ANOTHER SAM HOSE CASE.

Richard Coleman Burned at the Stake By a Kentucky Mob—Brutal Crime and Horrible Vengeance.

Vengeance came to Richard Coleman on Wednesday, the 6th, at Maysville, Ky., a repetition of the Sam Hose tragedy at New-non, Ga. Coleman was the trusted negro employe of Mr. James Lashbrook. He asked Mrs. Lashbrook to step into his cabin and see some work he had been doing. He then locked the door and began to execute his foul purpose. She screamed and the usual result followed. He cut her throat with a razor, and later beat her head with an axe till he silenced her groans.

He then washed the blood off himself, as he thought, and reported to the husband that some one had killed Mrs. Lashbrook. This was about two months ago.

"Murder will out," and he was soon in jail. He was taken to Covington for safe keeping. He finally confessed the whole crime and only seemed overcome when he was handcuffed to be taken back for trial.

A resistless mob met the sheriff before the jail and the wretch was taken to a place appointed. On the way he was struck with sticks, whips and stones, till he was half dead when he was tied to a tree. Brush, wood and various combustible matter were piled around him and the avenging husband struck the first match. Other relatives struck matches and he was soon roasted.

He begged piteously for speedy death, but no merciful shot was fired. Female relatives and friends looked on with approval and hailed the scene as greater security for them.

The leaders are known, as no disguises were worn.

All the day the body lay on the coals and ashes, and even the children gathered grass and sticks, which they threw on to keep the fire going.

The leaders will doubtless be prosecuted and Gov. Bradley has announced that he will offer a reward.

SAD ACCIDENT.

The Two and a Half Year Old Child of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Isehour Burned to Death.

The two and a half year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B Isehour of No. 7 township was fatally burned Tuesday evening and died Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock. We learn that the child had been corrected and even punished by its mother for playing in the fire. Not suspecting it would return immediately to the danger, the mother went to the barn and was milking the cow when she saw the child on the porch with its clothes burning.

Before she could rescue it the flames had been inhaled. The distressed mother wrapped the child up in some bedding and hastened to call her husband who was some distance away. On returning she found the little sufferer had scrambled out and had gone into its little bed. Medical aid could not save it from the effects.

It was buried today (Thursday) at St. Stephens, Rev. Steffey conducting the services.

Much sympathy is due to these distressed parents.
