Living on Their Noses.

There are some 300 men in England whose sense of smell is so developed that they can discriminate between odors which offer no distinctions to an uneducated nose. They are employed by the manufacturing chemists, tea importers and the large wine and liquor establishments. A perfectly trained nose is necessary to those whose business is the compounding, blending and testing of perfumes and essences.

The most curious point about these people who live on their noses is that the majority are totally blind. The reason is that when any person loses one sense the other senses are more fully developed. These men travel about from merchant to merchant, generally earning between $300 and $400 a year.—Stray Stories.

Her Mother Dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Loman left Tuesday night for Salisbury. The news came that afternoon that Mrs. Loman's mother, Mrs. Eagle, died that afternoon.

Every Word the Truth

Adam Bede (not George Eliot's Adam, but the editor of Bed's Monthly) is of the opinion that most writers write too much, most talkers talk too much, most fools fool too much, most governors govern too much, most partners part too much, and, in fact it is the muchness of things earthly that makes us long for the balm in Gilead and the sweet fields beyond life's turbid tide.—Union Central Advocate.

It will not be a surprise to any who are at all familiar with good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, to know that people everywhere take pleasure in relating their experience in the use of that splendid medicine and in telling of the benefit they have received from it. Of bad colds it has cured, of threatened attacks of pneumonia, it has averted and of the children it has saved from attacks of croup and whooping cough. It is a grand, good medicine. For sale by M. L. Marsh & Co.

GLORIOUS NEWS

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent. This shows that thousands have proved that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, help digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold at Fetzter's Drug Store."
