The Shiftless Farmer—Do You Know Him?

J. H. Parker, in Progressive Farmer.

Blake Johnson says he knows farmers who go to town six days in the week and leave little boys at home to do the work. Unfortunately their name is legion. They are in almost every neighborhood. Their places look like widows' houses and their wives have to pick up wood along branches and glean the fence to get fire wood to cook their meals of Western pork and such vegetables as they can raise themselves. They have no houses for the fowls which sleep in trees and under the leaky shelter on his wagons centered in town. They are deeply interested in the war in the Far East, and will go to postoffice and wait for hours to get the news, and if perchance they happen to stay at home one day, they will stop at the end of the row, and talk politics with whoever may chance to come along, till the signal for dinner is given and then wait for their little boys, or even girls, to come and take their horses to the lot and feed them the best they may. The stable is a miserable pen, unfit for any animal to stay in, and is only cleaned when manure is obliged to be had.

Tell these men of the duties they owe to their families, and it is to them a fable. Tell them of the great possibilities that lay before them, and it is an iridescent dream; is it any wonder that hard times are present with such? Would it not be in any business followed the same way? Is it any wonder that the occupation under such management has fallen into bad repute?

Now, I don't know Blake Johnson, but he seems to be a man that has the courage of his convictions.

I think he is right. In the interest of humanity, such men as he speaks of should be sentenced to the roads or some other penal servitude that they may have opportunity to reflect on their ways and think of the good women they are murdering. Perhaps some brother may get mad at this, but I have heard that as long as men get mad at being told of their faults, there is chance for reformation. They tell us this is a free country, and they have the right to do as they please, but freedom does not mean license to do wrong; and this conduct is unpardonable.

FIGHT WILL BE BITTER.

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Read what T. R. Beall of Beall, Miss. has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her. Guaranteed by all Druggists. Price 50c. and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

There will be preaching at the M. E. church next Sunday night by the preacher.

THROWN FROM A WAGON.

Mr. George K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well known citizen of North Plain, Conn. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for sprains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one-third the time required by any other treatment. For sale by all Druggists and Dealers.
