NAME COMMITTEES TO WORK FOR REUNION

Battery F. of World War Fame Will Hold Annual Reunion in Concord Next Month.

The following committees have been named to make plans for the reunion of Battery F. men, to be held here August 12th:

Registration—James B. Cannon, Leslie Bell and J. R. Morris. Speakers—M. B. Sherrin, Band—Eric J. Wilford.

Sherrin—Jack C. Wadsworth. Dinner—Leslie Bell. Dinner or "Spud"—Detail—R. Vick Caldwell, Jr., M. B. Sherrin, Jack C. Wadsworth and Roy C. Sappenfield.

All men who at any time were members of the battery, which was recruited from this section of the state in 1917, are invited to attend the reunion. Registration books will be open on the 11th and 12th at the American Legion quarters.

One of the biggest features of the reunion will be the dinner to be served at the Hotel Concord at 1 o'clock. There will be delicacies as well as some of the "grub" that became famous during the war. "Seconds" will be denied to none and there will be no "kitchen police" duty.

The Kannapolis band has been secured for the day, it is said, and a parade will be one of the attractions. The Legion club rooms will be headquarters for the battery men during the day.

Col. Albert Cox, of Raleigh, and Major A. L. Bulwinkle, of Gastonia, who served with the 113th Field Artillery Regiment during the war, have been invited to attend as honorary members. If they can be present they will be heard in brief talks.

Those men who expect to attend are asked to send $1.00 to Sergeant Eugene L. Fink, of Mooresville, so their name can be put in the "pot" by the mess sergeant. The dollar covers the cost of the banquet.

All men of the battery, whether or not they receive specific invitations, are asked to be present.

GLORIA PROVES SHE CAN SHOOT AS WELL AS ACT

Wins Women's Prize For Best Score and Beats Husband By Close Margin.

Gloria Swanson's friends are used to seeing her do the unexpected thing, but the general public knows her only as a film star, and therefore gets a surprise when she displays versatility in some special line. Perhaps some of her more intimate friends may have known that she is fond of shooting, but the hotel guests and cottagers at Pinehurst, North Carolina, where the exterior scenes for her latest production, "The Untamed Lady," were made under the direction of Frank Tuttle had never heard of that accomplishment. Consequently, they were considerably amazed when she won the weekly prize offered by the Pinehurst Gun Club for the best rifle score made by a woman.

Henry Emery, who manages the Pinehurst property, and Fordyce Blake, one of the guests at the Carolina Hotel, arranged a competition exclusively for the film folk, with prizes for both men and women.

Miss Swanson, Mrs. Tuttle and Mrs. Mathews, wife of the assistant director, shot for the women's prize, but the star had a walkaway, neither of the others shining very brightly. Mr. Curry, for the club, handed Miss Swanson a handsome silver dish as the special prize, and also pipped on the front of her sweater the little gold rifle that is the regular weekly prize.

But these two were not all her prizes. On Saturday her husband, who rather fancies himself as a shot, remarked:

"You think you're pretty good, don't you? Perhaps you think you can beat me."

"I'm absolutely certain of it," she replied with a smile.

The result was a $25 bet, and each slot four targets when the battle was over and the smoke had cleared, it was found that Miss Swanson had rolled up a score of 132, beating her husband by three points. She might have done even better, but there were so many crowded in and around the clubhouse that steady shooting was somewhat difficult. In the face of this nerve-shattering battery of eyes, her score was even the more remarkable. Star Theatre today.

THRILLING NINTH GIVES GIBSON VICTORY 5 TO 4

Error and Successive Doubles by Hatley, Basinger and Jarrett Give Locals Three Runs For Win.

Staging a dramatic ninth inning rally, the kind that one usually reads of in fiction, Gibson jumped on Meadows, Winston hurler, who had had them eating out of his hand all afternoon, and knocked over three runs to overcome a two-run lead and win by the score of 5 to 4, Saturday at Gibson park. With Meadows pitching exceptionally good ball Gibson seemed hopelessly lost as they went in for their last inning with the score 4 to 2 against them. Only ability to fight with their backs to the wall enabled them to bring in the runs necessary to win.

Simmons, first up in the eventful ninth, received life when Green threw his grounder over Carter's head. Hatley doubled to center, sending Simmons to third after Wood, hitting for Klutz, had struck out. Both scored and the count was knotted when Basinger hit a perfect two-base hit to right. Jarrett ended the game with another two-base hit, his knocking a palling off the fence in left and scoring Basinger. The crowds started leaving the stands as soon as they saw the ball leave Jarrett's bat.

BRIEFS

The Southside Mills team only missed winning the city title in Winston by one game. They have a very good team, though a little off in their fielding Saturday.

Many people wanted to know if the pitcher Meadows were related to Lee Meadows, Pittsburgh ace, who made his start in Concord many years ago. The Gibson players thought he must be during the early part of the game.

Belk had an off day both at bat and field. No hits and three errors are most unusual for Fritzie who is one of the best hitters and fielders on the club.

Sloop and Brown did a good job of umpiring, only one or two minor kicks being registered against their decisions.

Simmons never looked better than during the last four innings. Twelve easy outs out of twelve attempts is about as good as they get. Neither pitcher gave a base on balls.

Several games are being arranged for this week.

Gay Lothario Is Mobbed by Women and Pitted With Eggs

Special to Charlotte Observer. Asheville, July 18.—The vigilantes of Victoria place are up in arms! That is, they are still up in arms, for they arose in wrath Tuesday and convinced their neighbors that a Ku Klux Klan is absolutely unnecessary in their community. In fact, it would be superfluous.

And what's more they don't need white hoods or sheets to conceal their identities, because they are proud, rather than ashamed of the action they took in driving an undesirable visitor away from their neighborhood. The man had been a frequent caller at the home of a married woman there.

An enraged man drove up to the police station in a despatched automobile and asked for two policemen. When asked what he wanted with a riot, he replied that it was to quell a riot. So immediately the policemen began arming themselves with all weapons available as they shivered in anticipation of the approaching battle.

Had Broken Watch. The man who asserted that he was a victim of the machinations of the mob showed the officers a broken watch as evidence of the violence of his assailants. The police themselves took yellowish and white splashes on the automobile and on drawing closer they detected maledorous fumes which suggested spoiled eggs.

But they moved bravely on, peeped for the worst. Meanwhile, the victim of the mob related to them with mountain rage the details of his assault.

When the officers of the law reached Victoria place, they drew their revolvers, their blackjacks, and left their knives unopened in their pockets. To their astonishment, instead of being greeted by an angry mob they were met by a half dozen unarmed women.

"Where's the riot?" one of the officers queried as he glanced apprehensively from side to side.

"What do you mean, riot?" the boldest of the women replied. "If you mean us, you might as well turn around and go back. We ain't going to start any trouble but we ain't going to let any man disturb our community by blowing his automobile horn or come near killing one of our children while he's riding around."

Reason For Attack. A further inquiry revealed the real source of the trouble, however, and explained the reason for the united attack on the man.

A Romeo-Juliet affair has been in progress in the community for the last year, according to vigilantes. A married man, who has several children, has made a practice of calling on a married woman, who also has small children, every morning about nine o'clock with clocklike regularity.

When the "Riot" broke up the spokesmen of the vigilantes were not armed with revolvers, however, they had eggs and an oil can.

"What are you doing with that brickbat?" one of the vigilantes exclaimed in indignation. "Well, you know we let fly their missiles and suits. The man has a treat."

After hearing the police officers' remarks, the vigilantes did not turn to question you at the scene. It is reported that the man did not make his usual daily trip to work.
