

REV. FRED N. DAY TO Parent-Teacher BUILD HOME HERE Asso. Has Meeting

Purchased Lot This Week
Near Stedman Lake For Summer Home—Others Expected To Buy Here.

Rev. Fred N. Day, well known evangelist and jeweler at Winston-Salem, this week purchased from Paul Taylor a nice lot near Stedman lake and just west of Danbury, where he expects to build a summer home in order to bring his family here to spend the hot months of the year. It is probable that Mr. Day will erect a residence in time to occupy it the coming summer.

The site selected by Mr. Day is a very desirable one and is located on the hill just this side of Stedman lake, which was completed a few months since by the Isaac Walton League.

It is known that quite a number of Winston-Salem citizens and those of other towns are contemplating purchasing lots near the lake for building summer homes, and that section is expected to be dotted with summer homes in the near future. There are some very desirable locations all around the lake and they will be offered at attractive prices by Mr. Taylor.

Winter vacations have now come to stay. One large American firm employing several thousands reports that 29 per cent of its employees take their vacations between October and April.

The apple is the characteristic fruit of Normandy. Therefore, the best times of the year to visit this lovely part of France are in the spring, when the trees are in blossom, and in the fall when villages all smell of the cider press.

Walnut Cove, April 30.—The Parent-Teacher association of the Walnut Cove school held its regular meeting on Thursday April 26.

A short program, consisting of songs, a dialogue, and recitations was well rendered by children of the school. Among the selections were: "As The Moon Rose" by Thelma Rothrock and "The Farmers Home" by George Hutchison. It will be interesting to their friends to learn that those two were selected to represent our school in a high school contest at Guilford College on May 4.

The lovely flower box, which is given each month to the room having the greatest number of parents present was awarded to the third grade.

This being next to the last meeting to be held during this session the following officers were elected to serve during the next school year: president Mrs. C J Helsabeck, vice-president Mrs. R W Sands, secretary-treasurer Mrs. George Fulton.

The retiring officers Mrs. A T Rothrock president, Mrs. J L Mitchell vice-president and Mrs. Anne Carter Sec. treasurer, should be commended for their faithful and efficient service. Much that the association has accomplished has been directly due to their efforts. That a closer bond of sympathy has grown up between the teachers and those parents who have come out to the meeting, is a fact no one can question.

We are anticipating greater progress next year. We feel sure it can be easily brought about if a greater number of parents will join our association to which we feel every patron of the Walnut Cove school should consider it a privilege to belong.

Fine Arts Club Has Regular Meeting

Mesdames R R King and A G Sisk were joint hostesses to the members of the Fine Arts Club at the home of Mrs. King on Tuesday afternoon.

The new president, Mrs. W E Joyce, presided, and the meeting was unusually interesting in character. The topic for study being Shakespeare's Midsummer Nights Dream. The roll call was responded to with quotations from Shakespeare.

The first paper, "Characters in the Play" was read by Mrs. J D Humphreys.

A duet, "I know a Bank" was beautifully sung by Mesdames W G Petree and N E Pepper.

The second paper, Pyramus and this was read by Mrs. J Spot Taylor.

The third paper, "Synopsis of the play" was read by Mrs. O M Brown who interspersed her reading with verbal comments upon the characters which gave her hearers a much clearer understanding of the play than they otherwise would have had.

A report of the Rural Hall Club meeting which was attended by several members of the Fine Arts Club, was given by the president. Mrs. J S Taylor was appointed a delegate to attend the state meeting in Charlotte.

The Civics Com. reported the planting of flowers on the bank along the road leading into town.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered the retiring president and Secretary for their splendid services rendered especially during the night school work.

A contest was most pleasing feature of the meeting. The guests being requested to guess the names of prominent authors and to mention five of the modern wonders of the world. Mrs. J S Taylor proved herself to be most well informed and received a lovely sandwich plate.

The guests were then shown into the dining room where the guests found their places at the beautifully appointed table by means of place cards. In the center of the table was a bowl of lovely yellow flowers while on each end were yellow candles. The refreshments consisted of a delicious salad course, iced tea, salted nuts and lovely yellow baskets of mints as favors.

The May meeting will be with

Mrs. J J Taylor.

In one of our museums you may still see a brick from the ruins of Babylon stamped with the monogram of the King in whose reign it was made. But right on top of the royal cipher there is the footprint of a stray dog that ran over the brick when it was drying 3,000 years ago. We say that man was made in the image of God. But it is obvious that something has gone wrong. For often the image is so defaced as hardly to be recognizable. There is something lovely about the worst people, but, in all of us, there is the unmistakable mark of the beast as well—Percy C. Pegler.

Planning To-day for the Future Beyond To-Morrow

Yesterday has gone. Today is here. Tomorrow and the future beyond tomorrow are to come. You plan for them. You try to anticipate future requirements. You endeavor to be ready to meet the problems of business and life.

As you must anticipate and plan, so must a great and progressive railroad look not merely toward its own future, but that of the entire region it serves. The railroad must continuously increase its usefulness; must assume leadership in community and sectional development.

The Norfolk and Western Railway's Industrial and Agricultural Department, at Roanoke, Virginia, is the foundation upon which future growth in the territory served by the railroad is built. Its staff is in touch with the "layout" of the railroad. They know conditions in every locality and community. They make studies of agricultural, soil and dairy production, of poultry-raising and live stock. They are thoroughly informed as to natural resources and matters dealing with labor, water, fuel and power, raw materials, markets and distribution and efforts toward economic production.

This Industrial and Agricultural Department makes investigations and surveys for interested manufacturers and producers seeking new locations in this thriving and progressive territory.

During the past year the department has assisted in the location on the line of the Norfolk and Western Railway, of new industries with a total capitalization of $53,800,000, employing 7,767 persons. These industries include manufacturers of agricultural, dairy and fruit products, chemicals, furniture, lumber and wood products, ice and cold storage plants, pulp and paper products and numerous manufacturers of miscellaneous products.

A very large number of inquiries as to business sites, agricultural, dairying, poultry-raising and general live-stock conditions have been carefully investigated and reported on and many surveys have been compiled. Representatives of the Industrial and Agricultural Department have been called into conference by large industrial organizations with highly satisfactory results and many important negotiations are now under way.

From this brief summary of recent achievements, it is evident that the Norfolk and Western Railway has anticipated the future and planned for the entire region it serves. The railroad has increased its usefulness immeasurably. It has assumed leadership in community and sectional development. It will continue to devote every effort toward increasing the prosperity and aiding the growth of industry and agricultural. It is planning today for the future beyond tomorrow.
