

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF LAND.

Under and by virtue of an order of the Superior Court in a Special Proceeding wherein Brown and Wallace, Clifford Wallace, Tracy Wallace and M. A. Gallowsay, Executors, are plaintiffs, and Dory Wallace, et al. are Defendants, I will sell at the Court House Door in Concord, N. C., at 12 o'clock Noon, on Monday, the 29th day of October, 1923, at public auction for cash, the following tract of land known and designated as "The Flanagan Place" in Cabarrus County, N. C., belonging to the estate of the late J. R. Wallace.

WINECOFF HIGH SCHOOL.

Mrs. C. J. Williams is ill, but is improving daily. Mrs. C. D. Watkins is spending a few days in Birmingham with relatives. The community club met Tuesday night and several items of business were carried out. The misses Lula and Annetta UMBERGER attended the football game Friday afternoon.

Miss Sara Winecoff spent Wednesday night with Miss Carrie Litaker. Many of the students have seen "The Birth of a Nation" at the Pastime theatre.

The following program will be rendered by the Athenian Literary Society on Friday, October 5th:

Song—Society. Scripture Reading—Wenlock Earnhardt, chaplain.

Recitation—Winnie Warren. Essay on "Natural Curiosities"—James Tucker.

Debate: "Resolved That it is Safer to live in the country than in the city." Affirmative, Fanny Ervin, Charles Farr; negative Edith Fink, Vernon Fisher.

Duet—Calla Williams and Albert Barnhardt.

Current Events—Wendell Ezell. Closing Song—Society.

The elementary department of the school, organized as the Champion Society, held its usual meeting Friday afternoon, September 28. The meeting was presided over by the president, Charles Phillips, and secretary Ruby Litaker.

All numbers of the program were especially good and well rendered by those taking part.

Mr. B. E. Harris has been appointed notary public by Governor Cameron Morrison. Mr. Harris has received his commission from the Governor.

band C. D. Bennett and Citizens Bank and Trust Company, trustee for Ed. McDonald's interest in Chas. McDonald's estate. Plaintiffs.

NOTICE.

The undersigned, Lee A. Martin and Eugene G. Martin, having this day purchased of J. W. Connor and O. W. Connor, trading as Carolina Cafe, all fixtures, furniture and supplies now located in the store room at No. 70 South Union Street, Concord, N. C. All creditors of J. W. Connor and O. W. Connor or the Carolina Cafe, will look to them for payment, as the undersigned will not be responsible for any claims, accounts, etc. of the said Carolina Cafe of J. W. and O. W. Connor not expressly assumed in writing by the undersigned.

This 15th day of September, 1923. LEE A. MARTIN, EUGENE G. MARTIN.

NOTICE OF SUMMONS AND WARRANT OF ATTACHMENT.

North Carolina—Cabarrus County. J. M. Edington, Plaintiff.

vs. R. E. Oliver, Mike Costello and Richard Costello, trading as Oliver & Costello Bros., Defendants.

The defendants in the above entitled action will take notice that on the 10th day of September, 1923, a summons in said action was issued against said defendants by J. B. McAllister, Clerk of the Superior Court of Cabarrus County, N. C., plaintiffs claiming the sum of $825.50 due him for work and labor performed for the defendants, which summons is returnable on the 20th day of October, 1923. The defendants will also take notice that a warrant of attachment was issued by the Clerk of the Superior Court on the 10th day of September, 1923, against the property of said defendants, which warrant is returnable on the 20th day of October, 1923, in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Cabarrus County, N. C., at which time and place named for the return of the summons, when and where the defendants are required to appear and answer or demur to the complaint, or the relief demanded will be granted.

This 10th day of September, 1923. J. B. McALLISTER, Clerk Superior Court.

NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER'S RE-SALE OF LAND.

Pursuant to an order of the Superior Court of Cabarrus County made in the special proceeding entitled "M. M. Linker, administrator of Charles Wade, decedent, vs. Nancy Wade, widow, Clyde Morgan, Charlie Morgan, Grace Morgan and Birdie Stark, and husband, Ernest Stark, heirs-at-law of Charles Wade, deceased," the undersigned, Commissioner will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, for CASH at the Court House Door in Concord, North Carolina, on SATURDAY, OCT. 6th, 1923, at 12:00 "M.", the following described real estate:

Lying and being in No. 12 Township, Cabarrus County, North Carolina, in Ward No. Four (4) of the City of Concord, and bounded as follows: Adjoining the lands of Scotia Seminary and others. BEGINNING at a stone in the center of the old Charlotte Road, six and one-half rods and three and one-half feet East of an Iron stake on the West side of West Depot street, a corner agreed upon by M. O. Beatty and Luke Doorniald; thence North 82 East 5 poles to Alfred Area's corner; thence Southward with Area's line 16 poles to Area's Southwest corner; thence South 82 West 5 poles to a stake, formerly a Cedar Post; thence North 2 West 16 rods to the BEGINNING. Containing one-half acre, more or less. The same being the lot conveyed to Charles Wade by Luke Doorniald and wife by deed dated March 20th, 1879, and recorded in Deed Book No. 30, page 539, Cabarrus County Registry.

This re-sale is made on account of an increased bid, and the bidding at the re-sale will begin at $1008.00. This 20th day of September, 1923. M. M. LINKER, Commissioner. Palmer & Blackwelder, Attorneys. 20-3wks. 1ta-wk.

SERVICE OF SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION.

North Carolina—Cabarrus County. In the Superior Court. Kate Coleman and husband, D. R. Coleman, Ella McDonald Black and husband, R. K. Black, Lucile R. McDonald and husband (name unknown), Frances McDonald Bennett and husband,

CONCORD AND SALISBURY TEAMS UNABLE TO SCORE

High School Football Teams Played Here Friday Afternoon at Fair Grounds Before Big Crowd.

The football teams of the Concord and Salisbury high school fought to a scoreless tie here Friday afternoon in Concord's first gridiron game of the budding season.

The game was played at the fair grounds and was witnessed by a large crowd. It was the first game of the year for Salisbury and the second for Concord, the soccer team having played in Greensboro last week.

The Concord team had one excellent chance to score in the game, but when that chance was gone another never presented itself. The Salisbury team never seriously threatened the Concord goal line, and play for the most of the game was either in Salisbury or neutral territory.

The Concord players once carried the ball to the Salisbury four-foot line, but the visitors held there and the ball went over. That was the closest Concord came to scoring, while the Salisbury youngsters could get the ball no closer to the Concord goal than the 20-yard line.

Faggart, half back, was the most consistent player for the visitors. The back field man was good on both defensive and offensive plays and carried the ball for most of the gains made by Salisbury. Salisbury's left tackle also played stellar ball, being by far the best lineman used by the visitors.

For Concord Smart perhaps played the best ball. Playing end in the game, Smart was in many plays, and he was able to stop most of the rushes that came his way. Fink also played good ball for the locals, demonstrating again that he is one of the best of the local line-men.

The Concord team seemed better drilled in many respects than the Salisbury team, but in the running of interference the visitors were better than the locals. The Concord team demonstrated a keener knowledge of plays and also presented a stronger offensive than the visitors, but the interference at times was ragged.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

The Kerr Street Revival.

There was a large congregation to greet the preacher and singers Thursday night and the house seemed to be filled with the Spirit of God. The interest has been good all through the meeting. The Lord has surely been with us, the special songs sung by Mr. Clark and Miss Allman have been enjoyed by all. The preacher spoke on "A Real Vision of Jesus, or the Convocation of Earth and Heaven," from Matthew 17:3, "and when they had lifted up their eyes they saw no man, save Jesus only." He said in part:

The Master has chosen three of His disciples to be with Him and witness His transfiguration. Why three? Well, perhaps three could keep the secret, and twelve could not. It was necessary to keep this matter until after the resurrection. It was evening and the sun had closed his labor for the day and was retiring for the night behind the summer clouds of the west, as the shadow of night settled in the valley, hiding from the eyes of the world this beautiful mountain scene. To this secluded spot Jesus and three of His disciples had gone to pray. Transfiguration scenes usually come during prayer or soon after an earnest communion with God. There were delegates present at this convention.

First, Jesus was present to represent the Godhead. If there were any doubt in the mind of the disciples before Jesus being the Son of God is was vanished now.

Second, Then there was an angel to represent the angelic host.

Third, Moses was a delegate representing the Law. A redeemed saint from the earth.

Fourth, Elias was there to represent the Prophets. He was a redeemed saint who was translated, not having tasted

New Pastor Exp. In The City Soon

Rev. Charles B. Scovill Comes From Los Angeles as Rector of All Saints Episcopal Church.

Rev. Charles B. Scovill, of Los Angeles, Cal., is expected to arrive in Concord in the near future to begin his work as rector of All Saints Episcopal Church. Mr. Scovill was offered the rectorship of the local church some time ago and he has notified officers of the Church that he will be here to hold his first service on October 7th.

Mr. Scovill comes to Concord from a prominent Episcopal Church in Los Angeles, and he is recognized as a speaker of unusual ability. In addition to his work in Los Angeles he has been identified with several prominent Episcopal Churches in northern States, where he was born and reared.

Mr. Scovill is married, his wife having attended St. Mary's School in Raleigh. All Saints Church has been without a rector since Spring, when Rev. P. N. Lawrence severed his connection with the Church.

With Our Advertisers. Stoves for the approaching winter can be found now at the Concord Furniture Co. See new ad. for particulars.

Cline & Moose sells three grades of flour. Melrose leads and the other two are unusually good. Big stock on hand now.

Several changes are now being made to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Allison on North Union street.

THE ISLE OF RETRIBUTION

waiting for him. Doomsdorf was bent, now, unloading the stores and remaining blankets from the canoe; but suddenly, with one motion, he showed Knutsen where he stood.

With one great lurch of his shoulders he turned over the empty boat and shoved it off into the sea. The first wave, catching it, drove it out of reach. "You won't need that again," he said.

With a half-uttered, sobbing gasp that no man had heard from his lips before, Knutsen sprang to rescue it. In an instant he had seized it, and standing hip-deep in the icy water, he turned to face the blond man on the shore. The latter roared once with savage mirth, a sound that carried far abroad the snowy desolation; then he sobered, watching with glittering eyes.

"Let it go," he ordered simply. His right arm lifted slowly as if in inadvertence, and rested almost limp across his breast. His blond beard hid the contemptuous curl of his lips.

Knutsen's hand moved toward his hip. In the days of the gun fights, in the old North, it had never moved more swiftly. In this second of need he had remembered his pistol.

But he remembered it too late. And his great hand, though fast, was infinitely slow. The great arm that lay across Doomsdorf's breast suddenly flashed out and up. The blue steel of a revolver barrel streaked in the air, and a shot cracked over the sea.

Knutsen was already loosed from the bonds that held him. Deliverance had come quickly. His face, black before with wrath, grew blank; and for a long instant he groped impatiently, open hands reaching. But the lead had gone straight home; and there was no need of a second shot. The late captain of the Charon swayed, then pitched forward into the gray waters.

XIV BESS had followed the trail through the snow clear to the dark edge of the woods when the sound of voices behind her caused her to turn. Neither Doomsdorf nor Knutsen had spoken loudly. Indeed, their tones had been more subdued than usual, as is often the way when men speak in moments of absolute test. Bess had not made out the words: only the deep silence and the movements of the wind from the sea enabled her to hear the voices at all. Thus it was curious that she whirled, face blanching, in knowledge of the impending crisis.

Thereafter the drama on the shore seemed to her as something that could not possibly be true. Except for the fact that Doomsdorf stood alone on the shore, it might have been all the factless incident of a tragic dream.

Slowly she stiffened, rallying her faculties, fighting off the apathy of terror. Presently he whole consciousness, seemed to sharpen. In an instant of clear thought she guessed, broadly, the truth of that tragedy beside the sea; that Knutsen had died in a desperate attempt to break free from an unspeakable trap into which he and his charges had fallen.

It meant she must work quick. She must not lose a single chance. The odds were desperately long already: she must not increase them. In an instant more Doomsdorf would be glancing about to see if his crime were observed. If she could conceal the fact that she had witnessed it, he would not be so much on guard in the moment of crisis that was to come. Her body and soul seemed to rally to mighty effort.

She was already at the edge of the timber. Stooping down, she made one leap into its shelter. She was none too soon; already Doomsdorf had looked back to see if the coast were clear.

Everything depended on Ned, henceforth. She couldn't work alone. With his aid, perhaps, they could destroy that evil power under which they had fallen. Doomsdorf's cabin—a long, low structure on the bank of a dark little stream—was only a hundred feet distant in the wood. Now that she was out of sight of the shore, she broke into a frenzied run.

He was not long in learning. Through some innate, vague, almost inexplicable desire to shelter his three charges and to spare them the truth, he wanted to wait until all three of them had disappeared in the wood; but even this was denied him. Lenore and Ned, it is true, had already vanished into the patch of forest; but Bess seemed to be walking slowly,

With Our Advertisers.

We will Welcome Your Account.

Cabarrus Savings BANK

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Byrd are today moving into their handsome home on North Union street. The house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Byrd will be occupied in the future by Mr. Charles E. Parks and family.

Just Received

Car Load of Listers Fertilizers

The Best for Small Grain

Yorke & Wadsworth Company

Solid Car Load BUCK'S

Stoves, Ranges, Heaters, Gas Ranges and Combinations.

Hot Blast Heaters, any size. Heat one to four rooms. Burns any kind of fuel. Sheet iron heater $2.70 to $4.50. Laundry and Hot Water Heaters.

BUCK'S ARE FUEL SAVERS

With the new Patented Damper, they are guaranteed to cook under all six eyes at the same time, and with less fuel than any stove made with the old style damper.

It will be well worth a trip to our store to see this New Damper. Smoke pipe on back of warmer, out of sight and out of the way. Ventilated oven. Even baking. Duplex grates for coal or wood. Sanitary leg base. Range made of cast iron throughout, and will last a lifetime.

CONCORD FURNITURE CO.

FLOUR! FLOUR!

We are well fixed to supply Flour for Concord and Cabarrus county, and even the borders of our neighboring counties. We buy direct from the mills of North Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania and other states, in big shipments at very lowest prices for the cash, and we give you this saving in the price.

Melrose Flour stands first and best. Have sold for 25 years on this market, and it is more and more popular each day.

Cream of the Lake Flour is made from the best Pennsylvania wheat. Guaranteed absolutely. The price is cheap.

Now Ready Self-Rising Flour. To those who use self-rising flour, this will please. We'll save you money. Flour may be higher.

Cline & Moose

P. S.—We want to buy the last of your country meat. The season is almost out.

The Penny Ads. Get Results—Try Them

THE ISLE OF RETRIBUTION

waiting for him. Doomsdorf was bent, now, unloading the stores and remaining blankets from the canoe; but suddenly, with one motion, he showed Knutsen where he stood.

With one great lurch of his shoulders he turned over the empty boat and shoved it off into the sea. The first wave, catching it, drove it out of reach. "You won't need that again," he said.

With a half-uttered, sobbing gasp that no man had heard from his lips before, Knutsen sprang to rescue it. In an instant he had seized it, and standing hip-deep in the icy water, he turned to face the blond man on the shore. The latter roared once with savage mirth, a sound that carried far abroad the snowy desolation; then he sobered, watching with glittering eyes.

"Let it go," he ordered simply. His right arm lifted slowly as if in inadvertence, and rested almost limp across his breast. His blond beard hid the contemptuous curl of his lips.

Knutsen's hand moved toward his hip. In the days of the gun fights, in the old North, it had never moved more swiftly. In this second of need he had remembered his pistol.

But he remembered it too late. And his great hand, though fast, was infinitely slow. The great arm that lay across Doomsdorf's breast suddenly flashed out and up. The blue steel of a revolver barrel streaked in the air, and a shot cracked over the sea.

Knutsen was already loosed from the bonds that held him. Deliverance had come quickly. His face, black before with wrath, grew blank; and for a long instant he groped impatiently, open hands reaching. But the lead had gone straight home; and there was no need of a second shot. The late captain of the Charon swayed, then pitched forward into the gray waters.

XIV BESS had followed the trail through the snow clear to the dark edge of the woods when the sound of voices behind her caused her to turn. Neither Doomsdorf nor Knutsen had spoken loudly. Indeed, their tones had been more subdued than usual, as is often the way when men speak in moments of absolute test. Bess had not made out the words: only the deep silence and the movements of the wind from the sea enabled her to hear the voices at all. Thus it was curious that she whirled, face blanching, in knowledge of the impending crisis.

Thereafter the drama on the shore seemed to her as something that could not possibly be true. Except for the fact that Doomsdorf stood alone on the shore, it might have been all the factless incident of a tragic dream.

Slowly she stiffened, rallying her faculties, fighting off the apathy of terror. Presently he whole consciousness, seemed to sharpen. In an instant of clear thought she guessed, broadly, the truth of that tragedy beside the sea; that Knutsen had died in a desperate attempt to break free from an unspeakable trap into which he and his charges had fallen.

It meant she must work quick. She must not lose a single chance. The odds were desperately long already: she must not increase them. In an instant more Doomsdorf would be glancing about to see if his crime were observed. If she could conceal the fact that she had witnessed it, he would not be so much on guard in the moment of crisis that was to come. Her body and soul seemed to rally to mighty effort.

She was already at the edge of the timber. Stooping down, she made one leap into its shelter. She was none too soon; already Doomsdorf had looked back to see if the coast were clear.

Everything depended on Ned, henceforth. She couldn't work alone. With his aid, perhaps, they could destroy that evil power under which they had fallen. Doomsdorf's cabin—a long, low structure on the bank of a dark little stream—was only a hundred feet distant in the wood. Now that she was out of sight of the shore, she broke into a frenzied run.

He was not long in learning. Through some innate, vague, almost inexplicable desire to shelter his three charges and to spare them the truth, he wanted to wait until all three of them had disappeared in the wood; but even this was denied him. Lenore and Ned, it is true, had already vanished into the patch of forest; but Bess seemed to be walking slowly,

THE stranger's voice was deep and full, so far-carrying, so masterful that it might have been the articulation of the raw elements among which he lived, rather than the utterance of human vocal chords.

His accent was plainly not that of an American. He had not been born to the English tongue; very plainly he had learned it, thoroughly and laboriously.

XIII THE stranger's voice was deep and full, so far-carrying, so masterful that it might have been the articulation of the raw elements among which he lived, rather than the utterance of human vocal chords.

His accent was plainly not that of an American. He had not been born to the English tongue; very plainly he had learned it, thoroughly and laboriously.

XII The stranger's voice was deep and full, so far-carrying, so masterful that it might have been the articulation of the raw elements among which he lived, rather than the utterance of human vocal chords.

His accent was plainly not that of an American. He had not been born to the English tongue; very plainly he had learned it, thoroughly and laboriously.

ADMINISTRATRIX'S NOTICE

Having qualified as the Administratrix C. T. A. of the estate of George W. Miller, deceased, all persons owing said estate are hereby notified that they must make prompt payment or suit will be brought. And all persons having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, duly authenticated, on or before the 7th day of September, 1924, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery.

SUSAN MILLER, Administratrix C. T. A. Palmer & Blackwelder, Attorneys. September 1, 1923.

ADMINISTRATRIX'S NOTICE

Having qualified as the Administratrix C. T. A. of the estate of George W. Miller, deceased, all persons owing said estate are hereby notified that they must make prompt payment or suit will be brought. And all persons having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, duly authenticated, on or before the 7th day of September, 1924, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery.

SUSAN MILLER, Administratrix C. T. A. Palmer & Blackwelder, Attorneys. September 1, 1923.

ADMINISTRATRIX'S NOTICE

Having qualified as the Administratrix C. T. A. of the estate of George W. Miller, deceased, all persons owing said estate are hereby notified that they must make prompt payment or suit will be brought. And all persons having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned, duly authenticated, on or before the 7th day of September, 1924, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery.

SUSAN MILLER, Administratrix C. T. A. Palmer & Blackwelder, Attorneys. September 1, 1923.