For the purpose of encouraging and dustry of the county and vicinity a turkey rally or turkey market will be held in Concord, Saturday, November Baptist Church Sunday, November 13. 19, 1927, beginning at 10 o'clock, on the vacant lots adjoining the County Building, South Church street.

There is a two fold object in view One is to give breeders of turkeys an opportunity to exchange or buy breeding stock: and the other is to supply a demand for fat turkeys for Thanksgiving day.

I will take this occasion to say that the general feeling is that too little consideration is paid to the quality of the breeding stock kept and used.

breeding are sold as meat, and the result is a falling off in the size and vigor of the flock. This is a condition that every effort should be made to correct; and the first step toward doing so is in a careful selection of the breeding stock. All those who have turkeys they want to sell or exchange as breeders and those having turkey Herrin and Gus Joyner, Miss Zula they want to dispose of to the Thanksgiving day trade are give this chance to sell them. Let us make this first turkey rally a grand success and look forward to making it an annual event.

By C D| MATTHEWS The growing of pecan nursery stock for transplanting is a highly specialized industry. These trees require more skill to grow and are more difficult to propagate than the usual fruit trees. Since the future yields of pecans are so much influenced by the stocks used for budding, by the kind of budwood used, and by methods of propagation it may be readily seen how important it is to have trees come from a reliable source.

There are two methods of propogat ing pecan trees, namely root-grafting

If the trees are dug before the leaves have fallen normally or if the roots are badly bruised in digging, or exposed to sun and wind, or are not properly packed to prevent drying out in transit, all efforts on the part of the buyer will avail nothing.
