

IT'S GOOD TIMES GREAT IMPROVEMENT

November Sixteenth Is Biggest Day Yet.

Fairbrother's Everything
The slogan "Wear Cotton" will change to "Sell Cotton" after the 16th of this month. On that date the Liverpool and New York cotton exchanges will again open after being closed for many weeks. The plans have all been worked out and simultaneously the Federal reserve banks and the cotton exchanges will be in motion. The fact that the banks will have oceans of gold to turn loose on good securities, local banks will not be frightened, and with the cotton exchanges telling us what cotton is worth the planter will know better than he has known for some months "where he is at."

With the embargo lifted on cotton: with foreign countries saying they want great quantities of it: with American mills receiving orders for all kinds of cotton goods for the foreign armies, it looks like an era of prosperity, unprecedented, was coming to America. If we keep out of the war, and we have great faith in our President along this line, the United States of America will become the most prosperous country in the world. Calamity will go so far to the woods that you can't hear it howl for ten years.

The cotton speculator will again come to the front: the consumer is already waiting, and while cotton will never be fifteen cents when so much is in sight it is not unreasonable to believe it will see close to ten cents. Nine cents will perhaps be the price, but the man who planted too much can't complain if he gets nine cents for his over production. The cotton panic may have been worth while. It may have taught a long needed lesson to the southern farmer. He must raise something besides cotton. Finally this will be drilled into him, and when it is he will be as independent as a hog on ice—however much that may mean independence. We have heard that the hog could either walk, skate or lie down. And that is the way the farmer should be. If he will raise his own hay, corn and oats for his stock; his own meats and other provisions, and then put in enough cotton to give him his ready cash, he could be always prosperous.

And this lesson that he has learned this year, may help some in that direction. November 16th will be an important day in the history of the United States—in the history of the South. The new currency law which we have so long needed goes into effect

Business Conditions Are Now Good--The Opinion Of Traveling Men.

Greensboro News.
Judging from all the information that can be gathered from the many traveling men who make Greensboro headquarters, business conditions are slowly but surely getting back to normal, at least that is the case in the section of the country traveled by the many commercial salesmen who represent practically every line that is sold. The conditions as found last week by these men were nearly on a par with the first week in November, 1913, and nearly as many different reasons are given for the improvement as there are men traveling out of this city. Since election day when the Republicans made big gains throughout the country business has been on the increase in all lines and one or two salesmen have been questioned who did not hesitate to answer that in their opinion the increased strength of the G. O. P., which to many people represents the adoption in part of the Republicans' pet plank, the high protective tariff, has had much to do with restoring business conditions, not only in this section but throughout the country as well, to almost a normal state.

Others state that from what they gather the reopening of the Liverpool cotton exchange has had much to do with bettering of conditions. These men state that even if cotton is selling at a very low figure, the simple fact that there is a market dealing in and with the staple product of the south is sufficient to restore confidence to every man who is not too easily and badly afflicted with the war and hard times scare. The people who are affected by the cotton market are cheering up considerably on account of the opening of the Liverpool exchange and as if to further emphasize their belief in the statement that business will soon get back to a normal state, attention is called to the fact that the New York cotton exchange may open at any time, such a movement having been talked of in cotton circles for the past many weeks.

The men whose business it is to sell automobiles have no kick in the world over the amount of that day, and with it the cotton exchanges of the world open for business. And on that day business will receive an impetus, and the scare will be over. Sit steady in the boat just a few more days and all will be well.

business they are doing. The only trouble experienced by local dealers in the supposed luxury is in getting the cars from the manufacturers and the fact that the people of this country are willing to put their money in automobiles, which are a luxury to most people and not a necessity, does much to prove that the people feel sure that the financial situation will be well handled and that no panic or undue tightness in the money market will arise.

Forest Fires Rage Near Black Mountain

Asheville, Nov. 7.—Forest fires which have been raging in various sections of the mountains around Black Mountain during the greater part of the present week are reported to have done considerable damage, the greater number of the blazes being reported from the Craggy Mountains.

For a while fear was entertained that flames would get on the immense watershed holdings of the city of Asheville, but reports from the intake were to the effect that but little damage has been suffered by the municipality. M. Bishop, of Marion, representing the government, is in charge of a force of 100 men in the Bee Tree section and back firing has been resorted to check the flames.

The Reynolds Company.

There is at least one corporation which seems to be prospering and smiling under a benevolent Democratic Administration—the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. Its capital stock has been standing at $10,000,000, but this is to be brought up to the respectable sum of $12,000,000, preferred seven per cent. accumulative. The company has previously issued script for dividends. This script is to be taken in at par in payment for the new issue of stock. The Reynolds Tobacco company is one of the greatest money distributors in the whole country and through its success has been fostered a very large share of North Carolina's prosperity.—Winston Journal.

Despondency Due to Indigestion.

It is not at all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and despondent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Mrs. Blanche Bowers, Indiana, Pa. "For years my digestion was so poor that I could only eat the highest foods. I tried everything that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a year ago when I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and got a bottle of them, did I find the right treatment. I soon began to improve, and since taking a few bottles of them my digestion is fine." For sale by all dealers.
