IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

MEDICAL MEETINGS IN CHARLOTTE THIS WEEK

Three Groups From North and South Carolina to Meet Here During the Present Week.

Meetings of interest to members of the medical profession in North and South Carolina are to be held in Charlotte this week. Concerning the meetings, which will interest local physicians and nurses, The Charlotte News said: "The North and South Carolina section of the American College of Surgeons will hold a clinical congress in the city Thursday and Friday."

The North Carolina Hospital Association will hold its tenth annual convention in Charlotte Tuesday and Wednesday.

A conference of members of the North Carolina Nurses' Association will be held here Tuesday and Wednesday, in connection with the meeting of the Hospital Association.

Several of the most noted doctors of America will attend the meeting of the Surgeons' College here. Included among these will be: Dr. Charles H. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn.; Dr. Geo. D. Stewart, of New York City, president-elect of the American College of Surgeons; Dr. Franklin H. Martin, of Chicago, director of the American College of Surgeons, and Rev. C. B. Moulisier, of Milwaukee, president of the Catholic Hospital Association.

Public addresses by these leaders will be delivered Friday evening. Simultaneous meetings will be held at the First Baptist and Second Presbyterian churches.

Two moving picture films, entitled "How the Fires of the Body Are Fed" and "The Breath of Life," will also be shown at these public meetings, under the direction of Dr. Alan Craig, of Chicago, associate director of the American College of Surgeons.

Four hospital executives of national reputation will attend the meeting of the Hospital Association. These will be: Miss Elizabeth Burgess, dean of the nursing department, Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City; Dr. M. T. McEldown, associate director of the American College of Surgeons; Dr. W. P. Morrill, of Washington, D. C., of the American Hospital Association, and Dr. W. S. Rankin, of Charlotte, director of the hospitalization division, Duke Endowment.

An important action which is likely to be taken by the body, according to Dr. J. R. Alexander, of Charlotte, president of the association, will be the adoption of a new constitution and reorganization under the name of the Carolina Hospital Association, with all South Carolina hospitals invited to become members.

Dr. Rankin will address the body on the evening of January 18th concerning the aims and policies of the Duke Endowment in its work of aiding and establishing hospitals.

The program for the nurses' meeting here has not been completed. Mrs. Z. C. Conyers, of Greensboro, secretary of the association, is expected to preside.

MASONS WILL MEET IN RALEIGH DURING WEEK Special Communication of the Grand Lodge of State Will Be in Session Three Days.

Raleigh will be the scene this week for North Carolina Masons, the special communication of the Grand Lodge of the State to be in session there for three days instead of two as previously announced.

The report of Acting Grand Master John H. Anderson, of Fayetteville, and the address of the grand orator will be features of the first session of the communication on Tuesday night, January 18th, at 7:30.

Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. the District Deputy Grand Masters of the State will hold their annual meeting in the Grand Lodge room. At 2 p. m., the Grand Lodge will reconvene, at which time memorial services for the Past Grand Master John E. Cameron, who served as Grand Master for one month before his death, will be held.

A night session will be held at 8 o'clock, at which time the election of officers will take place. Thursday morning at 10 o'clock installation of officers will conclude the session.

At 9 a. m. Tuesday the credential committee will be in session where all representatives should file their credentials and register.

There are 44,000 Blue Lodge Masons in North Carolina at this time and each Blue Lodge in the state is expected to have two or more representatives in Raleigh for the Grand Lodge session, as well as numbers of Masons who will witness the exemplification of the three degrees in Masonry by the grand lecturers.

Your Income Tax. The Tribune begins the publication today of a series of articles based on the revenue act of 1926, and the latest regulations relating to the income tax. The reduction in rates, increase in exemptions, credit on earned income applying to earned net income not to exceed $20,000, and other changes in tax legislation, in comparison with the revenue act of 1924, are set forth. The stories, which are of informative value to the thousands of persons required to file income tax returns for the year 1926, are prepared by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and are therefore official. We shall publish the first article January 17, and one each day until the series is completed.

An Editorial Helpmate. "Your husband is editor of the Clarion, is he not?" asked a newcomer of Mrs. Pinks. "Yes."

"And as you have no family, and have considerable leisure on your hands, you assist him now and then in his editorial work, I dare say?" "Oh, yes," answered the brisk little woman, hiding her busy-stained fingers under her apron. "I edit nearly all his inside matter."

The Art Burglar. Number three of the Master Man-Hunters series of true detective tales brings The Sunday World readers to Paris. Dornay, whom you might call an artist-detective, updoctok, single-handed to snare the extraordinarily clever thief who had executed a whole series of robberies. Paris and the art burglar had the laugh on Dornay, but he hid his time, kept on the job and finally—in a flash of sun-play, got his man. The Master Man-Hunters series complete story each Sunday in the magazine section of The World.

Second Week Opens With Divorce Cases Getting Attention During the Morning Session. The second week of the January term of Cabarrus County Superior Court began this morning with divorce cases claiming first attention. Judge John M. Oglesby, of Concord, is presiding.

Several divorces were granted during the morning, no contest being made in a majority of the suits entered and heard. Divorces were granted in the following cases: Cora Alridge vs. Crawford Alridge; J. S. Litzker vs. Minnie Litzker; Tessie P. Allman vs. John W. Allman. M. Asbury vs. Mollie Asbury. John Welborn vs. Minnie Welborn. The marriage of Harry Archibald and Naomi Clark was annulled, the ruling being that the plaintiff was under 16 years of age when he married the defendant last May.

TUBERCULOSIS CLINIC REPORT IS GIVEN

Grip of Winter Expected to Be Loosened During Next Several Days.—Saturday Night Coldest of Year.

A preliminary report of the tuberculosis clinic, which was held in Cabarrus county the last six weeks of 1926 and the first week of 1927, was released today by Dr. S. E. Buchanan, county health officer. The report was prepared by Dr. P. P. McCain, superintendent of State Sanatorium, who came to Concord on two different occasions to supervise the taking of X-rays of every child that showed a positive reaction to the tuberculin test.

The clinic in Cabarrus county was started in Concord schools about November 15, 1926, and at a later date in the schools of the county. On the completion of the clinic for school children an adult clinic was held. The clinics were conducted by Dr. S. E. Lee, of State Sanatorium, with the assistance of Miss Margaret Ford, Red Cross Tuberculosis Nurse.

The preliminary report of Dr. McCain on the clinics conducted in the county is as follows: "The study of tuberculosis among the primary and grammar school children of Cabarrus county included the following groups: 1. Those who were known to have been closely exposed to tuberculosis either in their homes or elsewhere. 2. Those who were ten per cent. or more underweight. 3. Those who had suspicious symptoms of tuberculosis whether they were underweight or not. More than three thousand children were weighed, of which number about 65 per cent. were found to be 10 per cent. or more underweight.

The first step in the study of the different groups selected was to give them the tuberculin test. If this test is positive one may or may not have tuberculosis. If, on the other hand, it is negative tuberculosis can be ruled out entirely.

Something over three hundred children gave a positive reaction. Since it was not necessary to do anything further, so far as tuberculosis is concerned, with those who gave a negative reaction our efforts were directed at finding out which ones of the positive reactors had tuberculosis.

To determine this we secured as thorough a family and personal history as possible, made a careful physical examination and took X-ray pictures of the chest of each child who gave a positive reaction.

The X-ray pictures included anterior-posterior and side views on each child. Through the courtesy of the authorities of the Concord Hospital we were allowed to use their X-ray machine in making the pictures. The films were brought to the Sanatorium and developed and I personally examined the X-ray pictures, and also compared these with the history and physical examination charts on each child.

To date we have completed our study on 207 of these children. Among all who showed a markedly positive reaction and also practically all of those who otherwise were very suspicious cases of tuberculosis.

Thus far we have found 14 definite cases of tuberculosis among the school children of both cities. We have also found a number of other cases who are somewhat suspicious and who are going to be kept under observation for further study. We feel that these 14 cases ought by all means to take sanatorium treatment without delay.

We can take them into our new school building, which we are expecting to open next week, at our special charge of $1.00 per day. In this building they can not only get the advantages of all the modern scientific methods of treatment, but they can also get to keep up with their grades in a fresh air school under medical supervision.

None of these cases now have the disease in the contagious form. There is no danger of the other school children being contracted tuberculosis unless they get proper treatment however, they will almost surely get worse.

Within the near future we hope to be able to finish the 131 cases which we have recently X-rayed and give a final report on the whole clinic. We do not expect to find but very few positive cases in this latter group since, as stated above, the most suspicious cases were taken first.

In the course of our examinations a number of other abnormal conditions, such as diseased tonsils, bad teeth, etc., were discovered and a report will be sent out from the Health Department to each parent advising that the family physician be consulted for the correction of the defects found.

Signed: P. P. McCain, M. D., Supt. N. C. Sanatorium, and Director, Extension Department.

COURT IN SESSION TO DISPOSE OF CIVIL SUITS. Second Week Opens With Divorce Cases Getting Attention During the Morning Session.

WARMER WEATHER IS PROMISED FOR CITY

Grip of Winter Expected to Be Loosened During Next Several Days.—Saturday Night Coldest of Year.

King Winter is expected to loosen his grip on Concord during today and tomorrow. At least warmer reports indicate that much warmer weather is in store for Concord and Cabarrus people following the lowest temperatures of the year Saturday night.

The temperature here Saturday night and Sunday morning dropped to 10 above zero, several persons reported. Others stated that their thermometers showed temperatures of 12 and 14 above. The difference no doubt resulted in different locations of the thermometers.

The city was lashed with unusually cold winds throughout Saturday and Sunday night and the winds made the cold all the more intense. By Sunday morning, however, the winds died down and almost immediately there was a slow rise in the temperature.

Hundreds of frozen water pipes were reported as a result of the cold wave and many auto owners were forced to walk to church yesterday because their cars became so cold during the night they would not start yesterday morning.

Reports from Charlotte state that the mercury there dropped to new low levels for January 15th, the day being the coldest of that date in the history of the weather bureau there, which has been maintained for many years.

Concord remained cold although the mercury did not drop as low as on Saturday. Again this morning it was warmer than on Saturday although it was far from warm during this morning.

Chicago reports another cold wave coming from the west but if Washington weather reports are well founded this latest cold snap will not seriously affect North Carolina. Government weather bureaus insist that it will be much warmer during today and tomorrow.

Many Cases on Docket in Superior Court. Trial of the case of the Parks-Belk Co. vs. the City of Concord and Board of Light and Water Commissioners started in Superior Court this afternoon with prospects that it would run into tomorrow's session. The case grew out of a broken water pipe which is alleged to have damaged goods of the Parks-Belk Co. A. B. Palmer and H. S. Williams, of Concord, and E. T. Causler, of Charlotte, are the plaintiffs. The defendants are represented by Hartsell and Hartsell, of Concord.

When the docket was read in court this morning it was shown that 19 cases are ready for trial and three others are still open. M. H. Caldwell, counsel for the plaintiff, stated that a volunteer non-suit had been taken in the case of Day Robinson vs. V. E. Lowery, trading as Fixall Motor Co.

BROTHERHOOD IS THEME OF DR. KESLER'S ADDRESS

Superintendent of Thomasville Baptist Orphanage Speaks to Men's Brotherhood of First Baptist Church at Banquet Friday Night.

The third meeting and banquet of the Men's Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church was held Friday night at the church. Covers were laid for 70 guests and those present enjoyed a good dinner, fine music and good talks by several people.

Music was furnished throughout the dinner by a Victrola loaned for the evening by Kidd-Frix Music and Stationery Company. Mrs. Herman Trueblood gave a piano solo which was greatly enjoyed.

A. E. Harris, president of the Men's Brotherhood, and Rev. C. Herman Trueblood made short talks. The principal speaker of the evening was Dr. M. L. Kesler, general manager of the Thomasville Baptist Orphanage. The subject of Dr. Kesler's address was Brotherhood.

Dr. Kesler first told something of the earlier history of the Baptist Church in this section of North Carolina, and the remarkable growth of the Baptist Church within the last few years.

"Brotherhood," said Dr. Kesler, "suggests a few things to my mind. Brotherhood means co-operation and it also means organization. It also means mutual understanding and mutual understanding can only be gotten by coming into contact with your brother from many different angles."

"You can't understand a man unless you appreciate him and that which is true in him. Something will bind you to him—an interest will grow up between you, a friendly interest."

"Brotherhood is brother feeling, a sort of neighborly friendliness and understanding," Dr. Kesler said. "Brotherhood—a comradeship, a working together, or shall I say co-operation. No, for co-operation suggests together co-operate, but human beings work together as comrades."

"We have wonderful unutilized power in the men of the church. Banquets will not hold the men together but the great bond of the world today is working together. Not just being together but working together. It is true that grumblers never work and workers never grumble. I say to you, really work with some high goal before you and you won't have time to grumble or let things of minor importance bother you. Some great idea, some enterprise, all real work, will make things go smooth and grow, and the future will be bright for you."

When the docket was read in court this morning it was shown that 19 cases are ready for trial and three others are still open. M. H. Caldwell, counsel for the plaintiff, stated that a volunteer non-suit had been taken in the case of Day Robinson vs. V. E. Lowery, trading as Fixall Motor Co.
