TOBACCO MARKET HAS CLOSED

Forty-Four Million Pounds On the Winston-Salem Market Brought An Average Of Only $6.60 Per Hundred Pounds.

After selling something over forty-four million pounds of leaf tobacco for an average price of $6.60 per hundred pounds, the Winston-Salem tobacco market closed for the season Thursday last.

A great deal of tobacco was left in barns of the farmers or placed on the land, not being considered worth selling, but how much it is impossible to estimate.

Last year the Winston-Salem market sold something over sixty-five million pounds, so that this crop fell short in pounds more than twenty million pounds. The average price last year was $8.74 per hundred pounds, so the drop in average price was $2.14 a hundred. The total amount of money paid the farmers this year was $2,956,455.12, while last year it was $5,693,348.02.

A SUGGESTION TO FARMERS

John L. Christian Tells His Experience With Lespedeza and How To Use This Fine Crop.

Owing to the extremely low prices of farm products produced last year there will nodoubt be a reduction in acreage planted this year by a large number of farmers. Only the most productive land will be cultivated — land that will produce the best quality of tobacco and a maximum yield of corn and other crops—leaving thousands of acres idle to become poorer which, if properly cared for, can be made to produce as well as any part of the farm in two years.

Lespedeza seed are cheaper in price this year than they have ever been before and if the farmers of Stokes and Surry counties will seed their thin and wornout land in lespedeza and let it alone for two years it will double the yield of any crop planted after it. I have tried it in building up worn out soils and have also tried several other legumes and find lespedeza far ahead of anything. It will grow where nothing else will hardly live mixed with orchard grass and rye grass. It makes an ideal pasture that will furnish good grazing until frost. It will stand close grazing and reseed itself every year. I have a pasture of this kind that has been used for five years, and is good for several years more, in fact I believe it will continue to come back every year indefinitely. As stated before, seed are cheap and every farmer should seed several acres this spring. If you want to let your land lay uncultivated for two or more years ten or twelve pounds per acre is plenty to sow. If you intend to cultivate the land next year I would advise sowing a bushel (25 pounds to the acre). I have no seed to sell and am not interested in any one that has, and the only profit that I expect to get out of it will be the pleasure of seeing our farmers build up their soils in this cheap way until they can produce maximum yields at low cost of production.

If several farmers in each community will make up an order for several bushels and order together they will save freight charges. I will be glad to give the address of several reliable parties that you can order from that have nice clean seed.

DOES NOT FAVOR CONSOLIDATION

F. T. Tilley Criticises Some of the Candidates—Advises Voters To Watch Whom They Vote For.

R. F. D. Danbury, N. C.,
Feb. 29, 1932.

To the Danbury Reporter:

My dear voters of Stokes county, I am a Democrat of Stokes, and am not in favor of consolidation with Forsyth nor never have been. But E. W. Carroll and Mr. Mullican have favored it heretofore but did not win. But now they think if elected they will carry their points over the rest of us.

So now, dear voters, if you don't want Stokes consolidated with Forsyth or some other county, you had better watch who you vote for regardless of the party. Let the man state where he stands on consolidation when he seeks office, regardless of the party that he belongs to. I think Mr. Carroll wants to carry his points. Of course Mr. Mullican has not stated where he stands.

Yours truly,
F. T. TILLEY.
