MORE ABOUT WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

We think we have before explained to our readers in a comprehensive way the nature of the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy. It will be recalled that from some elevated point there is a stroke by electricity that produces a wave of ether which fills space in inverse proportion to the density of the air. Therefore the higher the point from which the operation takes place, the purer the ether is, that is the freer from air, and the further the ether waves will vibrate, for it is like dropping a pebble into the lake, which produces waves that reach to the bank.

But the point which we started out to note is that Marconi has made another wonderful stride in his invention. He has learned how to make wireless telegraphy keep its own secrets. Heretofore any one having an instrument could catch the message sent out. This would be very undesirable in time of war, when the enemy might catch messages not intended for his ears. Even if given in cipher it would be dangerous, for there are experts at unraveling cipher telegrams. But Marconi has invented a kind of instrument by which only certain receivers can respond. The sending and receiving instruments are especially adapted so that no one can get the message not specially intended for the receiver for which it is intended. Thus this great obstacle is overcome, but the delicate construction of the instrument seems to one not understanding it a much greater mystery than the wireless telegraphy itself.

With this grand scientific achievement it will be possible to communicate with vessels on the sea and keep in communication with friends in a community too hostile for wires and posts. Marconi has surmounted a great difficulty in his way. If he can continue to overcome space till he practically annihilates it it would seem that it will transplant the present system of telegraphy.

Greensboro has really a water famine. Mayor Taylor has issued an official warning that the quantity in the reservoir is so low as to be unfit for domestic purposes and warns citizens against its use. The conditions are only temporary he says. What would be the result if a fire wafted by brisk breezes should occur in our poorly watered towns is a matter for serious consideration.

Mr. Gallup has been nominated for treasurer of Connecticut. It would seem that he should be able to make a good race, but it might be a permanent loss to the State if he should keep going after he gets possession of the cash.—Charlotte News.

[No one ever heard of a treasurer or cashier galloping away with the funds, brother. They sometimes fly.]

Awful Work of an Insane Man.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 10.—A horrible quadruple tragedy occurred at West Station, five miles north of here, this morning. George W. Moore, a prominent merchant of the place, who has been suffering with periods of insanity for some time, administered strichnine to his wife and two children, telling them it was quinine to keep off chills. Within a few minutes all three were dead.

Moore then took a pistol and fired two bullets through his own heart, falling to the floor across the dead body of one of his little children.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Holloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale at Marsh's drug store.

The wise man has his follies no less than the fool; but it has been said that herein lies the difference—the follies of the fool are known to the world, but are hidden from himself; the follies of the wise man are known to himself, but hidden from the world.—Selected.

HEART TO SOUL.

Said a woman's Soul to a woman's Heart:
"I shall live forever, but dust thou art;
And despite the fires to-day that burn,
To-morrow thou'lt die and to dust return."

But the Heart replied to the Soul and said:
"Though alive to-day and to-morrow dead,
My day of life, is worth to me Thy endless years of eternity."

"For I live and love and suffer woe—

Though thou liv'st forever thou canst not know.

And my day of life be bitter or sweet,

No final reckoning have I to meet.

"The flowers will bloom from my dust and sing,

"From a Heart that lived but a days wee spring."

And I laugh and love and sin, and say:

"It does not matter, the Soul shall pay."

Staunch Young Democrat.

The following effort by a mountaineer boy of 11½ years seems creditable as his first effort and has been offered to us by a friend from the "land of the sky:"

I am a Democratic boy
Whom Republicans try to annoy,
And when they are beaten in the trial
They force a word in swift denial.

Then they try to change me, by and by,
But 'tis of no use for them to try;
I'll live to be twenty-one, I hope,
Then I'll put in a Democratic vote.

Now, Republicans, I'll make a request,
And see whether you can stand the test:
Can you tell what good you've ever done?
None of you can tell us, no, not one.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio.
