

Livestock Suggestions for July

Don't try to make the heavy horses, or even the large mules, go as fast as the small ones go. The larger animals will do more work, but not by going faster. They must do it by pulling larger implements that will do more work at one trip across the field, or by hauling heavier loads.

Most horses that are injured by overheating, suffer because they have been allowed or made to go too fast.

The hogs are likely to suffer severely from lice in dry, hot weather if they have no water to wallow in. They should be dipped or given a shallow vat to wallow in with some oil on the top of the water or the vat should be filled with a solution of one part of some coal tar disinfectant to fifty parts of water. Or the hogs may be sponged or rubbed with these mixtures. One part of kerosene to three parts of any nonirritating oil is good. The houses or sleeping quarters should receive the same treatment as the hogs.

The hogs need shade and the best that can be provided this hot weather. Of one thing we are certain, that hogs with good shade and plenty of pure water to drink will do well in the South during the hot season. Water to wallow in may be good but it is not essential and is probably a positive injury in most cases, because the wallows become cesspools.

Don't move the hogs these hot days. We have seen hogs that were kept up in pens or small lots killed by running 50 yards on a hot day. If the hogs must be moved do it early in the morning. The best sow we ever owned killed herself in a few minutes by getting into a pen next to where a strange hog was kept and running up and down the fence trying to get at the other hog.

Politics By Woodrow Wilson.

When, in addition to sending our children to school to paid teachers, we go to one another in those same schoolhouses, then we shall begin more fully to realize than we have ever realized before what American life is. And let me tell you this, confidentially, that wherever you find school boards that object to opening the schoolhouses in the evening for public meetings of every proper sort, you had better look around for some politician who is objecting to it; because the thing that cures bad politics is talk by the neighbors. The thing to light the concealed circumstances of our political life is the talk of the neighborhood; and if you can get the neighbors together, get then frankly to tell everything they know, then your politics, your ward politics, too, will be turned inside out—in the way they ought to be. Because the chief difficulty our politics has suffered is that the inside didn't like the outside. Nothing clears the air like frank discussion. Woodrow Wilson.

A Free Scholarship.

Any young man or woman who is a bona fide patron of this paper may secure free instruction in Music or Elocution.

The Ithaca Conservatory of Music, with the desire to stimulate the study of these arts, offer two scholarships to applicants from the State of N. Carolina, valued at $100 each and good for term of seventeen weeks beginning with the opening of the school year, September 17, 1914, in any of the following departments: Voice, Violin, Piano and Elocution.

These scholarships are awarded upon competition which is open to anyone desiring a musical or literary education.

Anyone wishing to enter the competition or desiring information should write to Mr. Geo. C. Williams, General Manager of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, Ithaca, N. Y., before September 1, 1914.

Messrs. Robt. and Joe Coleman, of Meadows, attended the regular monthly meeting of the county commissioners Monday.

Col. Bangham's School has completed its 121st year with 125 pupils, coming from New York, Colorado, Montana and Washington on the North to the canal Zone on the South.

During 1914 the MILLION DOLLAR Grove Park Inn and the GOVERNMENT'S Summer Camp for Military Instruction have been added to Asheville's attractions and endorsements.

Announcement.

Francisco, July 7, 1914.

To the Voters of Stokes Co.:

I have just been notified of my nomination for the office of County Commissioner and realizing the importance of the office being filled with intelligent business men I feel to decline to accept, but as my friends and fellowcitizens have seen fit to bestow the honor upon me, I accept the trust with thanks, and promise if elected to serve the people of Stokes county to the best of my ability economically to the uplift and advancement of our county.

Thanking my many friends in advance for what they may do for me on election day.

I remain, yours faithfully,
F. P. STONE.

Card of thanks.

I wish to thank my many friends and neighbors of their kindness during the sickness and death of my dear wife.

ROBT. H. PRIDDY.

Announcement.

I wish to say to the voters who may compose and hold the next Republican primary and convention of Stokes county that I am a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, subject to the will of the convention. Soliciting your support.

Yours truly,
ELDER L. T. TUCKER.

Knowledge of Electricity Becoming General.

No longer is there any mystery about electricity. And it seems a strange coincidence, attesting the rapid growth of electrical appliances, that the very school boys seem to be perfectly familiar and unawed by the mysteries of the current which seem so profound to the older generations.

The day of mystery has passed for electricity. The very school boys are up-to-the-minute in matters electrical. Some of the best wireless stations are now built and operated by school boys and wireless is hardest of all to understand in matters electrical.

A few years ago electricity was classed with the mysterious, the unknowable. Most folk were afraid of it—afraid because they did not understand. Today this mystery has been cleared away. Electric lights, electric motors, power stations, transmission lines, heating and cooking devices, are common the country over. They are understood and appreciated. The public has been educated to understand electricity. Electrical matters have been made plain to newspapers and magazines, electrical things are written as commonplace in story and song. Men and women speak of these things with authority and understanding.
