Guard Against Spring Fires.

(N. C. Geological and Economic Survey.)

April is the most dangerous month for forest fires. According to figures recently compiled by the State Geological and Economic Survey practically two-thirds of the destructive fires of 1913 occurred in the spring, while April had nearly twice as many fires as any other month of the year. March ran it a close second and May was third.

The season this year is abnormally late and it is to be hoped the spring fire season will be correspondingly short. For the next month or six weeks, however, it behooves every citizen to exercise the greatest possible care in handling fires.

It has been ascertained that nearly half the forest fires in this state result from the carelessness or negligence of the individual, from farmers burning brush, hunters, campers, smokers and others. Farmers who have not finished cleaning up should exercise the greatest precaution if fire is started. Better not burn at all! Most of the material being burnt on the farm ought rather to be used to improve the land or to stop some bad gully.

There is not much hunting at this time of the year—and there should be none—but fishermen are out along every stream. They should take every precaution to extinguish any fire that they may light. Fires should not be built against dead logs or stumps as it is well nigh impossible to put out all sparks before leaving. Common sense will guard most men from such acts of carelessness, but for the rest there is a law against leaving camp fires unextinguished, which may be invoked.

Smokers not only in the wood, but driving along the road, or riding on the railroad should think before they throw away their lighted matches, or cigar and cigarette stumps. The latter are easily put out by rubbing them against something.

Carelessness with fire in dry weather is inexcusable. We North Carolinians are coming more and more to realize the damage done by fire, but as yet we find it hard to recognize our own responsibility for fire prevention. The duty is ours, let us act as reasoning beings.

Every time your watch ticked off a second last year $3 was consumed by fire. This was $482 a minute, $28,958 and hour, and $695,000 a day. And persons carrying insurance footed the bill.
