Coal Discovered Near Stoneville.

Stoneville, Nov. 20.—Mr. Mat Grogan, a prosperous farmer, living about two miles west of town, reports that while he and several workmen were engaged in digging a basement on his plantation they discovered several pieces of coal a number of inches in diameter. It is the opinion of some that there is more coal deeper down. Mr. Grogan is expected to make further investigation, as the place of the discovery was in a large rocky mountain, facing Mayo river.

The Teacher's Responsibility

Dr. J. T. J. Battle, in his talk before the county teachers last Saturday, sought to impress them with the fact that the responsibility for the future progress or degeneracy of the race depended more upon the teacher than upon the parent. He pointed out that changed industrial conditions made it often difficult, many times impossible, for the mother, under the necessity of earning her daily bread, to properly look after the intellectual or even physical development of her child. This assuming that she is qualified for such duties. Realizing that in many instances she is not, that she is herself as much in need of information as to the vital things of life as the child, it becomes the responsibility of the teacher to impart such knowledge—when and how is for her to determine.

Dr. Battle insisted that the accepted adage that "the hand that rocked the cradle ruled the world," was a bit of sentiment that would not stand analysis. It was the superior intellect that guided and directed the mind of youth that determined the destinies of men and the fate of nations.

And of a truth, the teacher, more especially the public school teacher, has a mission beyond the prescribed studies and routine duties of the school room. In the teacher's hands is the plastic clay to mould according to the strength of his or her own personality.

The teacher of today, the up-to-date teacher, realizes this and is attempting to reach the parent through the child. The mothers club and the community club are the teacher's first aid the medium through which best results can be accomplished.—Fairbrother's Everything.

Despondency Due to Indigestion.

It is not at all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and despondent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Mrs. Blanche Bowers, Indiana, Pa. "For years my digestion was so poor that I could only eat the highest foods. I tried everything that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a year ago when I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and got a bottle of them, did I find the right treatment. I soon began to improve, and since taking a few bottles of them my digestion is fine." For sale by all dealers.

County Commissioner J. I. Owens has removed from his farm on Westfield Route 1 to Pilot Mt. It learned that this is only temporary in order to get the advantage of the school at Pilot Mt.
