MURDERING NAVY NOT ALLOWED

The charge is made public against Col. Merrill of the 20th Kansas Infantry, that in the battle of Manassas he shot and killed a white soldier, who was at the time a disarmed prisoner. The Colonel denies it, but it will be investigated. It makes no little noise. Whether or not Col. Merrill is guilty the lively sensation it precludes the idea that our soldiers are a set of unscrupulous, savage-like warriors over whom as some of the sensational papers had it before Gen. Faneuil rose and denied it. We think it safe to presume that the soldier who murders or brutally treats a Filipino will win the condemnation, scorn and contempt of all proud and noble American soldiers.

MRS. JAMES WRIGHT DEAD.

Third Stroke of Paralysis on Fourth Anniversary of First—A Most Exemplary Character.

Mrs. James Wright, of near Enochville, whose serious illness was noted a few days since, died at 8:45 o'clock Tuesday night.

Just four years ago to the day she was stricken with paralysis. Some two weeks ago she suffered another stroke which admonished all that the end was near. The final stroke ended her sufferings on Tuesday. She was 65 years old.

She leaves a sorrowing husband and four children viz: Prof. E. W. Wright and Mr. J. A. Wright and Mrs. Allen Sloop, Mrs. J. C. Deaton and Miss Nellie Wright and also a brother, Mr. Ephraim O. Greenish, and sister, Mrs. Susan Deal, to mourn her loss while they cherish the fond memory of a most exemplary and lovable character.

She was a shining light in the membership of St. Enoch's Church where her funeral will take place on Thursday at 10 o'clock.

It is well with the righteous when they die.

Where There is Life There is Hope.

I was afflicted with catarrh; my taste neither taste nor smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus G. Shantz, Rahway, N. J.

The Balm reached me safely and the effect is surprising. My son says the first application gave decided relief. Respectfully, Mrs. Franklin Freeman, Dover, N. H.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by drug gists at 25 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

—Mr. C. H. Birdsall, of Scranton, Pa., the special friend of Rev. W. C. Alexander, arrived this morning prepared to try the sports of our Southern fields.

HAPPENINGS AT MT. PLEASANT.

A False Report—A Correction and Other Interesting News. Written for The Standard.

MT. PLEASANT, Nov. 21.—Mrs. L. A. Lentz and daughter, Miss Ella, of Norwood, visited relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

Messrs. Lee and Pines Barnhardt, of Norwood, were guests at the Welsh hotel Sunday.

Rev. Cordell, of the Methodist church here, preached his farewell sermon Sunday night. He reports a very pleasant and fruitful work while on this charge. He expects, and is expected, to return after Conference, or at least he was given a "pounding" Monday night, such as has not been witnessed here for a number of years.

The pulpit of this place has announced a union Thanksgiving service to be held in the Lutheran church.

The entertainment last Saturday evening was quite a success. It consisted of songs, recitations, tableaux and short plays. It was a departure from the old, solid way our entertainments generally are, and was rich, rare and racy. As an evidence of appreciation it has been called for, and will be given next Friday night, with a number of substitutions.

Israel Miller, colored, and Will Parks, colored, were arraigned before Capt. Cook yesterday morning for stealing a pair of suspenders. Parks not being found guilty, Miller paid the cost.

Tom Petrea, son of Motion Petrea, used language not exactly consistent with our town ordinance Saturday evening to the amount of two dollars, which some of his friends paid before taking him out of town.

We wish to correct an error in THE STANDARD of the 20th, in regard to the smallpox scare. The victim of the supposed disease was Mr. DeBerry Barringer, and not a negro, as that issue stated. Although it was not a case of smallpox, we are assured that Mr. Barringer was partially covered with "shingles."

A number of our young men spent the day in Gold Hill Sunday. It is reported that several of them were drunk, which report, we wish to say, is absolutely false. "Isn't it strange" how some people will let their imaginations get the best of them?

The Masons of this place are making some improvements in the lodge room by having it nicely painted and the windows frosted. State Grand Lecturer Benjamin W. Hatcher, will probably be here in the near future.

The Newspaper Representatives Here.

The meeting of the Methodist Conference always means work for the newspaper people as their sessions are of interest to people throughout the western part of the State. The Charlotte Observer is represented by Miss Marie Bays, and the Charlotte News by Mr. D. H. Littlejohn. Mr. Samuel Adams, who is correspondent for a number of papers and who is connected with the Christian Advocate, is also here. THE STANDARD is represented by its local editor, Wade Barrier.

Wade Barrier, prove the great merit of Dr. King's Sarsaparilla. Good's Sarsaparilla will not do. It accomplishes GREAT RESULTS.

THE SESSION OPENS.

1839 when he was received in its connection.

Of the living who worshipped in the first church he enumerated Capt. J. M. and Mrs. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Murr, Mrs. Rich (now the oldest citizen in the town) and Mrs. Hill.

In closing, some sketches of early pastors added interest and sometimes a vein of decided pleasantry to the narrative. For instance the Rev. Mr. Derrick was stopping with a family for the night. Thinking he did not understand the German they said things, not intended for his ears, in that language. After reading a chapter that night he made the evening prayer in German.

When Rev. Arnold closed, the president introduced the Rev. Paul J. Carroway, the presiding elder of the Winston district, who was asked to make a semi-centennial address, he having been in the ministry for fifty years.

His address was all full of interest, bristling with incidents of a humorous nature.

He is a man preeminently for the present and its opportunities but being called upon thus, he thought it well enough in the interests of the memory of former presiding elders to dwell chiefly on the lives and incidents of several of this class. The Rev. James Reid received a good share of his discourse, also Rev. Robt I. Carson.

The speaker said that he could not realize that he is old but he was really older than the body or organization to which he belongs and he deplored a division in the organic body to which he is a living witness. In noting the departure of several of the sainted he referred to their reunion where there is no Mason and Dixon's line.

He deplored the decadence of the good old Methodist ways of well-attended and notable quarterly conferences, the class meeting, the kneeling in prayer before taking one's seat in church and the bodily discipline of fasting, but he finds much more in the progressive Methodism of today that is cause for rejoicing and encouragement. The old style of shouting all day and giving nothing at night was now replaced with a zeal for sending the gospel over the world. He was glad that there are finer and more attractive churches and advances all along the lines of the upbuilding.

The speaker's peroration glowed with eloquent power.

The president then announced a committee on nominations of officers for the society for the ensuing year, said committee to report at some period of the present conference.

The meeting closed with hymn and benediction.
