Lindsay Taylor Dies In West Va.

Lindsay Taylor died in West Virginia a few days ago from an abscess of the throat. His body was brought to his home four miles north of Danbury yesterday, and the first indication his widowed mother had of the sad fact of his death was when a wagon drove up to the door with the corpse on board.

Lindsay had been at work in West Virginia several years.

There are several steam threshing machines in the neighborhood at present.

Death of Billie Rutledge.

Germantown, July 23.—It becomes our painful duty to announce the death of Billie Rutledge, which occurred Sunday, July 22nd, and 4:15 P. M. Billie was a promising young man, the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rutledge. He would have been nineteen years old the 27th of August. While it seems hard to give him up yet we are persuaded to believe it is better so. Billie has been sick with the fatal disease consumption since last March, but was only confined to his bed for two weeks. The funeral services were at Friendship Baptist Church conducted by the pastor, Mr. Wilson. The family have our profound sympathy in this hour of deep trouble.

(An obituary notice of Mr. Rutledge's death by his pastor will appear in the next issue of the Reporter.)

Messrs. A. J. Owens, Zack Moran and J. N. Young were visitors in town Saturday evening.
