AMERICA IS ABOUT TO DIE OF HER GOLD

SAYS FRENCHMAN

Luis Loucheur Says We Ought to Tender to France at Once All the Money Which She Might Need.

Paris, May 17.—"America is about to die of her gold," said Luis Loucheur, former minister of liberated regions, in an address last night.

He declared the United States had only one means of saving herself from ruin; this was to tender to France immediately all the money of which the latter nation might have need.

He said he had received an invitation to go to America to convince the friends of France there of the justice of her policy. He added that he did not yet know whether he would be able to accept.

"We are ready to remit the debts of the powers who fought beside us," he asserted, "on the condition that ours be remitted to us."

"England," he continued, "is really disposed to grant remission."

DR. W. S. RANKIN ADDRESSES SOCIAL WORK CONFERENCE

His Subject Was "Unoccupied Fields in Health Protection and Disease Prevention."

Washington, D. C., May 17.—Dr. Watson S. Rankin, Secretary of the North Carolina State Board of Health and former President of the American Public Health Association, addressed the National Conference of Social Work here this afternoon on "Unoccupied Fields in Health Promotion and Disease Prevention."

"Pregnancy, with only twenty per cent of twenty-five per cent of the medical attention which the condition calls for," said Dr. Rankin. "From 30 to 35 per cent of births are not attended by physicians and the lying-in state in all probability receives less than one-third the medical care which it should have."

"Infancy, while a normal state of being, is an enfeebled state, always in danger of disease from undeveloped adjustment to the ordinary conditions of life and high susceptibility to infections, and a condition of being that requires scientific supervision and guidance not only for the sick, but for the well. The needs of infancy for the medical services are not one-fifth supplied under present conditions."

"The age of childhood, with from 10 to 20 per cent of its population malnourished, 20 per cent with defects of vision, five per cent with diseased tonsils and adenoids, seventy-five per cent in need of dental treatment, and the entire group made more susceptible and less resistant to the common infections on account of these conditions that impair vitality, need not less than five times the medical service which this age group now receives."

"The period of adolescence, with the temptations of sex abnormalities and venereal diseases, presents an enormous problem physically and psychologically, with medical services inadequate and certainly not more than one-fifth supplied."

"Adult life according to extensive, highly scientific, unapproachable authority, is not receiving one-fifth the medical attention which its needs demand."

"If it were possible within the course of the next decade or two for medicine to catch up with existing surplus of defect and disease, the opportunity for health promotion, for improving the health, the vitality and efficiency of the apparently healthy, would still be with us and would constitute a problem embracing the entire population, and one vastly larger than that which concerns itself with the work of treatment and repair."

"Public health and the profession of medicine have a single objective, to-wit, to supply medical science where it is needed. The remedy, medical science, is conceded by both those employed in private practice and those employed in a public capacity to be the one means of repairing defects, curing disease and promoting health. Those engaged in the work of public health and in the private practice of medicine are not only bound by a single objective and by a single means for its attainment, but they are also united by the inseparability of their problems. There is no hard and fast line that may be drawn between physiology and pathology, between health and disease, between prevention and cure. The utilization of the medical profession, through more efficient organization, to include a larger portion of the unoccupied fields of medicine, of health and disease, is the only way out of the present situation. The next step forward for both public health workers and the medical profession is a more careful alignment of forces to be brought about by health officials endeavoring to interest local medical organizations, particularly county medical societies, in seeing and assuming the medical problems of the public as well as the medical problems of the private citizen. In appealing to local medical societies to assume a larger interest in public health problems the health official is fortunately in a position of being able to show that such work will not only carry with it the satisfaction of a larger field of service, but also of adequate material reward."

The total sales of the publication department for the year amounted to $491,385, a slight increase over the year previous. Since 1903, the report stated, more than ten million tracts and three million books and pamphlets have been issued.

GREATEST AIRPLANE

THE WORLD HAS EVER

Under Giant Shed of Zeppelin Plant at Friederickshafen, Germany, and It Is Known as the ZR-3.

Friederickshafen, May 17. (By the Associated Press.)—The greatest aircraft the world has ever seen is slowly taking form under the giant shed of the Zeppelin plant in which were built the mammoth ships that wrought such havoc in the world war.

This aircraft, known as the ZR-3, is being constructed for the American Navy and will attempt a flight to the United States when completed, which, however, will not be earlier than October or November of this year, and possibly not until next spring.

Larger than the R-38 which crashed in England en route to America, and than all the similar machines turned over to France, Italy and England, the ZR-3 will be more than 300 metres (nearly 985 feet) in length, and over 40 metres (approximately 131 feet) in height. It will be the master effort of the works created by Count Zeppelin.

By Vote of 83 to 57 Refuse to Pass Resolution Asking Him Not to Sign Recall of State Enforcement Law.

Garden City, N. Y., May 17.—The Long Island Diocesan convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church by a vote of 83 to 57, yesterday refused to pass a resolution requesting Governor Smith not to sign the repeal of the State prohibition enforcement law.

Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swentzell, of Brooklyn, opposing the resolution said, "None of us favor saloons, but we are all in favor of liberty. I stand for reasonableness, broadmindedness, and love of liberty. We have no interest in the saloons or the bootleggers, but what we are for is that nothing shall be done to lower the standards of freedom on which this country was founded."

Panel of Veniremen Was Improperly Drawn, It Is Stated.

Cross City, Fla., May 17. (By the Associated Press.)—The trial of Walter Higginbotham, charged with first degree murder growing out of the death of Martin Tabert, of North Dakota, in a convict labor camp, was halted temporarily this morning until a new panel of veniremen could be drawn, when the court sustained a motion by the state to quash the panel already in court on the grounds that it was improperly drawn.
