CRUISER STRENGTH DISCUSSED AT THE GENEVA CONFERENCE

Plan Submitted by United States Covering This Type of Craft May Be Accepted Without Delay

Geneva, June 23.—(AP)—Cruiser strength has been emphasized by the American delegates to the tri-partite naval conference, and from the private discussions that have been proceeding it appeared today that the Americans do not look for insurmountable difficulties in arriving at some arrangement with Japan for a proportionate strength in this type of warship as between the two countries.

While Japan is adverse to application of a ratio system that would place their country in an inferior position, it is thought likely that Japan will accept a cruiser tonnage giving her only a slightly higher proportion than 5-5-3, that is, 5 for the United States and 3.4 for Japan.

There were indications today that another problem of the conference was in the way of a settlement, a problem raised by Great Britain's proposal for a reduction in the tonnage of future battleships and aircraft carriers, and the size of their guns. Agreements on the size of these types of aircraft were reached at the Washington naval conference in 1922, and the American delegation is unmistakably opposed to any direct reconsideration of these arrangements.

Consequently it is thought likely that as a conciliatory move the Americans will suggest adoption of a resolution that any agreement adopted by the present conference shall not prejudice the program of the second Washington conference set for 1931. The treaty of 1922 stipulated that this second Washington conference should be called to determine whether scientific developments justify modification of the agreements relating to the size of battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers.

In discussing this phase some conference quarters have pointed out that the ocean flights of Lindbergh and Chamberlin raise the question as to the advisability of greater aircraft carrier strength to keep up with the developing speed of inter-continental air communication.

DECLARE SOUTHERN FREIGHT SERVICES HAVE BEEN SLOW

Business Men of Salisbury and Winston-Salem Testify at the Hearing in Charlotte.

Charlotte, June 23.—(AP)—Charges that the Southern Railway has been giving "very slow" freight service, and that completion of the electric Piedmont and Northern line would be a benefit were made here today by Salisbury and Winston-Salem business men testifying in the hearing on the petition of the electric line for permission to extend its tracks.

The hearing is being held by H. C. Davis, examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Southern Railway and other lines operating in the Piedmont Carolinas are opposing extension of the interurban.

The slowness of the Southern's service to Greensboro and points northward is such, W. P. Strachan, of Salisbury, said, that business houses have been "forced to private trucking." He said he uses private trucks for interurban shipments.

On cross examination Mr. Strachan said he was "with the Southern Railway" at the time the Spencer transfer was established, and said that "at that time we thought it would be a great thing for shippers of less than car lots from the west." He said the present "unsatisfactory" service might be due to administrative failure.

R. M. Sigmon, a Salisbury real estate man, said the building of the P. & N. through his town would hasten the development of the municipality and contiguous territory.

John L. Gilmer, president of the Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce read a statement advocating construction of the P. & N. extension. On cross examination he said that his statement represented the opinion of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce. He emphasized the expectation that building the line will be "an important contribution" to general incentive for development of the territory it is proposed to serve.

Witness Says the Southern Has Been Especially Slow With Local Short Hauls.

TWO OFFICERS AND THIEF DIE DURING CHICAGO GUN FIGHT

Two Officers Shot It Out With Auto Thief and All Three Were Mortally Wounded During Battle

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)—Darkness mantled a triple slaying early today in a North Side alley, with no witness left to tell what happened, except a mystery girl who fled in horror before the roar of the last revolver shot had died away.

Two policemen shot it out with an automobile thief and the three were killed. The deadly accuracy of their aim was shown by the fact that all but one of the seven shots fired found its mark, the single wild shot being fired by the robber.

The policemen dead are: Sergeant Thomas Kehoe, 52 years old, and Officer James Farley, 32. The man they killed was identified as Dan Leathers, who in 1922 was sent to the Pontiac reformatory on a robbery charge.

The bodies of the policemen were found on a lawn in front of 4939 North Rockwell street. Kehoe was dead with a bullet over the temple, and another in his back. Farley had been shot in the stomach and chest, but was living and conscious when police reserves arrived.

PRISONERS IN MINE HAVE NO FOOD

If They Have Had Any Thing for 45 Hours It Was Oats Sent to Mules Which Are With Them.

Lansing, Kans., June 23.—(AP)—Oats issued as ration for mules today constituted the only food known to be available to 328 convicts and their fourteen captive guards barricaded in the prison coal mine here since 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

As the mutineers passed their 45th hour underground there was nothing to indicate they wish to withdraw their ultimatum "No cigarettes, no coal."

Prison authorities said the noon meal sent down the 720-foot shaft shortly before the strikers blocked the cage would have been exhausted last night at the latest. This would leave only thirty bushels of oats intended for the seventeen mules used in the mines. The possibility that the men would butcher the mules as they threatened during a previous mutiny, was scouted by Deputy Warden R. H. Hadspeith, in charge.

A telephone call from a spokesman for the strikers last night requested that the wives of the captive guards be allowed to talk to their husbands was the last word heard from the mine. When this was refused, negotiations ceased.

Hadspeith said today that any further negotiations would have to be started by the convicts as he was willing to allow the "hunger cure" to continue.

OFFICERS NOT YET ABLE TO IDENTIFY NEGRO BEING HELD

Negro Was Arrested in Connection With Death of Morganton Girl But Denies He is One Sought

Morganton, N. C., June 23.—(AP)—A crowd fagged out by more than 36 hours of steady searching for Broadus Miller, negro slayer of Gladys Kincaid, rested around the Burke county court house this morning. Through the long man hunt there has been demonstration of mob rule, though a price of $500 has been placed upon the head of the negro who has successfully evaded a party of searchers that at one time numbered more than 2,500.

The funeral of the young girl, a pretty 15-year-old daughter of a prominent family in this county, was held at 11 o'clock from the Catawba Valley Baptist Church, and a new wave of resentment surged over the crowd then.

Members of the sheriff's party have been speeding back and forth over the foothill section of North Carolina in an effort to quickly identify the many captures that have been made, but it is not believed that the right negro is being held at any of these places.

Asheville, Marion, Lenoir, Hickory and other sections of this country have captured and held tall "ginger cake" negroes until the Burke officers could identify them. The only one who is now being held is a slender light-colored negro who was taken off a freight train in Hickory. Burke officials saw him late yesterday afternoon, and doubt that he is the man, but he is being held for further identification. He says his name is Lucius Livingston, of Asheville, and that he worked for a Mr. Wooten until Tuesday afternoon.

THE STOCK MARKET

Rallying Tendencies Developed in Market After Bears Found Weak Spots.

New York, June 23.—(AP)—Rallying tendencies developed in the stock market today after an earlier period in which the bear traders had uncovered a number of weak spots, basing their selling on reports of declining business in some industries and discouragement over the failure to remedy unprecedented overproduction in oils. The expected stiffening of money rates with the return of income checks to the banks failed to materialize, and aggressive buying was resumed in Baldwin, Central Railway Signal and a few other high priced shares.
