OLD SOLDIERS' DAY SATURDAY.

At Danbury next Saturday the old confederate soldiers—the last remnant of the Army of Northern Virginia in Stokes county—will meet. It is the purpose of the managers of the association to have Gov. Glenn or Hon. C. B. Watson to address the old soldiers. Every person in the county who can do so, is invited to come out and bring a basket and help give the "boys in gray" a good dinner. Col. M. V. Mabe and Dr. L. H. Hill have promised to make music on the fife, and some one will probably beat the drum. From present indications there will be a tremendous crowd here. Everyone feels an interest in the old soldiers. Their ranks are sadly fading away, and only a very few more years will elapse before the last of the once gallant and invincible army will have passed over the river to be waked by the bugle calls on the other side. Let us do them these honors now in their old age and in their last days. It will not cost much, and they will appreciate it more than anything. Many of them are poor and have not had a square meal in many a day. Let the sons and daughters and the grand children and the friends of the old men come out and help them to pass a happy day.

Capt. James A. Leak writes the Reporter that owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Leak that he may be detained from coming, but that he will be here if he possibly can, and that he desires every one to take an interest in making the day a pleasant one for the old soldiers.

LOOK OUT FOR CONSUMPTION.

The Reporter has no desire to be an alarmist, but we feel it our duty to warn those of our readers who would appreciate such that the number of cases of consumption in the neighborhood of Danbury at this time is indeed cause for concern, and that some method of avoiding contagion should be adopted. It is well known by intelligent people that the promiscuous expectation of consumptives in public places is dangerous to the general health of the people, especially of those who are predisposed to consumption either by heredity or constitutional weakness. It is certain that there are at this time no less than six well defined cases of tuberculosis in this community and equally certain that no sort of precaution is observed to prevent the fatal germs from finding new fields to pasture in.

In some States there are laws, we believe, that prohibit consumptives from expectorating in public places. While we have no such laws, we should at least be very careful to observe the common sense precautions, and one of these is to sleep in well ventilated rooms and keep as much fresh air and cleanliness around us as possible. Nothing is so fatal to the germ of consumption as fresh air.

One of the most pertinent questions of the day at this time, so far as our own county is concerned, is, what has suddenly become of the North Carolina Protective Association.

OUR LORD AND MASTER.

In olden times in England a duke owned immense tracts of country, rich provinces, towns, cities and the inhabitants, body and soul. His power was about as absolute as that of the king. North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky is a dukedom, and the master of this territory is a real Duke. Our lands are in effect his, just as much as if he owned them in fee simple. Our people are his serfs. The rich products of our lands are his assets, and the toil of our millions go to make him and his companions richer year by year. 'Tis not our will, but thine, be done, O Duke. We would that we might have more money for our work, and better prices for our tobacco, but we have no power to force thee to treat us right. A goodly number of our own people, those who suffer with us, believe that thou art paying us all that we deserve, and that thou art the best friend we ever had. We look around us at Winston, Reidsville, Madison, Martinsville, Greensboro and a hundred other towns and see huge factories that cost millions of dollars standing empty, silent and deserted—somber tombstones that mark the death of competition, and of freedom. We see thee standing Master of every tobacco market from Virginia to Texas, the incarnation of Greed, Brute Power, Craft and Graft. And yet who shall say nay.

It is remarkable how little the people know about the future, and how much they think they know. Never in the history of our county, in the memory of our oldest inhabitants, has more wet weather visited the farmers than has been the case the present summer. It was the general verdict of the know-alls even as shortly back as two weeks ago, that the tobacco crop in Stokes county was not only going to be exceedingly short, but that the quality would be very inferior. But today every farmer you meet tells you that he has as good if not the best crop of tobacco that he ever had in his life.

The Old Marster still knows his business.

Recently Mr. J. G. H. Mitchell, one of the Reporter's best and most valued friends, made a trip over the mountains into Virginia, and on his return wrote a very entertaining and interesting description of the trip for publication in this paper, sending the same to us by mail. But the manuscript has accidentally been misplaced in this office, and cannot be found anywhere. We regret exceedingly that such is the case, and trust that Mr. Mitchell will re-write the article and send to us, and we promise to be more careful for its preservation next time.

Messrs. Jno. T. Carroll and Z. R. Moran were Danbury visitors Tuesday.

GALVESTON'S SEA WALL

makes life now as safe in that city as on the higher uplands. E. W. Goodloe, who resides on Dutton St., in Waco, Tex., needs no sea wall for safety. He writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption the past five years and it keeps me well and safe. Before that time I had a cough which for years had been growing worse. Now it's gone." Cures chronic Coughs, LaGrippe, Croup, Whooping Cough and previous Pneumonia. Pleasant to take. Every bottle guaranteed at all drug stores. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.
