GOD'S HAND IN IT.

Dr. Kilgo in his address to the township Sunday school convention Sunday night prefaced his remarks on the Sunday school as an important factor in disseminating Bible truths and thereby in the civilizing and Christianizing of the world, with a brief rehearsal of our late fast history-making period.

He said President Cleveland did not want to get into war with Spain over Cuban affairs; that President McKinley was equally anxious to avert the war, but an evil, a calamity, a great crime was perpetrated. It led to the conflict and to a complete change in Spanish power and to methods and chances for developments in Cuba. Dewey sailed into Manila Bay to conquer an enemy of his country. Responsibility came with his victory. The late troubles in China brought the banners of civilization to the heart of that old nation shut up for thousands of years against the Bible and its influence.

It has been a time for making history and opening the way for the work for which the Sunday school stands. You may call these transpirings by whatever name you please, but he sees in it the hand that made and rules the world and that hand is opening the door to a more rapid introduction of the Bible with its enlightening and Christianizing power.

It is needless to say that these are not the doctor's words but his ideas clothed in our own language.

It seems to the writer so manifestly correct and, in the light of Bible history and teaching, so incontrovertible that the manner in which these things are treated by writers and speakers seems an actual repudiation of all idea of an overruling Providence in the affairs of men.

The Christian is often dazed at the slow processes of Christianizing the world and, when the powers of hiding government are broken so as to make way for greater progress, we are ready to cry out against a few attendant evils more than those a hundred-fold greater, and that, without the instrument of war used from the earliest ages of the world to effect revolutions for the better, would probably have continued with but meagre mitigation for centuries yet in the future.

THAT WANTON WICKED FOLLY.

It is not absolutely unaccountable for a man to commit murder, personal injury or even rape. He may plead the temporary power of passions given to humanity for wise purposes. The thief and the robber may plead inadequate talents for securing a competence in this close competitive world. The profaner of the Sacred name and day may plead habit which is not expected to injure self or any one else. The firebug, that burns the property of the victim of his hate, finds something to plead in justification of his terrible deed. But we have a class (we hope it is small) for whose wanton deeds the writer can find no excuse or palliation. It is the class that stands at some advantageous point and hurls missiles at a passing train.

The perpetrator forgets, or does not care to know, that his own friend, if he has any, may be the victim of his wantonness. The infant in its mother's bosom may be hit. The aged and feeble are equally exposed. Somebody suffers pain and loving ones are outraged while bending over the unfortunate victim of the cruel and the objectless crime.

The perpetrator of such deed has less claim for protection against a mob than probably all others. No punishment in the catalogue of penalties can be too severe. Indeed, if the perpetrator should be declared an outlaw and beyond the hands of the law's protection it would be not more than the merits of justice. It is a terrible evil and a most heinous piece of folly.

We appeal to parents to be interested that their boys are not guilty and we implore all lovers of humanity to exercise their influences against this foolish crime that is so hard to grapple with except by a popular verdict that it shall not be committed in our midst.

A Good Cough Medicine.

Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all treatment for many years have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has been restored. Cases that seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale a Marsh's drug store.

There is no killing the suspicion that deceit has once begotten.—George Eliot.

Much the Same.

If he grasps you by the hand
And you fail to understand
Why he should be so cordial,
When you can't recall his name;
If his smile is most benign
And he gives you every sign
Of delight at having found you,
You may wonder what's his game.
Lest suspicion make him worse
Than he is, I write this verse
To explain his cordial manner
and his conduct so elate;
He is hot a bunco-steerer,
Though perhaps he's rather nearer.
Than he'd like to be confessing,
for he is a candidate.
