WE ARE IN IT.

The consummation of electoral fusion is not surprising to anyone probably. It has been clearly seen that the advocates of free coinage have become so enthused as to make that the one and almost the only consideration till all protests against fusion have been ignored.

We would gladly wash our hands of all taint of fusion, but believing as we do that corrupting and treacherous influences are working with fearful power to defeat the majority of North Carolina voters and turn the vote for McKinley and the defeat of a vote for free coinage to which the people of the State are entitled, and assuming no responsibility in shaping what we believe is not the best course, still we certainly have no choice left but to do whatever at the time of election seems to us to be the best course to secure North Carolina's real wishes in the electoral college. Indifference or withdrawals by Democrats now will hardly improve the party for another time and the triumph of perfidy, corruption and villainy would gather strength for future efforts. It is a time to be considerate and to be sure that our actions are not governed by any ambition but the highest public welfare and self-denying patriotism.

We call attention of our Populist friends to the speech of Mr. W H Kitchen here two years ago when he was new in the Populist ranks. He pleased you wonderfully we thought when he almost skinned Cleveland and Democracy generally. Now he is skinning your man Butler with equal vehemence. You believed he was right then, what do you think now? He charges Mr. Butler with very bad faith in manœuvring to send gold standard men to Congress. Just watch Mr. Butler if you please and if there is not sufficient evidence, let Mr. Kitchen's strictures recoil on his own head and, if his charges are sustained, know that Mr. Butler is not a safe leader.

BISMARCK FOR BIMETALLISM

A Letter to Gov. Culberson, of Texas.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 20.—In a speech here last night Goy. Culberson read the following correspondence between himself and Prince Bismarck on the money question:

Sir: The great question of finance is now of supreme interest to the people of the United States. It is presented in various forms, but in a general way it may be said to be first, whether the United States shall adopt the single gold standard, or second, whether they shall adopt bimetalism with both gold and silver as the standard or primary money.

The argument in favor of each is well known to you, but it is particularly insisted that we should adopt the policy of bimetalism because the supply of gold in the world for coinage is insufficient to meet the demands, and because such a standard will still further depress the values of all property.

Which, in your judgement, is the best policy to adopt, the gold standard or bimetalism?

What effect, in your judgement, will the immediate adoption of bimetalism by the United States have on the cause of bimetalism in Germany and other great commercial nations? O A CULBERSON, Governor of Texas.

In reply Prince Bismarck says: Friedrichruh, Aug. 24, 1896.

Honored Sir: Your esteemed favor has been duly received. I hold that this is the very hour that would be advisable to bring about between the nations chiefly engaged in the world's commerce a mutual agreement in favor of the establishment of bimetalism.

The United States are freer by far in their movements than any nation of Europe, and hence if the people of the United States should find it compatible with their interests to take independent action in the direction of bimetalism, I can not but believe that such action would exert a most salutary influence upon the consummation of international agreement. BISMARCK.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillotte, Druggist, at Beaverville, Ill., says: To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it. Get a free trial at Fetzler's Drug Store.

She Takes Care of Mr. Bryan.

A correspondent of the N. Y. World writing about Mrs. Bryan's solicitude for her husband, tells this:

She watches her husband with fierce vigilance. She won't let him sit in the sun, and she marches him off to his meals, willy nilly.

"It's bad enough for him to get his food on the installment plan," she said, when they had left breakfast three times to go out and be cheered and speechified and welcomed; "but food he must have, committees or no committees."

She will not discuss politics. She will not talk about this State or that State. She hopes her husband will be elected. She says she does not think it would be any fun at all to be mistress at the White House. She says she could have a good deal better time in many ways if her husband was defeated, and for all that she hopes he will not be defeated.

"People are always asking me what is the secret of my husband's popularity," she said today. "They do not seem to realize that he represents a great principle. It isn't Bryan these people cheer; it's the things he represents."

"Some people call it magnetism," said "a man with a note book."

"Perhaps they do," Mrs. Bryan said quietly. "I call it truth, and an honest purpose in speaking it. That's the kind of magnetism I believe in."

The Same... Old Sarsaparilla.

That's Ayer's. The same old sarsaparilla as it was made and sold by Dr. J. C. Ayer 50 years ago. In the laboratory it is different. There modern appliances lend speed to skill and experience. But the sarsaparilla is the same old sarsaparilla that made the record—50 years of cures. Why don't we better it? Well, we're much in the condition of the Bishop and the raspberry: "Doubtless," he said, "God might have made a better berry. But doubtless, also, He never did." Why don't we better the sarsaparilla? We can't. We are using the same old plant that cured the Indians and the Spaniards. It has not been bettered. And since we make sarsaparilla compound out of sarsaparilla plant, we see no way of improvement. Of course, if we were making some secret chemical compound we might... But we're not. We're making the same old sarsaparilla to cure the same old diseases. You can tell it's the same old sarsaparilla because it works the same old cures. It's the sovereign blood purifier, and—It's Ayer's.
