WALNUT COVE NEWS

Sheriff W. C. Slate Investing In Walnut Cove Property.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Mr. Fletcher Hawkins Delivers Stirring Address, Pungent'y Punctuated With Patriotism.

Walnut Cove, Aug. 12.—Dr. W. C. Slate, of Danbury, last week purchased from Messrs. Davis & Chilton a five acre lot on North Main Street adjoining the lot of Mr. R. N. Taylor. It is learned that Dr. Slate will in the near future erect a modern dwelling on the property. There are already several splendid houses in course of construction in this part of town with others being planned, and this will doubtless be one of the most densely settled of any residential section here. Property in Walnut Cove is selling for very reasonable prices and many people who desire to reside in a prosperous growing town where they may have the advantages of a good school will do well to look over the lots offered for sale here.

Mr. W. L. Nelson, of Danbury Route 1, spent several days here last week looking over some property with the intention of buying and making his home here. Mr. Nelson is one of the firm of Fagg & Nelson and would be a welcome addition to our citizenship.

The outside work is about completed on the new warehouse and the other work is being pushed along rapidly. Mr. Taylor, who will be one of the managers of the house, was here last week, going out in different sections visiting the farmers and soliciting patronage.

Mrs. Lola Bennett visited Winston-Salem Friday.

Mr. H. A. Tatum, representing the Mutual Life Insurance Co., was here a short while Tuesday.

Enthused by varied and possibly exaggerated reports on the European war situation a representative body of our citizens held an informal, open-air, free-for-all meeting on the street here Saturday night for a general discussion of the momentous problem. At precisely mid-night by the town clock the assembly was called to order by the acting chairman and after many common place remarks were made Mr. J. G. Fulton in a few choice and select phrases introduced Admiral Fletcher Hawkins, who would address the audience. Mr. Hawkins arose amid hearty applause and delivered a discourse which fell upon the ears of his fellow countrymen like the tinkling of a silver bell. He began by assailing the aristocracy, plutocracy, anarchy and oligarchy of the German nation, denouncing in no uncertain terms their misdeeds from the time that Caesar stabbed Brutus to the day that Waterloo met Napoleon on the plains of the Buck Island hills. He praised in eulogistic language the bravery and greatness of the people of "Bellum," closing his remarks by a graphic description of how these gallant "Bellums" slow the entire German army before breakfast. After a few patriotic songs rendered by Messrs. A. W. Davis, Paul George and others a decision was reached that the town of Walnut Cove should maintain its neutrality in the pending hostilities, the chickens began to announce the coming of dawn and the members dispersed instilled with an undying patriotism.

Miscalculated

The test of the value of a prophecy lies in its fulfillment. Voltaire predicted that less than a century after his time the Bible would be practically unknown. To-day, it is printed in 600 languages and read throughout the world. Diocletian, the monster, after his long and bloody carnival of martyrdom, imagined he had annihilated the Christian faith, and vaingloriously issued a medal commemorating the event. To-day, there are nearly 500,000,000 of Christians on globe, while Diocletian is well-nigh forgotten. It is to remember these facts at a time when we hear the would-be prophets of our day fulminating against Christianity.—Christian Herald.

The players for Rose Bud are as follows: Frank Young, catcher; Albert Young, first base and pitcher; James Burge, second base; Charlie Tuttle, third base; Charlie Young, short stop; Charlie Voss, right-field; Roy Tuttle, center-field; Sanders Lovell, left-field. GOSSIPER.

Are you In It?

It is a deadful thing that the word "society" in the worldly fashionable sense has come to mean exclusiveness. It means that a small circle of prosperous people have shut themselves away from real social fellowship. In fact many of those who reign in so-called "society" have made their way to this high place of exclusiveness by treading on the rights of others. They have fought their way, or some one else has fought the way for them, at the expense of others into this exclusive circle. It is a worse than foolish thing to have ambitions to get into society in this sense. To get into society in this way and in this spirit is to get out of society in the sense that Jesus interprets society and in the sense in which he wants us to be truly social.—The Christian Herald.

The Germination of Crimson Clover Seed.

Since November 1, 1913, there have been imported into the United States 3,329,883 pounds of crimson clover seed. This seed comes mostly from France and Austria, where the harvest season is practically the same as in this country. The time for seeding follows the harvest season so closely that only a part of the imported seed is received in time to be sown the year it is raised. If the conditions of storage are not the best the seed may lose materially in vitality between the time of harvest and that of seeding the next year.

New seed of good quality is free from any brownish color, but old seed shows varying degrees of brown according to age and conditions under which it has been stored. The brownish color is an indication of poor germination—the darker the color the poorer the germination before sowing, and no brown seed should be used unless a germination test shows it will grow well.

Germination test of the 119 lots of crimson clover seed imported in the last eight months show an average of 80 per cent of live seeds. The germination varied from 40 per cent for the poorest lot to 97 per cent for the best lot. As crimson clover seed loses its vitality rapidly, and as practically all the imported seed is 1 year old before seeding, an effort should be made to save domestic seed wherever possible. This is a specially true of seed for local or home use, where it can be seeded without thrashing or cleaning.
