

BEN LACY SPEAKS BEFORE ROTARIANS AT WEEKLY MEETING

Former "Fighting Parson" Delivers an Inspiring Appeal For Men to "Fill the Gap."

Addressing the members of the Concord Rotary Club and their guests yesterday noon in the civic club dining room of Hotel Concord, Ben R. Lacy, Jr., D. D., President of the Union Theological Seminary, of Richmond, Va., and one-time "Fighting Parson" of the North Carolina expedition to France, made a stirring and eloquent appeal for men to "fill the gap."

After giving notable examples of men who had stood in the gap, sometimes single-handedly, because of their unwavering belief in the ultimate good of their stand, Mr. Lacy summed up his appeal by stating that courage, righteousness and faith are necessary requisites for those who would bear the brunt even when forced to fight the battle alone.

Of these three, he added, faith is by far the most important because it is the basis of courage and righteousness.

Speaking of the little group of Frenchmen who held de Troyon against eight successive German attacks in the early days of the World War, the former chaplain said that it was their courage in the time of need that saved Paris from hostile hands.

The hardest thing for men to do, said Mr. Lacy, "is to stand for the things they think when the crowds are surging in another direction. To adequately fill the gap we must at all times be ready, through righteousness, courage and faith, to make a determined stand, regardless of what other people think or do."

More than a score of guests, most of them delegates to the Presbyterian Synod, accepted invitations of the club members to attend the weekly meeting which was in charge of H. I. Woodhouse and E. C. Barnhardt.

Following the address by Mr. Lacy, A. H. Jarratt invited the visiting delegates and the members of the club to attend the football game between the Barium Springs Orphanage and the Concord High School yesterday afternoon.

William Morris and William Bingham were announced as the committee in charge of the meeting for next week.

HIGH SCHOOL WILL BOAST THIS YEAR A GOOD ORCHESTRA

Prof. Hobart Davis Is New Director. — Make Public Debut In About Four Weeks.

When the Concord high school orchestra makes its first public debut for the new school year early in November, it will be a well-trained group of musicians, capable of playing many difficult numbers.

Prof. Davis has set up many rigid rules relative to practices in earnest. He not only requires prompt attendance of the members at group practice but devotes time to each individual in order to gather his or her ability as musicians and the progress each might be attaining.

Those who have attended a practice agree readily that the tone of the music is improved over the renditions of the orchestra in 1924.

The orchestra will have a membership of about 40 high school students. At the present, however, only about 35 are reporting for daily practices.

The present personnel follows: Violins—Edgar Davis, John Williams, Eugene Kidd, Alice Wall, Bruce Glover, Sadie Harris, Fred Brown, John Pickard, Charles M. Ivey, Ruth Turner, Robert Moore, Alysmae Fuller, Annie Elizabeth Utley and Mabel Russell.

Violas—Pearl Fink, Lillian Eudy and Leslie Kearns. Cellos—Margurite Preslar. String bass—Leonard Long and Billy Sapp.

Flutes—William Ward and Virginia Dayvault. Clarinets—Raiford Miller, Davis Sears and Joe Widenhouse.

Alto mellophones—Jim Willeford, Weldon Wall and Frank Neal. Trumpets—Joe Pike, Carl Blackwelder, Billy Howard and Ben Parks.

Trombones—Edgar Russell and William Boyd. Tuba bass—James McEchern. Percussion—Olin Helms and Ralph Ridehour.

Piano—Frances Weddington.

ORPHANS ARE HELD TO SCORELESS TIE BY SPIDER ELEVEN

Barium Springs and Concord High School Battle Fiercely to Deadlock Here on Wednesday.

A furore of football, the sort that enlists not only your attention but voice, swept to and fro on the Webb field gridiron Wednesday afternoon when the Spiders of Concord high school and the Black and Gold Tornado of Barium Springs fought to a scoreless tie.

Tenaciously the evenly-matched eleven pitted their strength and skill against each other vainly. It was a fray in which there was no score to herald either team's clean fight, but one in which two well-coached eleven gave their best for their alma mater.

Conversations were fought without conservation of brawn and wit, each team being enveloped in desperate frenzy to futility.

The clashing foes quit the gridiron without either the Spiders or the Tornado displaying any great superiority over the other.

The Ten Commandments of football were strikingly exemplified by both eleven. To those who would know, the Ten Commandments of football may be said in a three-word sentence—get your man! That's exactly what was done by these teams when on the defense.

The man with the ball did not get far until he was halted in a scramble of arms and legs. The Spiders and the eleven units of the Barium Springs Blast seemed to have been equipped with four-wheel brakes when it came to stopping each other's drives.

For the most part the battle was fought between the forty yard lines, but occasionally there bobbed up breaks which favored possible opportunities to score.

Early in the initial period a Barium Springs back, receiving a 30-yard punt, fumbled the ball, Concord recovering deep in the enemy's zone.

The Orphan forward defense was found to be inflexible, however, by Concord backs, and after losing the ball on downs, the Orphans booted the pigskin out of their territory.

Again in the second period after finally routing a dangerous threat of the visitors it seemed probable that Concord might push over a touchdown.

With Brown, clever backfield star, producing plenty of thrills for his supporters by skirting the ends, the Orphans were advancing the ball rapidly toward Concord's quarters, but when Quarterback McKay elected to pass Howard grabbed the ball and raced 20 yards to Barium Spring's 40-yard line before he was tackled.

On the first play, passed 15 yards to Howard, but here the Tornado stiffened its defense and refused to yield additional ground and the ball went over on downs to the visitors.

In the final two periods the breaks developed in favor of Barium Springs. Hudson recovered a fumble on Concord's 45-yard line, and Edwards grabbed a pass for 15 yards on the first play, and running to the 30-yard line before he was stopped.

Two other passes failed and an off-tackle buck netted a three-yard loss, after which McKay punted to Captain Sanders who was downed on his own 20-yard line.

CARROLL HAYWOOD BEST SPELLER IN GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

Son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Haywood Wins in Contest Held in All the Grammar Schools of the City.

In a contest held yesterday in order to determine the best speller in the grammar grades of Concord, Carroll Haywood, nine-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Haywood, was declared the winner.

Willie Furr, a 6-B student at No. 2 school, came second in the contest and honorable mention was given to Louise Stewart, a student in the 4-A grade at Central school.

Carroll is in the 4-B grade at Central. These three children tied in the preliminary contest in which they were given words which they had studied in the year books of these children.

In the final contest, however, they were given a new list of words—words which they had not studied but which were of suitable difficulty to their grade.

In no case did a child in a low grade compete with a child in a higher grade on the same list of words.

Each list of words was carefully selected and graded according to the difficulty of the fourth grade student, etc., the child spelling the most words correctly from the list given him being declared the winner.

A prize of $2.00 is offered to the best speller in the grammar grades of Concord by the Fair Association and a prize of fifty cents is offered to the child coming second.

So, besides being declared the champion speller in the grammar schools, Carroll and Willie will be the proud possessors of the prize money.

REYNOLDS STILL REPORTED ABOUT

Youth Fails to Inform Relatives of His Whereabouts.

New York, Oct. 4.—Richard J. Reynolds' absence from New York last Tuesday after a mysterious disappearance of 12 days, seemed yesterday almost as much of a mystery as his original disappearance.

The young son of the late R. J. Reynolds, founder of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, has not, it was learned, communicated with either relatives or business associates since he was discovered in St. Louis.

He left there hurriedly, saying he was coming to New York; but, so far as anyone with whom he might be expected to communicate was concerned, he was still en route to the city.

Val O'Farrell, head of the detective agency bearing his name, said one of his associates thought Reynolds telephoned the office on Saturday, giving an assumed name; but he admitted it was only a surmise because the caller had a Southern accent, and said that he could not give a reason why Reynolds should do such a thing.

He denied the agency was worried over the continued absence of the young man or that it had renewed the search for him.

"We figure he is just taking his time about coming back," said Mr. O'Farrell. "He hasn't sent us or his relatives or business associates word, directly or indirectly; but that is his habit, we know now, and nobody is worried."

Persons who knew Reynolds were well satisfied that the young man found in St. Louis was really he. They said the identification "seemed positive," even to the possession of a green fountain pen, which Reynolds had boasted was the only one he had ever been able to keep.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 4.—Breaking their previous reticence, the rival and diminutive pilots of the Yankees and Pirates both predicted victories in statements today to the Associated Press.

"We're going to win," Donnie Bush, Pirate manager declared. "That's not mere confidence; it's a conviction. This club is too strong and game to be licked. Our right hand pitchers will stop the Yankee sluggers. They've got to because they're all we've got. The players are in good shape."

It's always harder in a short series but I expect our pitchers to hold their own. The club is stronger and steeper than last year. The boys have the range at bat and I don't see how they can be stopped."
