The Sermon Paid the Debt.

Rev. D G Phillips, D. D., of Louisville, Ga., one of the most learned and eloquent of all ministers of the Associated Reformed Presbyterian church, died last week in his eighty-third year. He was educated at Due West in the early forties with money loaned by a Col. William Johnston, of Dallas county, Ala., who took a note from the young man for the amount expended, intending that he should be paid when the young man earned the money; but Col. Johnston, hearing the young minister preach at a meeting of the synod held in Alabama a few weeks after his licensure, was so pleased that he gave the note back to the young man, telling him that his sermon had fully paid the debt, and that he owed him nothing more.—Abbeville (S. C.) Press and Banner.

Dreyfus Leaves With Wounded Honor.

Dreyfus departed from Rennes in secret as was expected. His destiny is not known but there is some reason to believe that he will come to America. He is sore as any one else would be and thus pours out his heartaches:

"The government of the republic has given me my liberty. But liberty is nothing to me without honor. From today I shall continue to seek the reparation for the frightful judicial error of which I remain a victim. I wish France to know by a definite judgement that I am innocent. My heart will only be at rest when there remains not a single Frenchman who imputes to me the abominable crime perpetrated by another."

Again comes the chilling dispatch that he has little promise of survival of more than a few months from physical wreck.
