THE METEORIC SHOWERS.

What One From the Lowe Conservatory Says About Them—This Month the Time for Them.

In speaking of the meteoric showers which can be seen on the nights of the 15th and 16th of this month, the following is taken from a member of the Lowe conservatory. Of one of the periods in the past he describes it thus:

"Not one was seen to reach the earth, though many were very bright. The sky was very clear and the moon absent. It was a rain storm without a cloud, lightning without thunder. What made the deepest impression upon my youthful mind was the death-like silence above and around me. Seeing such a display of energy going on and hearing no noise the silence was as depressing and solemn as in a room of the dead.

"The shower was not visible in this country in 1866, but was on the eastern continent. On November 15, 1867, while the earth was passing through one end of the dense swarm, having the previous year passed through its center, I expected something of a display, and was not disappointed for I counted nearly 1,100, the greatest number was seen in the southeast and northwest with very short trails. The line must be sharply drawn between shooting stars and bolides, from some of which heavy masses fall to the earth called meteorites, or meteoric stones. On the other hand no shooting star has ever been known to reach the earth, the encounter with, and friction of the atmosphere, instantly reducing them to vapor.

"Many meteoric showers are known. Prof. Denning, of England, our best authority on meteoric astronomy, enumerates some 200 or more. This Leonid shower, as it is called, will repeat itself again, commencing a little after midnight of November 15, lasting till dawn, and not on the 14th as some have published. There is a bare possibility that it may be on the morning of the 16th. It would be well, however, to begin the watch on the 14th.

Critical Now in South Africa.

There is a crisis in the South African seat of war. News dispatches are somewhat conflicting, but they warrant the greatest English solicitude for General White. He is greatly outnumbered and the Boers are aiming to get in the rear. Indeed, communications were cut off about 2:30 on the 2nd. The Boers are said to be bending their efforts to destroy the bridge at Colenso, which is General White's only means of retreat or of reinforcements.

Important events are probably transpiring today.
