CHANCE WORD BRINGS MAN BACK TO REASON

Visitor in Hospital Causes W. S. Pope to Recall Name and Accident Particulars.

Lumberton, Aug. 22.—A chance word spoken by a visitor in the Baker sanatorium caused W. S. Pope, a patient out of his mind for three days, suddenly to recall his name and particulars of an accident last Wednesday from which he was brought here in an unconscious condition.

Grover T. Page, who found Mr. Pope, a native of Columbus, Ga., and caused a local physician to bring him to the hospital, happened to mention the name of Dr. Pope, of Lumberton. The dazed man asked that it be repeated, and from that he told his story of being pushed from a car four miles from here by two men who had picked him up.

Mr. Pope said that previous to a few days ago he was employed in the silk mills of Crumpton, Gaston county. He is 52 years old, and had no money on his person when brought to the hospital, although he said that he had $7 when he left Lumberton Wednesday.

"In the case of defective vision we have a doctor filling the optician classification in the club. He makes all examinations without charge. The glasses which he prescribes are sold to us by the American Optical Company at a liberal discount.

"You will want to know very naturally, where and how do you find out about these children? Experience has demonstrated that the best way to get leads is through close co-operation with the school authorities, the principals, teachers and particularly the school nurses and truant officers. These are they who are in the best position to really know which children are most deserving. Where the applications do not initiate with these authorities, but come from parents or friends the committee invariably goes to them for information and approval before taking any action. By following this rule of procedure it has helped eliminate, or at least reduce to a minimum, those cases where money was spent on undeserving children.

"Suppose we were helping a boy through college. We would lend him $200 per year for four years, or a total of $800. About the fifth or sixth year this money should start coming back to us little by little, as the boy made good in his work. This money would go to supplement the College Loan Fund and thus enlarge the scope of the work of the committee.

"I feel certain this work is bound to appeal to you all, not only for the sentimental element but mostly for the practical value in building up boys and girls into real citizens of worth to community, state and nation."

Funeral of Archie W. Scott. Funeral services for Archie W. Scott, who died early yesterday morning after a lingering illness, will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Scott, on East Depot street.

The services will be conducted by Rev. R. M. Courtney, pastor of Central Methodist Church, and interment will follow in Oakwood cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. J. H. Foll. Funeral services for Mrs. J. H. Foll, who died Tuesday at her home in Mt. Pleasant, were held at the St. James Reformed Church in Mt. Pleasant yesterday afternoon.

The services were attended by a large concourse of friends and relatives.

Mrs. Foll was 67 years of age and prominently known and much beloved throughout the county.

BUTTERWORTH HERE FOR TALK BEFORE LOCAL ROTARIANS

Tells of Work Being Done in Charlotte to Aid Young People Who Want to Secure Education.

Ebert Butterworth, of the Charlotte Rotary Club, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Concord club yesterday. He was a guest of the "Back to School" committee of the Concord club and discussed at some length the work being done by a similar committee of the Charlotte club.

The following are extracts from his address:

"For the last three or four years the Charlotte Rotary Club has had two committees, the Rotary School committee and the Student's Loan Fund Committee. This year the work of these two committees, which overlapped considerably, has been consolidated in one committee known as the 'High School and College Loan Fund Committee.' In the Charlotte club the work done among the school children had its inception in the idea that 'no child in Charlotte should fail to get an education for lack of finance.' With this as both the foundation and the goal the committee went to work.

"Each case that comes before the committee is handled individually. There is no attempt made to group similar cases and handle them mechanically as a matter of routine, although many of them fall naturally into classifications. The cases handled range from children whose parents cannot afford to send them to school to ambitious young men who are trying to work their way through college. By far the greatest number of cases are found where children have to be treated for trouble with their eyes, ears, nose and throat. Another typical case is that of the boy who is obliged to help support the family and who feels that he must discontinue school to make greater earnings. This type of case is rather difficult because our appropriations are not large enough to permit much supplemental financial assistance. We endeavor to place the boy in an afternoon and Saturday job and then give additional help where needed. In one case we purchased a bicycle for a boy so that he could work as a messenger boy. In other cases a little help with grocery bills relieved the pressure sufficiently to allow the child to continue the schooling. Some times we helped out by contributing $2.00, $3.00 or $4.00 per week in assisting the family budget.

"There have been a few cases where the children, girls or boys, who have been in the juvenile courts, were incorrigible. For one reason or another they were unable to continue in the city schools. In these cases the committee managed to locate an endowed industrial school or similar institution and placed the child there. This costs about $8.00 or $9.00 per month for maintenance.

"Then there are some cases where the expense involved is too great for the limited funds placed at the disposal of the committee.

"Take the cases where only books are needed. Our school board has a fund for furnishing books to indigent children. Very often the parents do not know about this or how to make application to the board. Our committee works with the School Board and secures these books where the parents might fail. This saves the Club some of its appropriation.

"As I said before the largest number of cases involve children having physical defects. By defects I mean children who are doing very poor classroom work due to defective eyesight, diseased tonsils, adenoids and other physical defects of that character. In Charlotte the schools are under the supervision of trained nurses who make regular periodical examinations of every child for eye, ear, nose, throat and teeth troubles. From the very beginning there were so many calls for help of this kind that the committee arranged, through the co-operation of the eye, ear, nose and throat specialists for a flat rate on this work.

"In the case of defective vision we have a doctor filling the optician classification in the club. He makes all examinations without charge. The glasses which he prescribes are sold to us by the American Optical Company at a liberal discount.

"You will want to know very naturally, where and how do you find out about these children? Experience has demonstrated that the best way to get leads is through close co-operation with the school authorities, the principals, teachers and particularly the school nurses and truant officers. These are they who are in the best position to really know which children are most deserving. Where the applications do not initiate with these authorities, but come from parents or friends the committee invariably goes to them for information and approval before taking any action. By following this rule of procedure it has helped eliminate, or at least reduce to a minimum, those cases where money was spent on undeserving children.

"Suppose we were helping a boy through college. We would lend him $200 per year for four years, or a total of $800. About the fifth or sixth year this money should start coming back to us little by little, as the boy made good in his work. This money would go to supplement the College Loan Fund and thus enlarge the scope of the work of the committee.

"I feel certain this work is bound to appeal to you all, not only for the sentimental element but mostly for the practical value in building up boys and girls into real citizens of worth to community, state and nation."

Little Gold Band "Lost" Several Weeks Ago Taken From Right Rear Window Panel of Essex.

While riding with Miss May Cookson in an Essex coach some weeks ago, Mrs. W. C. Jamison, of Kannapolis, lost her wedding ring somewhere in the car. It must have fallen into one of the door panels or into the rear window panel, and, right she was.

The upholstering was removed from the right rear door of the auto by Bob Lee at the Concord Motor Company Wednesday, and the little gold band was found. The ring has been returned to Mrs. Jamison. Since Mrs. Jamison lost the ring the Essex had been traded in to the Concord Motor Co.

The game, which was errorless, was one of the fastest here this season, lasting only an hour and 20 minutes.

Frazier led the attack for Siler City, getting two doubles and singling out four trips. He also scored half of his team's runs. Braxton hit a double and single of three times up.

This marked Fogleman's 20th victory in 22 games.

TOWELERS AT WEBB FIELD TODAY; BIG CROWD FOR ORDEAL

Kannapolis Brings Strengthened Club to Battle Weavers in Games to Decide the County Championship.

Decisions being reached by the officials of both clubs that the results of the season's play will determine the championship of Cabarrus county instead of the final seven games of the schedule, the strengthened clubs of Concord and Kannapolis clash at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the first of the games to decide the title.

Seven more games remain on the schedule. Concord must win three of the number to capture the championship, five defeats being necessary to eliminate the Weavers as county champions. The season's standing to date between Concord and Kannapolis follows:

Table with 3 columns: Club, Won, Lost Pct. Concord --- 8 --- 8 571 Kannapolis --- 6 --- 8 428

The Kannapolis officials in their agreement to let the season's play decide the county championship did not concede they were mistaken about a verbal contract between themselves and Concord moguls that the last seven games of the season were to determine the winner of the county title.

Practically New Team. Kannapolis brings to Concord this afternoon a decidedly stronger club than the Weavers played two weeks ago. "Railroad" Ray, catcher of the High Point club, Piedmont league, will be behind the plate. Donaldson, who has been catching for the Towelers most of the season, will play in rightfield. Wade Lefler, former Washington Senator, will be on first base; Sank at the keystone bag; Mottisinger in the shortfield; Smut Smith, at the torrid corner; Johnson, late of Kendall Mills, in the field; and Lee Ry in the center garden.

George (Lefty) Smith, whose pitching has puzzled Concord batsmen several times this season, will twirl for The Towelers. Smith came to Kannapolis this week from Kendall Mills for which club he has been hurling great ball this season. Smith will find as his opponent Howard Lawson, ace of the Concord hurling staff. The Weavers line-up follows: Rawson, catcher; Lewellyn, first base; Taulber, second; Hord, shortstop; Clayton, third; M. Miller, leftfield; Hatley, center field; Outen, rightfield.

WOMAN CAPTURES STILL

Holds Operators at Bay With 45 Until Dry Agents Can Get to Scene of Mooning.

Greensboro, Aug. 31.—Armed with her husband's 45 calibre pistol, Mrs. Lee J. Church, Wilkes county woman, stood guard over a liquor plant on the farm owned by her husband and herself until federal agents could arrive and destroy the plant, according to a report received here by J. L. Osteen, deputy prohibition administrator for North Carolina.

The report was made by Agents H. C. Kiley and R. E. Prevatte. Mrs. Julia Grier, a neighbor, joined Mrs. Church in guarding the place, the report stated.

When the Churchs discovered that moonshiners were attempting to operate on their farm, Mrs. Church took the pistol and went to the still, remaining until dry agents could arrive from Wilkesboro, a distance of several miles.

The still was of fifty gallons capacity and the plant was completely equipped for rum making. A large quantity of beer or mash was awaiting distillation and this, along with all equipment, was destroyed.

Sung for Top Soil

Notice of suit by Mason Goodman against the County Highway Commission was filed at the court house yesterday with Clerk of Court McAllister. Mr. Goodman, according to papers filed, is seeking $21.60 for top soil taken from his land by the commission during the building of a road in the neighborhood of Mr. Goodman's farm.

It is estimated that more than 1,000,000 sandwiches are eaten every day in New York lunch rooms.

GREASON, OUTEN ON OBSERVER'S ALL-STATE TEAM

Randy Edmondson Picks Mythical Team From 11 Semi-Pro Outfits. — Kannapolis Has Three on List.

Concord has two representatives on the mythical all-state semi-pro baseball team selected by Randy Edmondson, sports scribe. In The Charlotte Observer. They are Murray Greason, second base; and Chink Outen, hard-hitting rightfield. The article in which Mr. Edmondson named The Charlotte Observer's all-state semi-pro team follows:

Eleven towns are represented on The Charlotte Observer's all-state semi-pro baseball team for the season of 1927.

It is one of the most representative yet named, and it is a team with strong defense and offense. The selection is printed below.

It won't please everybody. The writer does not expect any such miracle. But from information received from correspondents over the state and close followers of the semi-pro game each player tops other players of his position.

A McAllister-Greason-Mottisinger-Hawn combination would form an infield that would be as strong as a stone wall on defense and like a pile driver with the willow. McAllister is a base runner of no mean ability. His fielding with the Towelers this season has been outstanding while his batting has been jam-up too.

Big Boy. Everyone knows what Murray Greason can do and has done. Four years in athletics at Wake Forest: He was crowned the outstanding second baseman last year while playing for Fayetteville. Reports show he has not let up this year. So it's Greason again for the keystone bag.

"Rabbi" Mottisinger has hit safely in 57 games and has fielded like a big leaguer, although he is a lad of just 20 summers. He is awarded the berth over Arthur Hoard, who is a dangerous hitter, but not the fielder to have excelled the Toweler youth this season.

Jobie Hawn. Jobie Hawn, named on The Observer team last season, again gets the call this year. Jobie has been one of Hickory's outstanding performers this year. If we were writing about football—we would say he is a triple threat man—understand?

An outfield made up of .400 hitters and sensational fielders! Ed Mackie, the former Carolina ace; Red Ryby, the ex-Piedmont leaguer and "Chink" Outen, the hero of many State college games and a peerless rightfielder to the Concord fans, would make worry for any pitcher. Wade Lefler, the former Washington Senator, who now is performing for Newton is placed in the utility role. He is a veteran of the game and knows his positions.

Batterymen. Clarence Rawson, the old timer of sandlot baseball in Charlotte is selected as one of the catchers while Townsend, who played with Mt. Holly the first part of the season and later joined a Piedmont league club, is the other receiver.

Pitchers: There's always plenty to think about when one selects all star hurlers. Jimmy Fogleman, of Siler City, who at one time during the season had won 16 out of 17 games, tops the list of semi-pros. Lefty Smith has been responsible for endall Mills' great showing, while another southpaw, Homesley, of Statesville, has turned in 20 victories.

CABARRUS COUNTY IS SCENE OF TWO BIG EVENTS TODAY

Hundreds Attending Hahn Reunion, Near Mt. Pleasant, and Home Coming in No. 10 Township.

Two important celebrations are being held today in Cabarrus county—the Home Coming of sons and daughters of Number 10 township, and the Hahn reunion near Mt. Pleasant. Reports emanating from the scenes of the festivities claim that a great throng of people is present at each of the events.

The Hahn reunion always attracts several hundred persons from this and surrounding counties. The Hahn family is one of the largest families in the county, and its connections about the state are wide. A splendid program and a big picnic dinner featured the day's program.

Natives of Number 10 township came "home" today for a great time with relatives and friends. This event is being held at Bethel Camp Meeting ground.

Still another event of unusual interest today is the 110th birthday anniversary celebration of Mrs. Martha Fink, who lives in Number 1 township. Friends and relatives of this lovely old woman will gather for a reunion and a great feast.

Children of school age require the most careful attention in regard to their diet and health habits, asserts Ethel Somers in an article in this week's Liberty, suggesting the program below as a good one for the child to follow:

"Go to bed regularly at an early hour, and sleep with windows open. Start the day right with a good breakfast, and don't neglect to eat plenty of energizing cereal, preferably whole cereal.

"Drink milk with every meal (about one quart daily). Eat one or two generous servings of vegetables other than potatoes daily—one of these vegetables preferably raw. Eat protein body-builders, such as eggs, fish, cheese, and meat, daily. Maintain regular toilet habits of cleanliness and evacuation.

VACCINATE SCHOOL CHILDREN FRIDAY AT MOUNT PLEASANT

As Time Draws Near For the New School Year Children Submit to Vaccination Against Smallpox.

The Cabarrus county health department will conduct a clinic in the Feil building at Mt. Pleasant, between the hours of 3 and 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon to vaccinate school children against smallpox. The workers of the health unit have been very busy during the past several days in administering smallpox vaccine to school children.

More than 130 children have submitted to the smallpox vaccination at Kannapolis during the past week as the county health department held a clinic at South school. The State law as well as the county law demands that all school children to have the smallpox vaccination before being allowed to enter school.

STATE SCHOOLS WILL REQUIRE 59,917 TEACHERS

In 1950, Says School Head.—At Present Over 23,000 Are Employed.

Raleigh, Aug. 30.—North Carolina's schools will require a total of 59,917 teachers in 1950, according to a prediction made today by M. C. S. Noble, Jr. in charge of statistical work in the department of education. At present a little over 23,000 teachers are employed.

This prediction is not a rash guess, but the result of several months investigation, and is contained in a report made to A. T. Allen, superintendent of public instruction. The figures were obtained by calculating the rate of growth of the schools since 1900, and assuming that the state will continue its present increasing rate of growth.
