

It will not be a surprise to any who are at all familiar with good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, to know that people everywhere take pleasure in relating their experience in the use of that splendid medicine and in telling of the benefit they have received from it, of bad colds it has cured, of threatened attacks of pneumonia it has averted and of the children it has saved from attacks of croup and whooping cough. It is a grand, good medicine.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will all ways have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly, and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvet skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50c. at Fezer's Drug Store.

Ways of the Dutch.

The four Sundays of November are observed as fete days in Holland. They are known by the curious names, Review, Decision, Purchase and Possession, and all refer to matrimonial affairs. November in Holland being the month par excellence devoted to courtship and marriages, probably because the agricultural occupations of the year are over, and possibly because the lords of creation, from quite remote antiquity, have recognized the pleasantness of having wives to cook and cater for them during the long Winter. On Review Sunday everybody goes to church, and after service there is a church parade in every village, when the youths and maidens gaze upon each other, but forbear to speak. On Decision Sunday each bachelor who is seeking a wife approaches the maiden of his choice with a ceremonious bow, and from her manner of responding judges whether his advances are acceptable. Purchase Sunday, the consent of the parent is sought if the suit has prospered during the week. Not till Possession Sunday, however, do the twain appear before the world as actual or prospective bride and groom.—Selected.

The Fragments There Yet.

The fragments of Ferguson's fake show are here yet, though most of the crowd expect to get away tonight. Some of them are left in pretty bad shape, but if Chief Scott will but turn them loose for a day or two it can be safely put down that they will get out of town without assistance.

As a set of fakirs they are away ahead, but he watches them so closely that they have not been able to turn a wheel.—Greensboro Record.

PAUL JONES' GRAVE FOUND.

A Philadelphia Times Man Discovers It in Northeast Paris Under a House.

The burial place of John Paul Jones, the naval hero of the American Revolution, has been found by your special commissioner after two months' conscientious search, involving extended quest through the records of the Hotel des Invalides and manuscript archives in the Library of France.

The grave of the American hero and the present resting place of his bones, or dust, is under the small house at No. 1 Rue Ecluses Martin, in northeastern Paris, just back of the Eastern Railway station (Gare de l'Est). When the house was built the greatest care was taken not to disturb the grave.

As its name implies, the little street was formerly a sluiceway or open drain that carried surface water to the canal Saint Martin at that point that is now the Quai de Valney.

The stumbling block to all previous research has been the confusion regarding the date of Paul Jones's death. This year special commissioner has cleared up. John Paul Jones died on July 18, 1792, and the body was placed in a receiving vault, in old Paris, believed to have been attached to the Hotel des Invalides at that time, where it reposed until September 12, of the same year, when it was removed with great ceremony and borne in state to the Cemetery of Foreign Protestants, in the then northeastern suburbs of Paris. It may be stated with absolute positiveness that Jones' body never was interred in Picpus or Mont Parnasso Cemeteries. The act of placing the remains temporarily in a vault near or at the Hotel des Invalides undoubtedly explains the misinformation that has existed on the subject.

The American naval hero was a pet of France and was given a national funeral, one of the period, M. Marron, delivering a eulogy at the graveside. A deputation of the National Assembly attended, and its members uncovered when the body was lowered.

The grave is distinctly marked. Paul Jones was buried with a sword and the accoutrements of his rank as an admiral. Several of the swords given him are in the United States, but this one is on record as being inscribed.

An application from the American ambassador to the owners of the property, No. 1 Rue Ecluses Martin, will secure prompt permission to open the grave.—Special Cable, 5th, to Philadelphia Times.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others Why Not You?

My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well. For sale by M. L.
