

Think "Indian" Mound Was God Constructed

Dr. Collier, Department of the University of North Carolina, recently declared that the mound which was the subject of a different opinion, was not a prehistoric Indian work, but a structure built by the God of the Bible.

The mound in question was discovered recently when the timber was being cleared from the great basin where the lake created by the Carolina dam now being built by the Carolina Light and Power Company will cover. It is about 150 feet wide and is from 35 to 45 feet high. It lies conspicuously in the low grounds of a small creek.

Charles McSwain, news editor of The St. Louis News-Herald, then got in touch with Dr. Collier Cobb, and asked him to come over to this county and examine the mound, which invitation Dr. Cobb accepted. Dr. Cobb will return next week for further investigations.

The mound in question will soon be covered with water and should Dr. Cobb fail to dig into it before it is covered, he will have little trouble in finding others, state citizens of North Carolina, who find that there are many other mounds similar to this one in the Southern part of the State.

The former owner of the mound, who sold the property to the Carolina Light and Power Company, says his father cultivated it, plowing and round until the top was reached, and back on the other side of the one row until the bottom was reached. At one time an attempt was made to dig rock from the mound to build a chimney.

ment can take over the line itself. At present, in the same huge shed in which the Los Angeles was born, skilled mechanics are busy erecting the new airliner's gigantic framework.

The airship will be 235 meters (771 feet long) 30.5 meters (100 feet) in diameter and will contain 105,000 cubic meters (3,730,000 cubic feet) of hydrogen gas. The Los Angeles is only 70,000 cubic meters (2,500,000 cubic feet) big. In its proportions, however, the new ship will be built along facier lines than the Los Angeles—longer and more slender.

The big passenger car in front is being divided into twenty double-deck cabins and a big salon and dining room. The cabins will be as convenient as the deluxe cabins in the trans-continental trains, with running hot and cold water, etc. The salon and dining room, paneled in wood, will be fitted out with big club chairs and broad windows, through which the passengers can view the panorama of miles around. An electric kitchen will prepare the meals.

In the evening, after dinner, the dining tables will disappear and the center of the floor will be cleared for dancing. American or European jazz furnished by the best bands in the world—by radio.

The airship's fuel will be without weight. It will be gas-ethano-gas, which is a carbohydrate of the same specific weight as air, and cheaper than gasoline. It can be manufactured everywhere.

The fuel gas will be stored in the body of the ship itself. The lower one-third of the 16 gas cells will be filled with ethanogas, the upper two-thirds with hydrogen.

The liner will have six Maybach motors of 2,400 horsepower each.

These are the same motors that drive the Los Angeles. Its speed will be approximately ninety miles an hour.

The fare from Sevilla to Buenos Aires is figured at 6,000 pesetas ($1-051) which is approximately the price for a steamer cabin.

ANNUAL DUKE SERMON GIVEN BY DR. RUSSELL

Head of School of Religion Delivers Baccalaureate at Commencement. Durham, June 5.—With Dr. Elbert Russell, of the school of religion, delivering the baccalaureate address, Duke university's 71st commencement exercises got under way this evening, giving every indication of unprecedented interest and success.

Craven Memorial hall, the scene of many commencement exercises in the past, was never more filled, and the speaker was heard by hundreds of others on the outside by means of amplifiers extended to the Woodland stage and to the Y. M. C. A. hall.

Exercises this year center around 225 young men and women who are to be conferred with bachelor of arts, master of arts, master of education, and bachelor of divinity degrees, by far the largest class in the institution's history.

"Something better than justice," was the subject of the address this evening, which, he explained was the living by the principle of free-giving and the consequential rise to something better than justice.

"Life would be extremely poor and meager if we got nothing but justice, if we received nothing but what we have earned or paid for. The world needs something better than justice. Slowly even by our courts and legislatures we are becoming to realize the impossibility of making the guilty suffer and leaving the innocent untouched by it.

"This will be a better world when organized society gives up the idea of justice as attained through punishments, and devotes all its energies in dealing with wrong doers to the effort to reform them and restore them to their place in natural life."

Unselfish lives of ministers, doctors, teachers and nurses meant that they gave freely of their services, rendering more than justice to those they served, he declared.

RUTH IS AHEAD NOW OF HIS 1921 RECORD

Babe Nets Four Circuit During Week to Start Him Toward Record. Chicago, June 5.—Babe Ruth's 17th home run of the season today at Detroit put him one circuit drive ahead of the schedule in his record year of 1921, when his 17th came on June 10.

For the first time in the 1927 season, the American League batters outdrew the home run hitters of the National League, this week, the score being 17 to 15 in four-base knocks.

Ruth's homer today was his fourth this week, his best week this season. Lou Gehrig, the Babe's protegee on the Yankees, gathered a couple of round trips, while "Hack" Wilson of the Chicago Cubs was the only National Leaguer to get more than one. He drove out two.

TOBACCO MEN TO MEET AT MOREHEAD CITY

Delegates From All Tobacco Producing States Expected to Attend Convention

(By International News Service.) Morehead City, N. C., June 6.—Just a few weeks before the aroma of bright leaf tobacco in the process of curing fills the sultry summer air, and North Carolina goes about its annual job of producing its big portion of the world's "yellow gold."

Only a little while before the scores of important tobacco men return the towns and villages of the State into beehives of industry, and the monotonous drone of the auctioneer sounds above the multitudinous noise of the monster weed warehouses.

North Carolina, the biggest tobacco producing area in the world, will be the host for three days to the leading tobaccoists of the United States, wherever tobacco is grown and manufactured.

The occasion will be the annual meeting here of the Tobacco Association of the United States on June 22-25. For three days problems now confronting the industry in all parts of the country will be threshed out by group discussions and talks by expert tobacco growers and manufacturers.

Elaborate traveling facilities have been arranged for the hundreds of tobacco men who will attend the convention. Through the efforts of Senator F. M. Simmons (D.), of North Carolina, the Coast Guard Cutter Pamlico has been obtained to transport delegates to the convention.

The major item that will confront the hundreds of tobacco growers will be the marketing of the 1927 crop. Conditions in foreign countries also will take up a considerable portion of the growers' time, and situations peculiar to various tobacco belts.

Indications are that the forthcoming meeting will be one of the most largely attended conventions the association has ever held, according to local officials of the organization. For the first time in a number of years, the association has chosen a convention city very close to the center of the bright leaf producing belt of North Carolina.

Growers from the tobacco producing sections of the Carolinas and Virginia will make up the largest delegations, although scores are also expected from Kentucky, Georgia and other tobacco-growing states. On account of the nearness of the convention, hundreds are expected from Eastern North Carolina alone.

Officers of the association have distributed literature to tobacco growers all over the nation describing in detail how to reach this coastal resort, and the various attractions here.

Because of the reported menace of an over-production this fall, harvest prospects are expected to come in for lively discussion at the convention. Following a big production last year, it was claimed, the inevitable inclination was to increase the crop this spring. This inclination, it was said, was strengthened by the slump in the price of cotton.

But while there will be heavy sessions at which price prospects and other things will come in for discussion, the entertainment features by no means overlooked on the program. A series of luncheons, card parties and luncheons have been arranged for the visiting delegates, and their families and friends.

A unique department this year will be an old-fashioned fox hunt. Fifty dogs will be brought here for the occasion. The chase will be staged in the wooded country behind Core or Bogue sound.

The program has not been completed yet, but in addition to various tobacco experts in the Carolinas and Virginia, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, and Governor Angus W. McLean of North Carolina are scheduled to deliver addresses. J. W. Yates, president of the Merchants National Bank of Wilmington; R. D. Hill, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and John R. Hutchison, head of the Extension Department of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, will also speak.

Hornsby Ousts Old Tyrus in Bating

New York, June 5.—Rogers Hornsby of the New York Giants has dethroned Ty Cobb of the Athletics as the leading batsman of the "Big Eight" in the majors. The Rattler improved on his average of the previous week while the Georgian slipped. Hornsby's average is .350. Cobb's ten points below.

The former Cardinals' manager has been keeping the pace set by Babe Ruth for extra base hits, both being credited with 26 apiece. The Babe leads the field in the number of runs scored, however, with 51.

When friends meet ceremony often goes up in smoke.

"Use More Cotton" To Boost Industry North Carolina Club Women Start Cry

(By International News Service.) Raleigh, June 4.—"Use more cotton" is the cry of thousands of North Carolina club women as they are cooperating to restore King Cotton to his rightful throne in the South.

The North Carolina Federation of Club Women is now sponsoring a statewide movement for the substitution of cotton for silk and other goods.

The movement has gained momentum since it started a few months ago and now every principal town has either held or intends to hold a "cotton festival."

At these "cotton festivals" prizes are awarded for the best wearing apparel made from cotton. Such a contest also was held at the recent state convention of federated women's clubs.

ATLANTIC CITY PREPARES FOR SHRINERS

100,000 Are Expected to Attend Meeting Week After Next. Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—Local committees are rapidly completing arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the 100,000 or more Shriner who are coming to Atlantic City week after next to attend the fifty-third imperial session of the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

The gathering bids to be the largest in the history of the order. For several months all hotel accommodations have been reserved for Shrine week. Advice received indicates the attendance of large delegations from points as far distant as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and Portland, Ore. Even Honolulu will have its representatives on hand. Many of the temples will be accompanied by gorgeously uniformed patrols and bands of music. Altogether more than 50 Shrine bands, composed of more than 2,000 musicians, will participate in the various events. In addition to the bands many of the temples will bring bugle, pipe and drum corps. Besides taking part in all of the parades during the week of the gathering, some of the finest of the bands will give nightly con-

A spectacular feature of the week will be two special torch-light parades in which many of the prominent motion-picture stars will participate. Electric lights, in some cases as many as 3,600, will be used to illuminate the "movie" floats in these night carnivals. The floats will be constructed along lines never before attempted.

Mary Pickford's float, which was designed by her personally, will contain 36,000 lamps. The Beverly Hills float, with its unique starry heavens, will also contain a great number of bulbs. Small generators on each float will furnish individual power.

Among the screen "stars" who have signified their intention of being present are Douglas Fairbanks, Harold Lloyd, Marie Dressler, Lila Lee, James Kirkwood, Francis X. Bushman, and John Gilbert. Tom Mix is to serve as grand marshal of the "Movie" parade.

The first parade of the gathering will take place on the morning of June 14, when the imperial officers, representatives, potentates and their bands, patrols, legions, mounted guards and chanters will form an escort to the Imperial Potentate and the Imperial Divan to the opening of the fifty-third imperial session.
