Politics In Stokes.

This good year of Grace, Nineteen Hundred Thirty, promises to be plentifully seasoned with political spice and ginger in the State of Stokes. The local political caldron is already at the seething stage in some quarters. Candidates who have heretofore been thought to be passive and entirely in the hands of their friends, now appear to be active and even aggressive, and in some cases almost warlike, securing the country in the search of promises of support from friends. Much gas is being burned, many babies are being kissed, while the old-time art of handshaking is revived with a vim. The weather and the time are becoming propitious. The religious gatherings are the greatest places for the assembling of the office-hunters. Here in the open air, where good fellowship, good cheer, good food and good friends gather on Saturdays or Sundays, you are indeed out of luck if you do not find quite a galaxy of ambitious fellows looking for votes.

The primary is now getting near at hand. Soon the contest will be on. With so many candidates in the field for the various offices, the chances are there will be a heavy vote out on the 7th of June. Outside of the local and county offices, the contests for the Senate between Bailey and Simmons, for Solicitor between Wright and Younce, for Congress between Sims and Hancock, these will be more than apt to get out a large vote. But when it comes down to Sheriff and Clerk of the Court, and Register of Deeds, and for the Legislature—the influence of some of these will almost be sure to bring out everybody, even the "swimmen, God bless 'em."

The Stokes county Democratic executive committee met at the court house here Saturday for the purpose largely of discussing candidates. This body has no power nor purpose to select candidates for the various offices, but it is the custom to sound out sentiment at these meetings and try to ascertain the strongest candidates for recommendation to the county convention, or to induce certain available timber to enter the primary. At Saturday's meeting it was the sense of the Democrats present that Sheriff John Taylor had no opposition nor should have any in the county convention or primary, as he is 100 per cent. the choice of the party. It was the further opinion of the committee that Elder J. Watt Tuttle of Meadows was qualified to be Clerk of the Court of Stokes County, and that he is head and shoulders above anybody else in strength. Therefore it was deemed that Mr. Tuttle owes it to his party, to his friends and to himself to enter the primary for this important office. It was found that two candidates were before the people for the office of member of the Lower House of Representatives, to-wit, H. H. Leake and Gilmer Sparger, both very capable and honorable men, either of whom will fill this position with credit and honor. Pinnix Bailey was present, and his name being mentioned for Register of Deeds, the committee endorsed him. Candidates for county commissioners were offered and endorsed as follows: Ellis Stone of Pinnacle, Elder F. P. Stone of Asbury and Rev. J. A. Joyce of Sandy Ridge. For Highway Commissioners the following gentlemen were recommended: E. W. Carroll and J. C. Craig. For Coroner, Dr. Stone of King, and for Surveyor, I. G. Ross, of Walnut Cove.

The Republicans of Stokes county are likewise quite active in discussing and marshaling candidates. For Sheriff, Dixie Nunn, Monroe Fagg, Jesse Priddy, E. R. Nelson, seem to be the timber from which a candidate will be selected. Each and all of these gentlemen have their support and supporters. It is expected that in the primary, the struggle between the friends of these men will be spirited. There is always a possibility of dark horses entering the race at the last hour. While we know of nothing definite, it has for some time been whispered that at the last moment some Republican thought to be stronger than either of the above candidates will be entered and will win the nomination.

For the Legislature, C. C. McGee sometime since announced that he was not a candidate, however, it is known that Mr. McGee's friends are bringing pressure to bear on him to again make the race for the office at which he was successful two years ago. It is also learned that M. O. Jones is strongly considering legislative honors at the earnest persuasion of many friends, and while he has not yet spoken definitely, many people believe he will enter at the last moment, and if so McGee may not enter, or vice versa, Jones may not enter if McGee does. These are two of the youngest and brightest Republicans of the county, and each has many friends.

One of the sharpest contests among the Republicans is that between Fagg and Chilton for Clerk of the Court. Both of these gentlemen are well versed in the exigencies and the intricacies of politics, especially pertaining to the office of Clerk, and each is not without experience in that important branch of our county civil government. Both are able men, and each has a strong following, and the tilt between them is sure to be full of pep and shock.

The Bailey-Simmons bout will be very interesting. While the contest in Stokes is only the backwash from the great wave which will engulf the State on November 7th, even locally it will have its fireworks and its impacts and all that sort of thing. The Bailey manager in Stokes is E. O.

Creakman of Walnut Cove, the Simmons manager is D. M. Pyrtle of Danbury.

Cannon Ball Starts Rolling.

The disclosures being twisted out of Bishop Cannon by the congressional lobby committee in regard to the anti-Smith money which he handled in Virginia two years ago, are proving quite interesting, but are not so interesting here as some North Carolina dope would be along the same lines. The figures showing how much boodle was used by McNinch, Simmons' lieutenant, to carry North Carolina for Hoover in the last election, would be read with greater zest by North Carolinians.

It appears that the Washington committee has the good Bishop well by his whiskers now. The milk has already been squeezed out of him that one man alone sent him $63,000, and that this contributor was a New York man. (Angels and ministers of grace defend us—from Tammany?) Now, if only one man sent the Bishop $65,000, wouldn't it be edifying to learn what additional sums the Bishop received, and from whom, and after he had spent enough of this money to carry Virginia for Hoover, how much he used to recruit his own private fortunes on the Tammany stock market, where it has been proved by his own admission that he lost a large amount of somebody's cash in his gambling operations. Of course we North Carolinians are not half so much interested, however, in this Virginia mess as we would be in a few disclosures from McNinch, Simmons' lieutenant, as to how much lucre he had left after carrying North Carolina Republican under the advice from his chief, the Senator, Simmons himself, who is McNinch's boss, could doubtless tell us all about it, but as the Senator's will is bigger than the Democratic party, by the same token we assume he is superior to the law, and thus the corrupt practices act becomes null and void when it conflicts with the wishes of "this our Caesar."

The Washington lobby committee is not the only organization after Bishop Cannon. His church, through its general conference at Dallas, is also calling on him to appear and answer to the charges of political activity unbecoming a bishop of the Methodist Church South. Before it is all over, this pious gambler, this ecclesiastical crap-shooter, this sanctimonious Virginia political boodle-guzzler, will doubtless be severely unfrocked, but we hope not until through him as the nucleus we shall expose some of the corrupt and unlawful political methods which were used in Virginia and North Carolina in the last election to defeat and humiliate the Democrats and elect Hoover.

Senator Simmons was the head and front of the great Organization of Conscience and Disaffection against the party which made him, and whose bread he had eaten for more than 40 years. It appears that this Organization had unlimited supplies of money from SOMEWHERE—but echoes answers WHERE? Cannon says that $65,300 of it was sent from Tammany, or at least from a man who lives in Tammany. Not more than $10,000 was ever sent by the national Democratic committee to carry North Carolina for the Democratic ticket. Such an insignificant sum when it was pitted against the unmeasured slush fund commanded by the Cannons and McNiches, who worked under orders from their chief Simmons, didn't weigh very heavily.

When the lobby committee gets through with Cannon, let it send for McNinch and make him disgorge the information which the people have a right to know. Let the Corrupt Practices act be resurrected.

FAVORITE RECIPES OF A FAMOUS CHEF

As Told to Anne Baker By ROGER CRETEAUX, Chef, The Roosevelt, New York City

Escalloped Beef Creole—Fry in three tablespoons drippings, until brown, two tablespoons finely chopped green peppers and one-half cup finely chopped onion. Add two cups tomatoes, one tablespoon sugar, one-third teaspoon whole cloves and a piece of whole mace. Fry until fairly dry, stirring constantly. Pour in two cups of water to which was been added one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, dust with one-half teaspoon salt, and one-half teaspoon pepper. Cook slowly for ten minutes. Then add two tablespoons flour which has been mixed with a little cold water. Cook five minutes. Remove from fire and rub through a strainer. Add two tablespoons chopped parsley and pour over thin slices of left-over beef which have been placed in a glass baking dish. Bake in a hot oven for about ten minutes.
