

BRIM CITIZENS

Will Build Good Road From Asbury To Surry County Line.

DR. LEAK PROMOTER

Road Will Connect With New Highway Leading Out From Mt. Airy.

The Reporter learns that the citizens of Brim have a move on foot to construct a good top-soil or sand-clay road from Asbury church to the Surry county line where the road will connect with the highway leading out from Mt. Airy. This will give the people of the Brim section a modern road all the way to Mt. Airy and will mean a great deal to them.

The promoter of the new road is Dr. J. J. Leak and he is being assisted many of the good citizens of his section. The road will be built by private subscriptions and a good part of the money has already been subscribed. Work will be started at once.

The Tobacco Market:

Prices Satisfactory

Winston Sentinel, 25th.

That the tobacco market is only slightly, if at all, affected by the European war is the evidence of the daily sales being made on the local market. All the buyers for home and foreign concerns are on the market with the exception of those of the Imperial Tobacco Company and they will be represented within a few days. They are expected to begin buying October 1. Yesterday Mr. E. W. Dixon, buyer for the Imperial, was asked what his company's attitude is toward the local market, and he responded that they would be on the market, though he is unable to say just when operations will begin. Mr. Dixon stated that the company has just completed a large addition to its ordering plant in this city and that they expect to fill it up with the weed; certainly they are not going to allow it to be idle, he said.

With reference to the tobacco market a local tobacconist stated this morning that there is no difference between prices of good tobacco this season and last season, and that lower grades are believed to be selling better this year than last year. Farmers generally concede that there will be no change in the price of good leaf, and they complain only about the shortness of the crop and the bad quality. Much of the weed is green or ripened prematurely because of the drought.

This report compared with the facts attending the prices in the bright tobacco belt, where prices declined to a point of closing the markets, has caused those who have been watching the local tobacco market to proceed with confidence in the conduct of their business and it is evident that conditions are rapidly becoming normal in this section, and that progress will continue as in the months past.

Destroying Oxygen.

Flame, as your child will tell you, is fed on oxygen. That's both physics and chemistry. Take away the oxygen and the flame dies—just as a rat dies in an atmosphere of burnt oxygen (dioxigen, the chemists call it). This short lesson in physics is simply to illustrate the function of the chemical extinguisher. It squirts out a compound that destroys oxygen and hence destroys the food on which the flame feeds. The contents of a 3-gallon liquid extinguisher are equal to 110 gallons of water.

THE FLY PROBLEM.

Country Women Should Remember That Flies are Even More Dangerous In the Country Than In Town.

I have grown a little sensitive," one friend writes, "about people talking to us country women about flies. I do not hear city women talked to when I go to visit in town. One would think flies were more wicked in country than in town."

I think you are mistaken sister, about city women not being talked to. Their clubs have persistent lectures on every phase of health and the newspapers are constantly reminding them of their failing. Moreover, if the town women were half as careless as many country people the policemen would come around and take her to jail.

Because the country woman must be her own sanitary inspector she ought to be glad to be reminded of those things which concern the health of those she loves.

In town the breeding places are few because of the presence of plumbing and the absence of pig pens, piles of manure, etc. So also are there few places where flies can cover themselves with disease germs.

As a matter of fact, flies are more dangerous in country than in city for the above reasons and because the stable fly, which is very common in the country, is little found in town, and it, you know, is suspected of carrying infantile paralysis.

Let us not be sensitive; let us be alert instead. — Progressive Farmer.

Carroll Voted "Dry" And Patrick "Wet."

Mt. Airy, Sept. 23.—Hillsville, Va., court is in session this week and is attracting large crowds owing to the importance of several cases to be tried. There is a murder case and alleged violators of the liquor laws to be tried, among them prominent and wealthy citizens. The case against Cleve Belton of this city charged with killing a negro some time ago has been postponed on account of the absence from the state of important witnesses. He renewed his bond for his appearance at next term.

On yesterday, Carroll and Patrick, two border Virginia counties, evened up in the prohibition election. The former voted dry, while the latter voted wet. The majorities were about the same, something like three hundred.

Chestnuts are now coming on this market, and readily bring six cents a pound. Compared with last year there will be about half a crop but the crop was unusually large last season.

The cattle that are now being offered here are unusually fine and this fall promises to be a record breaker for fat cattle. The late summer pastures have been very productive and more than compensated for the early summer drought. There will be an increase over last year in cattle production.

To give some idea of the large crop of apples in this section, one orchard alone, the Coveland, will gather 30,000 bushels this season. The managers have leased a large packhouse in this city from whence they will handle and ship their crop.

The farmer is going to be made the goat in every business turn that results from the European war if he persists in fighting his battle singlehanded. The farmer who can't be organized is going to get it in the neck this time, sure.

About three-fourths of the tobacco crop has been cut or primed at this writing.

YOUNG MEN ON THE FARM

How One County High School Is Training and Holding Them.

In 1907 our school was just a common one-teacher school, and when the children finished the seventh grade here they would have to go off to school somewhere else to continue their education, and in this way the community lost some of its best material. This must be stopped, the settlement knew. So the idea of a high school prevailed.

A new schoolhouse was built near where the old one stood. It was a large and well ventilated building; the old desks were abolished and new ones put in their places; a library was bought, and though it only had a small number of books at first, these are being added to. One man gave to the library a complete set of the Encyclopedia Britannica and a lady gave a set of Esop's Fables.

The school boundary has been extended, thus increasing largely the number of children in the district.

For the support of the three teachers now employed a special tax is levied on the people of the district.

All grades up to the eleventh are taught in this school and it draws scholars from other districts.

Pump Is Safer Than Open Well.

A few years ago we used to be inclined to believe that a great lot of our pollution of wells went through the ground. "Mr. Warren H. Booker of the North Carolina Board of Health writes us: 'Now, we are coming to change our minds and we believe that a great source of difficulty with these open wells is on account of people carrying filth on their boots and shoes and washing it off on the well platform nearby, and then rinsing it back into the well by means of waste water or by means of actual contact with the bucket or rope and human hands and lips.'

Another means of polluting our farm wells is by means of dust, dirt, trash, insects, etc., getting in at the open top. The health officers are coming to believe now that by all odds the greatest protection to ordinary farm wells is to close the top up tight and install a pump and trough. This protects the top of the well and carries the waste water away so that there is much less danger than we formerly thought there was by pollution reaching the well after traveling through from twenty-five to one hundred feet of soil."

Sweetheart Of Claude Allen Marries Another

When Claude Allen was being tried for his life in Virginia along with the Allen gang, there was a little brown-eyed girl named Nellie Wissler who was always in evidence. She loved Claude and was engaged to marry him, and all agreed that she loved him with all her heart. Devoted to the last minute and still devoted after he had been sent to the death cell—wearing the widow's weeds for him the day after he was electrocuted people wondered how long she would be true to his memory. The other day she was married to J. Victor Bowman, of Coalwood, Va., and while she remembers Claude as Claude used to appear she doubtless thought there was no use remaining true to a man in the other world while there were so many good fellows in this. The hope is that Nellie is happy and that she thinks of Claude as a might have been instead of a hadbeen. —Fairbrother's Everything.
