The school here will have a Christmas entertainment on Friday afternoon at 3:30. The pupils of each grade will render a short program under the direction of their respective teachers.

Willie Baker was here Monday. He tells the Reporter that he is expecting to purchase a farm soon.

Joe Lynch, one of the leading business men of Mayodan, was here Monday. Mr. Lynch is handling a hardware line.

R. L. Lawson, of Lawsonville, spent a short while in town Monday. Mr. Lawson tells the Reporter that farmers are still sowing wheat in Peter's Creek. Though it is probably late, the sign is good as showing the wise provision the Peter's Creek farmers are making for bread another year. It won't do to depend on tobacco alone.

W. J. Sands passed through Sunday to Winston-Salem.

Paul Fulton, of the Stokes Grocery Co., Walnut Cove, was here Monday.

Rev. Fred N. Day, of Winston-Salem, preached here at the Baptist church Sunday morning. Mr. Day has a host of friends in this community who are always glad to have him visit us. He is the father of the Baptist church here.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Forest, of Walnut Cove, spent Sunday with their parents at Francis-co.

Mr. and Mrs. Posey L. Flinchum, of Wilson, have been spending some days here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Mabe of Leaksville spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Flinchum.

Miss Inez Forest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid Forest, of Francisco, was among the five nurses graduating at Martin Hospital in Mount Airy recently.

Rev. McKendree Long, of Stateville, preached to a large congregation at the Presbyterian church here Sunday afternoon. Mr. Long is engaged in holding revival services at Pine Hall Presbyterian church. He conducted a revival here last year and has many warm friends here.

Beginning tonight Winston-Salem stores will be open until 9 o'clock each night in order to accommodate late shoppers.

G. A. Jones, of the King community, was a visitor here today.

The sale of 1930 automobile tags was started Monday. At the Winston-Salem office J. H. Spencer, of Lawsonville, Stokes county, was the second person to purchase a license when the office opened Monday morning.

Stokes County Lions Entertain Wives

The Lions Club of Stokes county held their last meeting in Danbury. Each Lion brought his wife or "sweet-heart." Supper was served banquet style at the Colonial Food Shoppe. Two new members were present with their wives. These were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Floyd, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zimmerman, of Walnut Cove. The Lions were addressed by Attorney C. O. McMichael who was a guest of the club. The meeting was enjoyed by all present.

Old Confederates Get Their Checks

Clerk of the Court A. J. Fagg has received the pensions for the old Confederate soldiers and the widows of soldiers. Each soldier gets $1.00 per day, while the widows get $200 per year.

The installment buying plan may be all right but it makes a man lose enthusiasm after about six months.

If all our subscribers would pay up this month we would believe in Santa Claus ourselves.
