

APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

To Build a Memorial Chapel at Fort Bragg, N. C.

No permanent statewide memorial has been erected in North Carolina to the men of our state who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War.

Influential and patriotic citizens of the state have aroused themselves over our neglect for eight and a half years since the armistice to commemorate the valor of our war dead. During this week these citizens by a concerted effort will attempt to raise one hundred thousand dollars to be used in the erection of a memorial chapel at Fort Bragg, North Carolina's only United States army post, which is to be dedicated as a memorial to those North Carolina hero sons who gave their lives in defense of their nation's flag.

We, the people of Cabarrus county, as public spirited and patriotic as any people on the face of the earth, must do our part by giving our share toward marking this memorial a success.

During the dark days of the war when we all so freely gave our time and money both in selling and buying Liberty Bonds, and sacrificed our time and energy in the ranks of our army and navy. And as we vividly recall how anxiously we watched the casualty list fearing that the next word would include our father, our brother or our son, how gladly then would we have been willing to give without hesitation the money necessary to build a thousand memorial chapels if such would have made it possible for the war to end sooner. Those days of strain and sorrow and anxiety are fast fading from our memories. Before we become cold and indifferent to the sacrifice our soldiers made, please may I urge that we give liberally this week toward this permanent and only statewide memorial.

Make check payable to the Memorial Chapel Association and deliver to me or send direct to Prince Charles Hotel, Fayetteville, N. C. If you prefer to make a pledge payable in the future, at your own convenience, I will be glad to furnish card on request. J. L. E. CROWELL, Jr., Member Advisory and Sponsorship Committee.

DEVIL DENIES HE CONFESSED FINK MURDER

Declares He Was Not Even Present At Killing.

Winston-Salem, June 16.—David Devlin, 22-year-old mulatto, confessed slayer of Deputy Sheriff Lindsay T. Yarbrough, of Salisbury, who has been in jail here for safe-keeping since his arrest in East Spencer, Saturday, June 7, denied today that he told Charlotte police officers he had a part in the slaying of Cyrus M. Fink, young Charlotte mechanic and choir singer.

Devlin declared today that he told the Charlotte officers that he knew absolutely nothing of the actual killing of the young man. He repeated and reiterated time and again what he said he related to the police when they interviewed him in Forsyth jail June 7.

However, the story he told a newspaper man today, in the presence of two witnesses, is identical with the alleged confession given out by the Charlotte police so far as concerns the movements of Devlin and his "buddy" immediately preceding the moment of the murder and subsequently.

He admitted walking up the railroad tracks from Ninth street with his "buddy" about 10:30 o'clock on the night of the Fink murder, and hearing him ask a man they met for a match, but claims not to have witnessed the killing. He said that he was two paces ahead of his "buddy" on the opposite path alongside the railroad tracks.

He looked back, once, he said, and saw the stranger reach into his pocket as if to get the match. Devlin said he continued up the railroad tracks without again looking back and the next time he saw his companion was after midnight, in the latter's home.

His "buddy" was in bed, he said, but called his (Devlin's) attention to a Hamilton watch to which was attached a piece of chain, on a table in the center of the room.

"You see I have a watch," Devlin quoted his "buddy" as saying.

"Yes, where did you get it?" Devlin said he replied.

"I have money, too," the "buddy" is alleged to have continued. "I will see you tomorrow morning."

Devlin declared that was all that was said that night. The next morning, he said, his "buddy" gave him $50 and told him to say nothing about it.

The negro could not be shaken from his first narration and he consistently refused to fall into a trap during the interview in the jail here today.

Devlin does not look like a man who would deliberately take the life of another. He used good English during the interview and showed a degree of intelligence above that of the average negro. The slaying of Deputy Sheriff Yarbrough and the shooting of a negro in Salisbury were done, he said, while he was under the influence of cocaine and whiskey. He blames women, liquor and drugs for his sudden downfall.

Apparently he has a fair education for a negro and reads and writes. His reading material since he was incarcerated in jail is a torn and much-used Bible, which he held constantly in his hands during a two-hour interview today. In referring to the Bible he said he believed a man who sinned was lost unless he got right.

Devlin was born in Birmingham, Ala., but moved with his mother to Anderson, S. C., when a lad. He grew up in South Carolina and his mother, Nellie Devlin, still lives in Anderson. He has been writing to her since he was placed in jail, he said. Devlin had lived in Charlotte about eight months and claims to have been employed at various times in different jobs.

He was admitted to the institution for the poor early this month, having been at the home for only two weeks when he died.

After experiencing the most unusual summer weather in many decades, Concord is again enjoying honest-to-goodness June weather. Last week goes into local history as the coldest and most miserable June weather ever known locally. Saturday, perhaps, was the worst day of the week, with its torrential rains and cool temperature.

J. L. Crowell, Jr., Concord City Attorney, accompanied B. W. Blackwelder and Frank Arnsfield, members of the Concord bar, went to Charlotte this morning to present petitions of the City and Cabarrus County to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a hearing in the discussion of granting the Piedmont and Northern Railway Company permission to extend its lines.

Two unknown young white men were slightly hurt about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the Concord-Charlotte highway when the motor cycle on which they were riding collided with a Chevrolet automobile.

Both vehicles were travelling in the direction of this city at the time the accident occurred. It was said that the automobile turned to the left into a side road without warning to the oncoming bike. The young men were hurled from the machine but escaped with only slight bruises.

GIRL TELLS STORY OF LIFE OF SHAME

Edith Smith, Asheville, Claims She Was Commercialized by Couple Who Deserted Her.

Winston-Salem, June 16.—The sor did story of a 14-year-old white girl from Buncombe county, who claims she was commercialized by a man and woman who have not yet been apprehended, was unfolded today to A. W. Cline, Forsyth county superintendent of public welfare.

On Tuesday night this girl, in company with an older woman and a man, was caught by officers. The girl was registered under the name of Irene Davis, and said her home was near Asheville. The man, registered with her, declared that he was her brother.

Mr. Cline was called to investigate. He did so Tuesday night. Wednesday morning he discovered that the man and woman in company with the girl had departed. Again this girl, Irene Davis, was questioned, and until Wednesday at noon and under vigorous examination, she maintained that her name was Irene Davis. Mr. Cline communicated with Judge Carl B. Hiatt, of the Asheville juvenile court, and described the girl. The Asheville judge said her name was Edith Smith. An hour later she admitted the identity and sobbed out what officials believe to be a part of a true story of a life of shame.

A conference between Mr. Cline and Asheville officers was to be held at Morganton this afternoon, but no information concerning the results of the conference had been received here late today.

Memorial to Nancy Hanks.

A memorial service was recently conducted at the grave of Nancy Hanks Lincoln, mother of Abraham Lincoln, at Lincoln City, Ind., by the Spencer County Historical Society. The burial place is in a park. A fund of $1,000.00 is being raised to make it a national shrine.

Near the park is a monument marking the spot where the old Lincoln cabin was reproduced in the new park plan. A mile away stands the Little Pigeon Baptist Church where young "Ab" attended church and where his sister Sarah lies buried. It is but a short distance to Rockport where Lincoln borrowed books from local lawyers, and where he left on the flatboat for New Orleans to have his first experience with slavery.

For many years the grave of Nancy Hanks was unmarked. Then in 1870 a monument was erected by Mr. Peter Studebaker, of South Bend, and still later another monument was erected. About 25 years ago the plot containing the grave was purchased by Spencer county, and later turned over to the state for maintenance and preservation as a historical shrine. Efforts are now being made to secure all of the original Thomas Lincoln farm and to restore it as nearly as possible to the condition in which young Lincoln found it when he came to live in the county in 1816. It was in Spencer county that Lincoln lived for 14 years. Gov. Jackson recently stated that Nancy Hanks Lincoln's grave "is the greatest monument to Abraham Lincoln himself."

Just Reward.

"But," protested the new arrival, as St. Peter handed him a golden trumpet, "I can't play this instrument. I never practiced while on earth."

"Of course you didn't," chuckled the old saint. "That's why you are here."

CHEST CLINIC TO OPEN IN CONCORD NEXT MONDAY A. M.

Dr. Lee, Specialist, Will Attend the Clinic For Purpose of Examining the Chests of Patients.

The Cabarrus chest clinic opens at the offices of the county health department, county building, next Monday morning, June 27th, at 8:30 o'clock, and all who desire free chest examination are requested by Mrs. Sherrill, the T. B. nurse, to telephone 600 at once for appointment.

Dr. Lee, the clinician, will have to examine first those who have made appointments. Thus the prospective patients may readily see the advantage of making an appointment.

Any person who has the following symptoms, according to Mrs. Sherrill, should receive examination: a cough longer than two weeks; a hemorrhage from the lungs; an afternoon temperature; loss of weight; loss of strength; easily tired out; expectoration (spitting up mucous and phlegm); chronic hoarseness; night sweats.

If one has or has had T. B. in the family or connections or lives in the house or work with a T. B. case, it is particularly important that this individual should have a chest examination. If one feels down and out, weak and sick or irritable, and does not know the reason, Mrs. Sherrill advises: "Do not take a chance on it but use the health precaution by receiving a chest examination by a specialist."

"Talk the matter over with the family physician," says Mrs. Sherrill, "and ask him to give you a note to the T. B. nurse requesting a chest examination."

WEAVERS MAY PLAY STATESVILLE HERE NEXT SATURDAY P. M.

Manager Lindy Lou Is "Dickering" For a Two-Game Series With Hustlers During This Week.

Efforts are being made today by Clement Manly Levellin, manager of the Concord Weavers, to arrange a two-game series during the current week with the Statesville Hustlers, playing one game here and one at Statesville.

Manager Lindy Lou hopes to match his team with Statesville Tuesday afternoon in the latter's camp, and on Saturday play the same team at the Gibson mill park. The Weaver pilot is also negotiating with Mount Holly for a game here Thursday afternoon.

Twice in succession the Weavers have been shoved into the wall of defeat by the Kannapolis Towelers, losing again Saturday afternoon to Kipke's Klan by a 9 to 4 count. The locals fell into a slump in one frame to allow the Towelers to make a clean sweep to the front and win.

Undaunted by the reverses at the hands of the Kannapolis Klan, the Weavers will redouble their efforts to win over this foe of many years in future games of the 1927 season. No little amount of hard luck has clunged along the trail of Lindy Lou's boys, and the gang is preparing to give this jinx a jolt.

40-GALLON STILL IS FOUND SUNDAY IN NO. 7 TOWNSHIP

Deputy Sheriff A. B. Medlin and M. L. Shoe Located a Complete Outfit in a Pit About Noon.

Deputy Sheriff A. B. Medlin and M. L. Shoe located a copper still of 40-gallon capacity about noon Sunday while searching in parts of No. 7 township. The outfit was wrecked.

The distillery, it appeared, had been in operation probably on Friday, according to the officer. No arrests have been made. Deputy Medlin said that the still was in a large pit, and that a search in proximity of the outfit failed to reveal any liquor or beer.

Caddie Loses Job When He Drops Club on "Golf Bug's" Liquor.

Leo Gabriel, Jr., of Badin is a very unhappy youth today—he is out of a job. Young Gabriel is very popular with the golf players on the Badin course, where he has been one of the caddies. He has developed into a real first class caddie. But now they have gone and fired him. It seems that one of the players of the popular pastime did not like the way young Gabriel handled his clubs—so off the course he was sent and another caddie was secured to take his place.

Leo was secured by one of the "golf bugs" as a caddie last week. He was standing on the teeing-ground with the aforesaid "golf bug," holding his clubs for him. But lo! he let one of them drop and it fell on the golf bag nearby. With a violent crash, something was broken.

It brought tears to young Gabriel's eyes, for he was sure that he had broken several golf clubs. He made an investigation. But not that, the order told otherwise. The youth found that he had made "way with the 'golf bug's' supply of 'bottled in bond'."

The "golf bug" gave the youth a lecture, paid him off and went his way.

An Everlasting Ticket.

A railway official on an English North-country railway obtained leave of absence to get married, and was given a pass for the journey. When he reached the ticket collector, the bridegroom, rather flustered, pulled out his marriage certificate instead of the railway pass, and showed it to him.

The latter, a Scot, looked long at it, and then said, "Eh, mon, you've got a ticket for a long and weary journey, but it's no on the Caledonian line."

SPECIAL TERM OF CIVIL COURT WAS OPENED TODAY

Judge Nat A. Townsend, of Dunn, Is Presiding at Special Term; Several Divorce Suits Are Heard.

With Judge Nat A. Townsend, of Dunn, presiding, the special term of civil court for Cabarrus County opened here this morning, at 10 o'clock.

The special term of court is being held for the purpose of making an effort to clear the unusually heavy docket of civil cases in this county. Twenty-four cases were on the docket that was prepared for the court but in all probability a large percentage of them will be continued to the regular term of court which will be held here in the month of August.

Judge Townsend is presiding at the present special term in the place of Judge Clayton Moore, who was announced as being the judge for the Cabarrus special term.

The following named men were in the jury box as accepted jurors when the court opened for business: C. D. Melcher, Eugene Morgan, John A. Suther, W. O. Ritchie, W. C. Raymer, R. D. Joyner, W. D. Ritchie, S. C. Shinn, V. Walter, G. C. Miller, C. S. Sides and C. O. Earnhardt.

The first case disposed of this morning was John D. Moore, plaintiff, vs. J. D. Johnson, defendant, and a judgment for the plaintiff was secured.

Several divorce suits were disposed of during the morning session, the judgments not being made until the costs of the case were paid. There is an unusually large number of divorce suits to be heard at this term of court, members of the Concord bar stated today.

Court adjourned at noon for the day.

WEST IS FAVORED FOR CONVENTION

Republican National Committee for Some Place Beyond the Mississippi.

George Van Slyke in New York Sun. The Republican national committee favors going "somewhere west of the Mississippi" for its convention next year at which its nominee for President will be selected. Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman from New York, has completed a canvas of the committee and has found that the sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of the West and against the East.

Mr. Hilles started out quietly last winter to promote New York as the convention site. Finding there was no opposition on the part of the Washington administration to his enterprise if that was what the party really wanted, Mr. Hilles made a thorough job of it. On his trip through the states last spring he talked New York and followed that up by communicating with the national committeemen.

The responses are almost unanimous against bringing the 1928 convention to the metropolis. Some of the members set up the Madison Square fiasco as sufficient reason for the Republicans not considering New York, although admitting the superior advantages of this city and a natural wish to come here. The political consideration dominates, however, and that appears to dictate that the Republicans must make their bid to the West.

With a view to appeasing the corn belt area where Coolidge and the Republican party are experiencing their most serious partisan troubles, the managers believe that taking the convention there would have a soothing effect. It would show friendliness to the West. That in connection with the President's proposal to spend his vacation in the West this summer may help markedly to improve the situation in the grain states.

Chicago is considered out of the contest of cities for the convention, due mainly to the attitude of Mayor Thompson who is a self-proclaimed candidate for the nomination for President. Further, Frank O. Lowden and Vice President Dawes, both of Illinois, are candidates.

San Francisco is making a strong bid and may get the convention. St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver have their friends in the committee. Several midwestern cities are also after the convention. Cleveland is favored by some because Coolidge was named there in 1924 and if he is to be nominated again some of his friends say it would be a good start of the campaign to go back to that city.

ELLIOTT ISSUES FIVE LICENSES HERE SATURDAY

Very Few Marriage Licenses Have Been Issued Thus Far This Month, Register of Deeds States.

Dan Cupid, diminutive god of love, has met with very little success in Cabarrus county thus far in the month of June, which is supposed to be an especially favored one in which to get married and there has been very few marriage licenses issued this month, L. V. Elliott, register of deeds, said today.

The record for the month of May was unusually good with approximately forty couples securing the papers to wed but this month will be behind that by a large number unless many couples are licensed to wed during the remaining days of the month.

Saturday is always a popular day for the couples to secure marriage licenses and Register Elliott issued licenses to five white couples Saturday after three days in which not a single license was secured.

Those getting the licenses were: Garfield Tilly and Mrs. Mary Mannus, both of Kannapolis. William H. Talbert and Miss Willie Russell, both of Concord.

Richard Talbert and Miss Maude Holt, both of Concord. Octavia Upright and Miss Cecil Bolick, both of Kannapolis.

Monais M. Hudson and Miss Blanche Earnhardt, both of Kannapolis.

STORES CLOSE ONE AFTERNOON WEEKLY IN SUMMER MONTHS

Kannapolis Merchants Grant Employees Half Holiday on Thursdays, Closing at 1:00 P. M.

The Kannapolis merchants ask the co-operation of their patrons by shopping on Thursdays prior to 1 p. m. The merchants have issued the following relative to the half holiday on Thursday:

"All the Cannon employees receive a half holiday each Saturday, and in justice to our clerks we feel that they are entitled to the same consideration. Realizing that it is impossible for us to close Saturday afternoons, we have decided to give them Thursday afternoons instead, feeling sure that you will see the justice of our policy."

Lindbergh will visit every state in the union, Atlanta National Guardsmen, members of "Atlanta's Oen Regiment," are planning to give him a royal reception when he visits the Gate City of the South and sponsor the reception and entertainment here.

"The fact that Colonel Lindbergh is a National Guard officer has almost been lost sight of," Colonel Charles H. Cox said in discussing the matter with officers of the 122nd infantry.

"When he comes to Georgia and Atlanta is only fitting that Georgia's National Guard and his fellow officers in the guard should sponsor the program."
