterday, that being the date set, William V Snider from whom she was taken while day was breaking during the early morn.

About 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Snider droyed up in front of the Odell mills a second time, beckoned for his girl, who flew to him, and they sped away to the quiet little town of Mr. Peasant, where they were married last night at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. B S Bown. They returned to the city this (Wednesday) morning.

No Food; No Water.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 16.—Captain Dunn, of the British steamship Lord Rne, from Swansea, yesterday brought into port James Brooks, of Liverpool, a survivor of the American ship Belle O'Brien, which foundered off the English coast. Another seaman, who was picked up at the same time, died and was buried at sea. A third man went crazy from hunger and thirst and jumped overboard.

The man had been without food or water for ten days when they were picked up.

Brooks states that the Belle O'Brien was abandoned on Nov. 20, when she was nearly full of water. What became of the captain and other members of the crew he does not know.

Captian Dunn reports that Brooks had been confined in bed since he he was picked up, and it is said he cannot live.

The Great Tobacco War

Many of our readers know of the war existing between the manufacturers of plug chewing tobacco, but few, perhaps, are familiar with the cause.

For years some manufacturers have been making enormous profits by giving consumers a small piece of plug for ten cents. Recently a very large manufacturer, seeing that the time had come for better things, has placed a new brand called Battle Ax on the market, which gives the consumer a very large piece of the most excellent quality for the same price. This has raised a great storm among those who are hurt by it, but it gives joy to those who use the goods. In Battle Ax they get a greater quantity for their money, while the quality is equal to the finest of other brands. This has naturally had the effect of greatly decreasing the business of those who have held to the old way, and it has materially curtailed their enormous profits. On the other hand Battle Ax now takes the resources of three large factories, which, by running night and day, are still unable to make the goods fast enough to satisfy the enthusiastic demand.

The people want a good thing and the most of it they can get for the price. The manufacturers who do the best by them will get their trade. The rivals naturally do not like it. They raise a mighty howl, but the Ax will cut them down.

The Festival.

The hose and reel company are thankful for the abundant donations for their festival tomorrow (Thursday) night, but any one that has been missed by the solicitors and wish to give anything can send it to the Litaker building or hail the hacks that will be gathering it up tomorrow afternoon.

We are requested to ask all the ladies that will assist the firemen to meet at the Litaker store room Thursday (tomorrow) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Snapper and oysters be served, beginning at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Everybody should patronize the firemen.

The string band will furnish music from 7:30 o'clock until a late hour. Everybody is invited.
