The Home of the Soul. It is often times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. FINAL EXERCISE OF COMMENCEMENT HELD ON MONDAY EVENING

Dr. William H. Frazer, of Queens College, Charlotte, Delivered Address on the "Dynamics of Society."

MISS JARRETT IS LEADER OF CLASS

Won Scholarship Medal and Also Essay Medal—Medals and Prizes Presented to the Winners.

The final exercises of commencement for the Concord High School was held Monday night at Central School. Presentation of certificates of graduation, medals and prizes, the announcement of the winners of the essay and scholarship prizes, and an address by Dr. William H. Frazer, president of Queens College, were features of the closing exercises.

To Miss Frances Jarrett went the honor of making the highest average among the Seniors and in recognition of her splendid work she was awarded the scholarship medal, given each year by Junior Order No. 49. Miss Jarrett also had the distinction of winning the J. F. Cannon Essay Medal, given yearly to the Senior writing the best essay. The essay medal was presented to her by Mr. J. L. Hartsell, a member of the school board and Dr. G. A. Martin presented to her the scholarship medal. Miss Blanche Armfield made the second highest grade.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Blackwelder won the Ross Essay medal, given yearly to that Senior writing the second best essay. The medal was presented by Prof. Webb. The declamation medal, won last Friday night by Mr. Eugene Ritchie, was presented to him by Mr. Buford Blackwelder, and Miss Mary Ridenhour, who at the same time won the recitation prize, was presented with it by Prof. Webb.

The class gift, a check for $75.00, was presented to the school by Mr. Fred Goodman, class President. The money will be spent for a platform curtain for the new High School building. In accepting the gift Prof. Webb explained that it is the largest gift ever made by a Senior Class, and came from the largest class in the history of the school.

Mr. L. T. Hartsell presented the certificates of graduation. In his short talk Mr. Hartsell declared there are two essentials for success. The first, he said, is discipline. The second, vision. "You have had discipline for eleven years in the school here," he added, "and you must use that discipline in your future work. The greatest thing any college can give you is vision. If you get the vision and apply to it the discipline you have secured here, you can make a success of any work you undertake. The greatest thing any college can give, Mr. Hartsell said, is a vision of life work, and he advised the members of the graduating class to decide as soon as possible on the life work they plan to take up.

"Dynamics of Society," was the subject of an able and interesting address by Dr. Frazer, who had spoken in Concord on former occasions and who is ever popular here. It is always a great pleasure for him to talk to young people, he stated at the beginning, and it is an added pleasure to talk to young people who are in pursuit of learning.

"Such people are not satisfied merely to live," he continued. "They want to contribute something to civilization. That is the right spirit. You should strive to be dynamics of society. The world needs your dynamic force.

"We are living in an exacting and demanding age. The very circumstances call loudly for dynamic manhood and womanhood. The world is running riot with pleasure and fun. Diversion has captured all the time of many who have not been balanced well. There are a few things essential to make one a dynamic individual.

"1. Character. We can never do more than we are. Manhood and womanhood must fulfill every promise with genuine character. When the old King of Israel lay dying, he summoned his successor to his bedside and gave as his parting command: 'Be thou strong and show thyself a man.' The tasks which challenge today call in clear-cut demand for such manhood and womanhood.

"2. In order to be dynamics of society, we must relate our lives to the purpose for which they were given. A great statistician recently said that the great majority of men and women are living their lives, investing their talents, amassing their fortunes and hoarding their fortunes, as if life had no origin or destiny. John says that Jesus, knowing that He was come from God and went to God, girded himself with a towel and began to wash the disciples' feet. There is an intimate relation existing between the consciousness of who we are, whence we came, where we go and what we do.

"3. In order to be dynamics of society, we must also realize that whatever talent we possess was given for a purpose, and that it was not to be kept, but to be expressed in terms of service for man and God.

"4. In order to be dynamics of society we must realize that there is an individual task for everyone of us. When the Master went into the Temple during its construction, he laid the plan upon the trestle board for each workman upon the sacred edifice. There is a plan in which you and I have a place, a definite individual task assigned to every one of us.

and downcast eyes he rode back toward the old castle from which he had gone, and he found the leper whom he had slighted as he went forth. Now he dismounts, takes the only musty crust of bread in his possession, breaks it in two and gives half to the begging leper. He turns to the brook hard by, breaks the ice over it and fills the battered cup hanging by his side with water and presses this to the leper's lips. Then he realizes that he has found the Christ, and that he was in possession all the while of the Holy Grail. Henry Van Dyke tells in the story of 'The Other Wise Man' something of the same moral. We are finding in the things that we are prone to overlook the great discoveries and possessions that we seek.

"My day has all gone"—twas a woman who spoke. And she turned her face to the sunset glow. "And I have been busy the whole day long. Yet for my work there is nothing to show."

"No painting nor sculpture her hand had wrought; No laurel of fame her labor had won. What was she doing in all the long day. With nothing to show at the set of sun?"

Humbly and quietly all the long day. Had her sweet service for others been done; Yet for the labors of heart and of hand. What could she show at set of sun?"

Ah, she forgot that our Father in Heaven Ever is watching the work that we do. And records He keeps of all we forget. Then judges our work with judgment that is true.

"For an Angel writes down in a volume of gold The beautiful deeds that all do below. Tho' nothing SHE had at set of sun. The angel above had something to show."

The cotton was put through the picking machines, carded for the spinning frames and woven into the finished goods in less than 12 hours. The planes which also brought a consignment of patches for Mayor Remington, have on board peaches and green corn for President Harding.

WILL LOCK UP PLACES WHERE DRINK IS SOLD

New York Hotel and Grill Raided as Forerunners of Similar Activities. New York, June 5.—Federal prohibition forces today disclosed part of their future policy of controlling illicit liquor traffic without the aid of the Mulford-Gage state enforcement act, when they closed, by court order, a popular Broadway cafe, the Knickerbocker grill, for six months under the padlock section of the Volstead law.

At the same time police commissioners, sheriffs and state troopers in various sections were notified by Palmer Canfield, state prohibition officer, that they still were responsible for the enforcement for the federal laws in regard to prohibition.

Announcement of a surprise raid by federal prohibition agents on the Hotel Pontchartrain last night was coupled today with the statement that the raid was only the forerunner of others.

Federal Judge Hough, after hearing the government's evidence against the Knickerbocker grill, declared it to be a public nuisance because of repeated violation of the prohibition laws. The grill's proprietor claimed that the liquor seized had been brought by patrons despite warnings. Discussing the effect of the decision, United States Attorney Hayward said that the padlock provisions of the Volstead law appeared to be the most effective remedy the government has against public drinking places. He asserted that similar charges now pending against other places in the white light district would be proceeded with as promptly as possible.

Omnibus Program Will Be Given to Congress.

THINKS COMPROMISE WILL BE MADE SOON

Opponents to World Court Plan to Be Pacified by Certain Amendments.

Washington, June 6.—Predictions that differences among Republican senators on the administration world court proposal will be compromised through reservations was made by Senator Watson, of Indiana, one of the party leaders after a conference with President Harding.

"Approximately twenty-two senators, according to best estimates, are disinclined to support the court proposal unless reservations are adopted to make plain the United States is not entering the league of nations," said Senator Watson. "The President has said that the proposal does not mean going into the league, and I have no doubt he will accept reservations to make it certain."

A measure making women eligible for jury duty in Connecticut has again been rejected by the legislature of that State.

MINISTER KILLED IN GUN BATTLE OVER POLITICS

Fatal Affray Adds Another Killing to Story of Long Standing Enmity. Richmond, June 5.—Rev. E. L. Pierce, pastor of four Baptist churches in Cumberland county, was killed and R. O. Garrett, clerk of the Cumberland county court, was seriously, if not fatally wounded at Cumberland Courthouse early today in a shooting affray which local state and police authorities believe was the culmination of a political feud which has raged in the county for a number of years.

The minister was shot dead near his home. Garrett, who was brought to this city with a pistol wound in his side, and his brother, L. C. Garrett, Cumberland county commissioner in chambers, were arrested late today and charged with killing the minister. L. C. Garrett was placed in jail, but was later released under bail of $5,000 for his appearance in police court tomorrow. His brother remained at the hospital under guard of a police officer.

An inquest into the death of the minister was conducted at Cumberland Courthouse this afternoon, the coroner's jury fixing responsibility for the killing upon the Garretts.

Witnesses at the inquest testified that Pierce was beaten by L. C. Garrett prior to the shooting. After the beating, it was said, Pierce went into his house and returned with a shotgun and a pistol. R. O. Garrett wrested the shotgun from the minister, witnesses stated, and then it appeared that the shooting became general. Pierce was mortally wounded and R. O. Garrett dropped to the ground with a bullet in his side. L. C. Garrett suffered a slight flesh wound in the arm.

It was brought out at the inquest that Pierce had taken an active interest in politics, recently aligning himself with the faction opposed to the Garretts. Bitter feeling has existed between the two factions for several years, and numerous fights among citizens of the county have occurred.

Pastor's Salaries.

Gastonia Gazette.

Charity and Children puts in a good word for the preachers of the country. Along with the teachers, they have enjoyed a general raise in salaries, which they so richly deserve. The one hundred dollar preacher is a thing of the past. The church no matter whether in the remote country district or not, that offers its pastor only one hundred dollars for one-fourth time is either just beginning as a feeble mission or is as dead as a door nail.

A man of good equipment, who has thoroughly prepared himself for the ministry no longer waits in vain for a decent call. The churches are on the lookout for him, and usually lose no time in offering him a place.

The time was when a thousand dollars was looked upon as a good salary for a town church. Now two thousand is poor pay, and a man of ability commands much more than that. There is this to be said, however: two thousand dollars now has hardly the purchasing power of one thousand twenty years ago. So after all pastors' salaries have not increased as much as the dollars and cents involved would indicate.

Pastors' homes are being built at a rapid rate. The Methodists have led all others in this respect, a parsonage being considered by them a necessary part of the equipment of a field—almost as necessary as the church building itself. And so almost every church in the Methodist church in the state is equipped with a comfortable parsonage.

But the Baptists are coming along with rapid strides in this respect also, and it is a vast advantage to apastor not to be at the tender mercies of a landlord, pay exorbitant rent, and be asked to vacate at the will of the owner.

Our preachers are coming into their own at last and we rejoice with them that, while they cannot live in luxury yet they can at least pay their grocery bills, and send their children to school.
