Fireproof Barns for Curing

Cement blocks made with cinders or stone, and hollow tile blocks, are now being used in a small way to build fireproof barns for flue-curing tobacco, says the latest Yearbook of Agriculture. These materials reduce fire hazard, and by offering greater resistance to outside changes in temperature they enable the grower to regulate the temperature better inside his barn. Adequate ventilation at top and bottom must be provided for this type of barn.

"Used V-C Bright-leaf Tobacco Grower 8-3-3, 1,000 pounds per acre, and although the weather conditions were very bad we sold the tobacco for $1,257. Can always depend on V-C."—Stokes & Completion, Stokes, N. C.

"Nitrogen is a colorless, tasteless, odorless gas. In its many forms, nitrogen supplies food for plants, animals and man. As a plant food, nitrogen is of paramount value for application to soils that have had their natural fertility exhausted."—Charles J. Brand.

THE COUNTRIES IN WHICH tobacco is controlled by government monopoly include Austria, France, Hungary, Italy, Portugal, Rumania, Russia, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Japan.

Half As Many Needed Now

"Quantity production has already more than doubled the farmer's productive capacity. One man today is producing more than twice as much as one man produced fifty years ago. The increased productive power of the farmer has released one-half the agriculture workers to go into industry and build up railroads and factories and all the other great enterprises."—Dr. E. C. Brooks, President, North Carolina College of Agriculture.

Except in countries bordering on the Levant, where the Turkish type is grown, dark and heavy tobaccos are produced by the countries of Europe.

Little More Than a Hint

"There is need for a wider application of chemical research to agriculture. The problems awaiting solution are complex. Every farm is a chemical factory. Agricultural chemistry's contribution to human welfare in the past, great though they have been, are little more than a hint of what will be achieved."—W. M. Jardine, former Secretary of Agriculture.

The smoking of tobacco in pipes is a custom which has remained in America for a period of unknown duration, says Encyclopaedia Britannica. The most ancient pipes which remain exist were found in hills made by the Mount Builders.

Life From the Dead Sea

For thirty thousand years the Jordan has been pouring riches into the Dead Sea, says the New York Times. "Twelve hundred billion dollars' worth of potash, bromides, and chlorides have been deposited in the sea—wealth easily reclaimable by evaporation and other simple means." It reports, telling of surveys that led to the signing of a 75-year concession for extracting the potash. "At last the famous potash mines of Strassfurt face competition which cannot but work to the benefit of the American farmer."

"From one eight-acre field of tobacco fertilized with V-C, I obtained 1,145 pounds per acre that sold for 28c a pound average. From a four-acre field grown with V-C I gathered 1,950 pounds per acre that sold for 28c a pound. Have been growing tobacco with V-C for eight years, and have already made up my mind on V-C for 1930."—B. F. CORNELIUS, Nashville, Ga.

Where Flue-Cured Grows

Flue-cured tobacco was grown on 1,147,300 acres in the United States in 1928, the average yield per acre being 631 pounds, according to the latest Yearbook of Agriculture. The acreage was in North Carolina (727,000), South Carolina (148,000), Virginia (143,300), Georgia (121,000) and Florida (7,000 acres). Each of the five states increased its average over the preceding year. Their total for 1927 was 981,300 acres, with an average yield of 730 pounds. The farm value of the crop in 1928 was $129,582,000. In 1927 it was $152,763,000.

"V-C has always given satisfaction. V-C Oxi Bract for tobacco never fails. Have handled V-C many years."—Grover C. Bird, Dealer, Greenville, Tenn.

It's "Superphosphate" Again

What used to be called acid phosphate is now superphosphate, and the new name is coming into general use. That's what it was called first, anyway. Superphosphate is the old name, by rights. Eighty-seven years ago, when Sir John Lawes first made the material, he named it superphosphate.

"Have handled V-C ever since the company was organized, and it has given general satisfaction. Some of the highest averages in the past few years were raised over V-C fertilizer."—R. E. YANCEY, South Hill, Va.

Heavy Fire Losses

The yearly loss from farm fires amounts to about 3,500 lives, in human terms, and more than $150,000,000 on top of that in money terms. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has organized a campaign to prevent farm fires. "Although the work has hardly started," says the Secretary of Agriculture, "it has already indicated the likelihood that within the next few years the farm fire loss may be reduced as much as 10 per cent."

A Happy Birthday Party Is Given

Written for the Reporter.

On Thursday afternoon, April 3, at her home, Mrs. J. John Taylor delightfully entertained a number of Danbury's very young social set. The occasion was the celebration of the 4th and 6th birthdays, respectively, of her two lovely little daughters, Misses Angela and Nellie Louise Taylor.

Upon their arrival, the little folks, carrying interesting packages which they presented to the small hostesses as remembrances of the happy day, were greeted by Mrs. Taylor and ushered into the living room where they enjoyed a number of exciting games. Among the most amusing were a fishing party and a contest in which the blind-folded participants attempted to pin in the proper place a large white Easter Rabbit's missing tail. Both these games proved to be a howling success since, in the first, the fisherman had only to plunge his hook and line over the back of a large arm chair into an imaginary pool and without even a single worm on his hook to draw up a most mysterious package all of which excited the curiosity of the entire party until, stripped of its wrappings, it was presented for inspection and immediately began to serve the purpose for which it was fashioned. Balls began to bounce; doll carriages to roll lightly over the floor; horns began to toot; wind-mills to spin, and so on, until the happy company was called to the contest.

This was intensely amusing and the contestants laughed with the onlookers when their eyes relieved of the bandages beheld bunny's tail pinned to his ears, or back, or on an opposite door post. Among the girls, little Miss Nellie Louise Taylor proved most expert in this difficult performance, and with unanimous applause received the prize, a useful little iron and ironing board. The boy, whose skill was most pronounced, Master Paris Pepper, was rewarded with a little automobile.

In a second contest of drawing numbers little Miss Emorie Pepper and Master Stedman King were the lucky ones, Miss Emorie winning a handsome doll and Master Stedman a nice bucket and shovel.

After the contests, the dining room doors were thrown open and a most gorgeous scene greeted the eyes of the guests. A color scheme of pink and white elaborately and artistically carried out in the minutest detail produced a picture of real beauty under the mellow glow of candle light. The large dining table, with places for all the children, bore as its central decoration a bowl of lovely spring flowers tied with pink tulle. This was offset on either side by two crystal candle sticks holding large pink candles. At each end of the table, marking the places of the honorees, large birthday cakes, decorated in pink and bearing tiny pink tapers corresponding in number to the years four and six were placed. The picture became complete when the happy little faces gathered 'round the festive board.

The delicious refreshments consisted of strawberry jello garnished with whipped cream and candied cherries, lemon tarts, with pink icing, chocolate covered marshmallows, stuffed dates and lovely pink baskets of various colored mints which graced each place as favors.

EAST COAST FISH FERTILIZERS ARE BEST

Mr. Eugene Patterson says he used our Fish Fertilizers to grow sixteen acres of tobacco that made 1050 pounds per acre, and the tobacco sold on the warehouse floor for an average of $30.63, netting him $459.45 per acre.

Sold by the leading dealers. EAST COAST FERTILIZER COMPANY WILMINGTON, N. C.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the hostess and honorees were: Misses Emorie and Julia Pepper, Winifred H.B. Ellen Kate and Josephine Pepper, Margie Petree, Jean Brown; Masters Beverly Christian, Paris Pepper, Stedman and Robert King, Carlyle Petree.

Mrs. E. P. Pepper, J. P. Christian, O. M. Brown, and Miss Mattie Sue Taylor were also visitors on this happy and delightful occasion.

I. M. Gordon, of Pilot Mountain, was a visitor here this week. Mr. Gordon was formerly Register of Deeds of Stokes for several terms. He is now cashier of the bank in his town.
