MURDEROUS FANATICISM.

What is to be done about it when people become fanatical on the subject of Christian science and refuse to allow the administration of remedies placed in the world as a means of relief of the suffering and helpless? Murderous religious fanaticism would seem not an inappropriate name for it.

A case in point is that of Henry Parsons, a boy of 11 years, who died in New Bern on the 8th. He had malarial fever, which is quite curable, but he lay under the treatment of a Christian Scientist without medical aid for two weeks and died. A jury of inquest was held over him and its findings were that he suffered from improper treatment and neglect and that he would most probably have recovered if he had had proper treatment. The grand jury will be called upon to consider the case.

Any punishment that the courts may inflict will raise a howl of religious persecution and it is most probable that this fact will largely restrain to some extent the action of the courts.

Life-saving crews, fire-fighters, detectives and others go to wonderful extents to save human life, and we prosecute and sue capitalists for great sums of money if any evil befalls an employe through a little neglect for the safety of all about them, but in the name of religion all kinds of wrong against humanity, even to the loss of life, may be practiced and we are loath to vindicate human suffering and death lest we be violating the principles of religious freedom.

There is a mystical line between religious freedom and abuse that it were well enough to scrutinize that the former may be maintained and the latter suppressed.

Mr. Bryan's Defence of North Carolina.

In the course of an address in Chicago Mr. Bryan commented upon the administration's course in the Philippines, which permits one class to rule another, whereupon one of his auditors, interrupting him, asked:

"How about the situation in North Carolina?"

Mr. Bryan instantly replied: "Let the race question, which has brought us so much trouble, be a warning to you not to bring another race question into this country; and we do not have to go to North Carolina either, for we have had it right here in Illinois and Ohio."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of small children for colds, croup and whooping cough; as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale at Marsh's drug store.

Awful Massacre at Pao Ting Fu.

A London dispatch of the 12th tells a tale of horror in China. It says:

"The censorship, which is under Sir Alfred Gaselee's control, makes it difficult," says the correspondent, "to convey a true picture of the present situation in Peking. Today the foreign community was thrilled with horror at the news of the massacre of the missionaries at Pao Ting Fu; who were under the protection of the imperial troops. Children were butchered before the eyes of their parents. White women were ravished and carried into captivity. Parents were tortured and murdered. Massacres by red Indians never call in vain for vengeance. Yet the troops remain here inactive. Their one thought and wish are to be given work, or to be recalled from Peking. Surely the civilized world will not suffer this cruel massacre to remain unavenged and make no effort to ascertain the fate of the poor martyred Christians and white women.

Minister Wu, however, stoutly denies the facts and calls Dr. Morrison's report "unjustifiable libel."

It seems certain that Mr. Coler, who is Mr. Hill's candidate for the nomination for governor, will be beaten, and Stanchfield who is Mr. Croker's choice will win.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio. A Good Cough Medicine.

Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all treatment for many years have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has been restored. Cases that seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale at Marsh's drug store.

It is the ill wind which blows the physician the most good.—Orange, Va., Observer.
