SCHOOL TO CLOSE WEDNESDAY

Methodist Ladies Give Box Supper
—New Store Nearly Completed—
Other Items From Saturday News.

Two young owls were captured one day the first of the week in the roller mill. They had, in some way, gotten into the separator spout in the mill where they were found. They are now enjoying the inside of a cage at Mr. W. R. Stephen's hardware store, and have been pronounced almost anything between hoot-owls and bald eagles.

Mr. Charles Marshall, rural carrier, has moved his family to the farm and has rented his house in town to Mr. P. H. Linville.

The box supper given by the ladies of the Methodist church Monday evening was quite successful, the net proceeds being about $25.

The closing exercises of the High School will take place Wednesday evening, Thursday evening and Friday morning and evening of next week.

The brick work on the new store building of Fagg & Nelson is nearing completion and it will be but a short time until they will be "at home" to their friends.

Mr. Cephas Lasley and Miss

Neil Petree went to Greensboro yesterday to represent the Walnut Cove High School in the State High Schools Declaimer's Contest. Mr. Stephen W. Smith represented the school in the Inter-Scholastic contest at Elon College last week, and Pres. Harper, of Elor, writes Prof. Byerly that he reflected great credit upon the school, and asks for another such representative next year.

BIG VESSEL SINKS

1,500 PEOPLE GO DOWN WITH IT

The Mammoth White Star Line Steamer Titanic Strikes Iceberg and Goes To Bottom—Most Appalling Marine Disaster In History of the World.

More than 1,500 persons, it is feared, sank to death early Monday morning when within four hours after she crashed into an iceberg, the mammoth White Star Line steamer Titanic bound from Liverpool to New York, on her maiden voyage, went to the bottom off the New Foundland banks. Of the approximately 2,200 persons on board the giant liner, some of them of world-wide prominence, only 675 are known to have been saved. The White Star Line offices in New York, while keeping up hope to the last, were free to admit that there had been "horrible loss of life."

Accepting the early estimates of the fatality list as accurate, the disaster is the greatest in the marine history of the world. Nearest approaching it in magnitude were the disasters to the steamer Atlantic in 1873, when 574 lives were lost and to La Bourgoin in 1893, with a fatality list of 571.

Left on the surface were life boats from the Titanic, and in them, as appears from the meager reports received up to a late hour, were some 675 survivors of the disaster. These, according to the advices, the Carpathia picked up and is now on her way with them to New York.

All that remained of the $10,000,000 floating palace on which nearly 1,400 passengers had been voyaging luxuriously to this side of the Atlantic, were some bits of wreckage. The biggest ship in the world had gone down, snuffing out in her downward plunge, it appeared hundreds of human lives.

A significant fact in the Cape Race despatch was the announcement that of those saved by the Carpathia nearly all were women and children. Should it prove that no other vessel picked up any passengers of the sinking liner, this might mean a great loss of life among the male passengers, as the proportion of women and children among the passengers was greater than the men.

Notable persons, travelers on the Titanic, whose fate was in doubt in the lack of definite advices as to the identity of the survivors, were Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Jacob Astor, Maj. Archibald Butt, aide to President Taft, Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific of Canada, his wife and daughter; W. T. Stead, Benjamin Guggenheim, F. D. Millet, the artist, and J. G. Widener, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, J. B. Thayer, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; J. Bruce Ismay, Henry B. Harris, the theatrical manager, and Mrs. Harris, and Col. Washington Roebling, builder of the Brooklyn bridge.
