

AVERAGING ABOUT 10 CENTS ALREADY.

Fine Sales of Tobacco On the Winston Market--Breaks Growing Larger Every Day--Other News From Patrick County, Va., Stokes and Other Quarters, Conveniently Arranged for Reporter's Readers.

Winston-Salem, Sept. 30.—The leaf tobacco breaks on the Winston market are growing larger every week and it now requires double sales to clear the warehouse floors. These were put on today. Primings have all about been sold, and farmers are now selling stalk cured tobacco, consisting principally of first curings. It is only now and then that a pile of wrappers is sold. Farmers do not generally sell their best tobacco at the first of the season, notwithstanding the fact that breaks consist largely of the commoner goods, tobacco is averaging nearly 10 cents or two cents per pound more than at this time last year. Winston buyers are all showing a willingness to bid on all goods. In fact there is an unusual spirit of activity manifested, and every firm on the market are eager bidders. The world wants more Winston tobacco and Winston wants more of the farmers product. Prices are good, with an outlook that is exceedingly encouraging.

Measles Raging.

Mr. P. H. Young, of Sandy Ridge Route 1, who was here Friday, told the Reporter that there was considerable measles in his section. The entire family of Mr. Robt. Wilkins, a good citizen of that section, have it, but none of them are seriously sick, we are glad to state.

The pension department of the State pays pensions to many Cherokee Indians, who served in the Confederate army. There were four companies of the Cherokees among the North Carolina troops. There are about 25 who now receive pensions, nearly all of these being from Swain county. Among them are the follows: Pim-le-et-dah-hee, Jesse-lee-gee-skee; Suat owl; Bird-solala-neta-Sunkee; John Nahhah-neta and Wild Cat.

Ed. Swaney, eight years old, while pranking with a rifle at his home in Greensboro a day or two since, got two of his front teeth knocked out and a part of his upper lip shot off by a bullet. He spit the bullet out of his mouth and yelled for his mammy. A physician found that the wound was not serious. It was very painful. The youngster was left at the house by himself and took the gun down to give it an examination the result thoroughly satisfying his curiosity.

A CRIMINAL ATTACK

SOME PATRICK COUNTY NEWS.

A Coming Marriage--Moore Tobacco Co. Doing Well--Medical Society To Meet October 11.

From Stuart Enterprise.
The heavy rain of Sunday night raised the various streams in the county to a high point. Old inhabitants who live on the banks of Mayo say the river was higher Monday than it had been in 20 years. One of the pillars in the second railroad bridge of the D. & W. across the Mayo one and a half miles below the station at Stuart was placed out of line by the swift current, washing out the underpinings at the east end.

Mr. T. J. George left Monday for the Roanoke fair and the Jamestown Exposition.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Katherine Mildred Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Perkins, proprietor of Hotel Perkins, and Mr. Henry Charles Marley, of Greensboro. The wedding will take place in the autumn.

We recently paid a visit to the tobacco factory of the F. L. Moore Tobacco Co., of this place, and must say that we were much pleased with their work. We found that their business was small and that they were running along in a quiet way, great promise is given for the future. We know of no small enterprise that has been more help to Stuart than this one.

The Patrick-Henry Medical Society will meet at Stuart Friday, Oct. 11th. Following is the programme: Dr. R. S. Martin, paper on Tuberculosis; Dr. J. J. Leak, paper on Nephritis; Dr. R. E. Lee, paper on his own selection; D. J. W. Simmons, paper on Frepuical Calculi's; Dr. W. B. Moore, paper on Practice of Medicine; Dr. Moir S. Martin, paper on Gynecology; Dr. E. A. Jenkins, paper on Acute Laryngitis; Dr. J. R. Perkins, paper on Surgery.

Miss Ada and Jettie Young, of Hartman, visited here Sunday after noon.

SOME WALNUT COVE NOTES.

Work On Stokesburg Church Progressing Nicely--Praise for the Reporter--Miss Lola Martin Goes to the Fair.

Stokes County News.
Mr. J. A. Petree and Mr. W. J. Martin, who for the past two months have been at Conway, S. C., in the interest of the leaf tobacco business, is are home again. They report the season about over at that place.

Miss Lola Martin left Monday morning for Jamestown, she having won a free trip through the Danbury Reporter.

Work on the new Methodist church at Stokesburg is progressing rapidly. Douglas & Witt, of Pilot Mt., have the contract and are putting up a nice job.

We with pleasure note the improvement in the Danbury Reporter, which is a creditable institution for our county, and every man that would like to see our county one of the leading in the State should lend it their support.

An Ancient Gourd to Be Exhibited At the Stokes County Fair.

There will be placed on exhibition at the Stokes County Fair at King a gourd which is about forty odd years of age. It is the same gourd that old man Zack Smith started to the war with, having in it a quart of brandy. Mr. Smith, of Mount Airy, the former owner, was in Danbury last week attending court, and while here struck up with Mr. J. W. Hutchens, the manager of the Stokes County Fair, and the subject of the ancient gourd coming up, Mr. Smith instantly remembered it, and told Mr. Hutchens that he was the man that formerly owned the gourd, and lost possession of it during the war. It is a large vessel, holding between a quart and a half gallon. Those who attend the Fair will have the pleasure of seeing this relic of by-gone days.

Superintendent John E. Ray of the State School for the white blind and that for negro blind and deaf mutes is very proud of the fact that so fine a record is being made by the blind department. The attendance on the opening day was the best ever known. Last year it was considerably ahead of the previous year, being 250 then, while now it is 287, an increase of 33. North Carolina now steps up second place among all the State institutions for the blind in the United States. Only Ohio has more, 318 being the number there.
