

GEN. KIRKLAND DEAD

Passing Of a Noted Confederate Commander, Which Recalls a Bit Of History.

PEPPER'S COMPANY

Organized at Danbury and Composed of Stokes Volunteers, Was a Part of Kirkland's Command.

Members of the celebrated Twenty-first North Carolina Regiment of volunteers, many of whom are still living in Stokes county, will learn with interest and sadness of the death of General W. W. Kirkland, which occurred at his home at Hillsboro, N. C., last week. General Kirkland was a brigadier general in the Confederate army. He was formerly Colonel of the Twenty-first regiment, and later promoted.

Col. R. K. Pepper, of Danbury, who organized a company of Stokes county volunteers in the first days of the war, was promoted from a captaincy to Lieutenant-colonel, and at the battle of Winchester, at which place he sustained mortal wounds, he was promoted from Lieutenant-colonel to Colonel of the Twenty-first regiment. In this battle Kirkland was colonel, and Pepper Lieutenant-colonel. Kirkland was sent up higher to a generalship, while Pepper was given Kirkland's place as Colonel. But before the fight was over Colonel Pepper was mortally wounded, and his remains lie today in the cemetery at Winchester, Va.

The boys from Stokes, members of Captain Pepper's old company, organized at Danbury in 1861 or '2, won undying fame on the Winchester battle ground, and a large number of them lost their lives.

Glenn's One Quart of Liquor Case In The Supreme Court

Raleigh, May 17.—Murray Allen, who is giving the supreme test to the Grier act, will tomorrow morning ask the highest court in the state to hear oral argument in the action of George Glenn compelling the Southern Express company to deliver Mr. Glenn a long delayed gallon of liquor.

Mr. Allen has lost at every step thus far. Police Justice W. C. Harris decided first that the express company was well within its rights when it declined to irrigate Mr. Glenn oftener than the law allowed. Mr. Allen took the case to court but the judge wasn't anxious to hear the talk because the United States Supreme court was hearing a case of similar nature. But the plaintiff wanted to have an opinion and Judge Daniels decided that the express company was right to deliver to Mr. Glenn more than a quart a fortnight.

The court had long since passed the Raleigh district and there was no chance to get a brief up. Mr. Allen does not know whether he will win his right to carry the case up or not. He hopes to get at the foot of the class and come in when the twentieth district has been heard. And he hopes to have a decision before the federal court settles it.

It is believed that the Supreme court of the United States will hand down an opinion by the middle of June and that it will settle the constitutionality of the recent statute. But there is no certainty about that. It is greatly desired that the state's supreme court give opinion.

Prompt County-Agent Service.

A long-distance telephone call from one of the farmers in the county who reported that his cattle were dying, reached a county agent in Colorado one Saturday evening at 9:30 o'clock. From the description of the symptoms the agent decided that the disease was blacking and immediately called up the Colorado State Agricultural College for advice. Then he arranged by telephone to have a local deputy State veterinarian make the 25-mile automobile trip to the farm with him. In just two hours from the time the call was received the veterinarian and the county agent were at work vaccinating calves and yearlings attacked by blacking. The work had to be done by the dim light of two lanterns. After vaccinating the first herd they went to a neighboring farm, aroused the farmer out of bed, vaccinated his small herd, and then called on several neighboring farmers, warning them, and suggesting precautionary measures. After working all night, they returned home at dawn. On the same day another trip was made to the same community, taking more vaccine. Within four days from the time he was notified, the county agent, assisted by the veterinarian had vaccinated 123 head of cattle.

Anti-Typhoid Immunization Campaigns to be Held in Progressive Counties This Summer.

Announcement has just been made to the effect that in a few counties in the State where the best assurance of co-operation can be secured the State Board of Health will conduct extensive anti-typhoid treatment campaigns beginning June 15. They will continue for six weeks in about five or six counties and then move on to five or six other counties. Definite announcement as to the counties to receive the benefit of such campaigns will not be made for several weeks. Since it is manifestly impossible to cover more than a few counties in this way with the limited funds at the disposal of the Board, only those counties that give the best assurance of hearty co-operation in this matter will be considered.

The plan is to hold a free public anti-typhoid treatment dispensary in about six different parts of the county and visit each one of these points once a week in turn. Three treatments against typhoid are required to immunize. These treatments given a week apart.

While the treatment will be given absolutely free, a small share of the expense for such a campaign will be borne by the county, and the remainder by the State. The value of such an offer will be readily seen when it is remembered that the usual charge for such treatment or immunization ranges from 75c. to $3.00.

The protection from such treatment is truly great. In the army and navy where it is compulsory, typhoid has been practically wiped out, there being only about one case of typhoid now where before there was a hundred. Furthermore, it is absolutely safe, and practically painless. It produces no open sore.

It is expected that literally thousands of people in counties where free dispensaries are held will avail themselves of this simple treatment with the result that hundreds of cases and deaths from typhoid will be prevented not only this year but for several years to come.

Persons interested in having such campaigns in their county can secure full information by writing the State Board of Health.

Who Supports North Carolina

Every person private and corporate who owns any unexempted property of any sort whatsoever; and all male polls over 21 years of age and under fifty, who are not exempted by reason of poverty or infirmity.

All such property pays forty-seven and two-thirds cents on the hundred dollars worth of property, and all such polls pay $1.43 each to support the state. Some properties, businesses, and persons also pay other taxes; but nearly three-fifths of our total state revenue in 1912 came from the general property tax and polls.

Manifestly the general property tax and the poll tax are forms of taxation intended to lay the burden of state support equally on the largest number of shoulders. These are the forms of taxation that reach the largest number of taxpayers.

Whooping Cough.

"When my daughter had whooping cough she coughed so hard at one time that she had hemorrhage of the lungs. I was terribly alarmed about her condition. Seeing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy so highly recommended, I got her a bottle and it relieved the cough at once. Before she had finished two bottles of this remedy she was entirely well," writes Mrs. S. F. Grimes, Crooksville, Ohio. For sale by all dealers.
