

STOKES BOY TAKES NEW POSITION

G. C. DAVIS, FORMERLY WITH VAN DYKE'S, MANAGER OF SHOE DEPARTMENT FOR ANCHOR STORE.

W. N. Martin, manager of the Anchor Store on West Fourth street, announces the installation of an up-to-date shoe department on the second floor and the appointment of G. C. Davis as manager. The department is now open to the public.

In making the announcement, Mr. Martin stated that the entire second floor equipment is being re-modeled and rearranged to harmonize with the shoe department which will be found in the northeast corner of the building.

"There has been a continuous demand for that feature in the store and it was finally decided that the stock would not be complete without it," said Mr. Martin. New fixtures have been installed, the most modern and complete to be found anywhere.

all departments, added Mr. Martin. Mr. Davis, born and reared in Stokes county, who will be the manager of the department, is no stranger to the shoe trade in Winston-Salem. He was head of the shoe department of Van Dyke's and after that store was closed he went to other establishments in the city. He is regarded as one of the best informed men in the city in handling shoes and is the author of many articles in the leading journals.

Harvest Lespedeza Seed When Crop Fully Matured

For lespedeza seed to germinate well they must be fully matured when harvested. This means that the field must have turned a chocolate brown in color and the seed are brown when rubbed out in the hand.

"Last year we tested over 500 samples of lespedeza seed for certification by growers interested in selling seed this spring," says Dr. Gordon K. Middleton, seed specialist at State College. "Of this amount less than five per cent. of the samples showed under a 90 per cent. germination. When the low germinating samples were further examined it was found that the seed were not all mature. The more mature the seed were, the better the germination. This same experience was had in 1931."

Dr. Middleton finds that some growers in their eagerness to get a crop of hay from their lespedeza harvest the crop before the seed are ripe. He thinks that the man who wants hay should harvest for hay and the man who wants seed should harvest for seed. There is no doubt but that the hay has a better feeding value if the lespedeza is harvested before the seed are fully mature; but, if a seed crop of first quality is to be obtained, the maturity of the seed must be given first consideration. When the plants have all matured in the field, it presents a chocolate-brown color and the seed show a brown color if a few are rubbed out by hand. Under no conditions should the crop be harvested if there is over 5 to 10 per cent. of green seed present, Middleton says.

He finds also that the mature seed held over one year are slightly better in germination than one year seed and immature seed held over over one year drop off in germination power.

Fudge Squares with Bran

By Jane Rogers

THE next time you feel the urge to go into the kitchen with the idea of satisfying that periodical craving for homemade candy, try this for a new and different confection.

Not too sweet but with a rich, chocolate flavor and of a consistency that is something between that of fudge and fruit cake, all-bran fudge squares have the further quality of containing some of the most important elements necessary to a healthful diet.

How they are made Melt four squares of chocolate over hot water and add 1/3 cup of butter. Beat two eggs until light, add one cup of sugar and beat well together, add the melted butter and chocolate and then stir in 1/2 cup of flour, 1/2 cup of all-bran, 1/2 cup of nut meats and a teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into greased pan, making a layer about one-third of an inch thick. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about twenty minutes. This makes sixteen pieces, 2 inches square.

Containing several nutritious foods, this tasty confection also, through the inclusion of the bran, helps take care of one of our most common dietary faults.

Doctors agree that the progressive refinement and softening of foods which has produced our so-called civilized diet has meant the almost complete elimination of the bulky cellulose or regulatory foods that are necessary to keep the body functioning properly. Bran long has been recognized as one of the most valuable of this type of food and recent laboratory investigations have proven that, in addition to containing minerals and proteins, it is a rich source of vitamin B, which improves the muscular tone of the intestine.

MARTINSVILLE = Your Best Tobacco Market

Hundreds and hundreds of farmers of Virginia and North Carolina can bear testimony to this fact by actual experience.

Good roads from all sections lead to our market. Two large, well arranged and well lighted warehouses are operated under experienced and efficient management. Martinsville's market has grown in favor with the farmers more and more each year.

The Farmers Warehouse is owned and operated by C. E. Marion and H. L. Turner, H. L. Turner Auctioneer.

The Banner Warehouse is owned and operated by E. J. Davis, J. M. Valentine, of Wilson, N. C., Auctioneer.

Both houses have good auctioneers, and know how to get the high dollar for the farmer.

Our buyers are noted for their liberality to the farmers. All the large companies are represented, and several independent buyers who represent large factories. We also have one large tobacco factory located in town, who buy their requirements exclusively on the Martinsville market. This strong competition is why tobacco sells higher in Martinsville.

Our market opens Tuesday, October 4th, 1932. Sell your tobacco in the Martinsville market the best market in the two States. We predict good prices on this crop, and you need all the money you can get for it. Why take any chances. You know Martinsville, we want to help you. If you have not been selling on the Martinsville market give it a trial, and the chances are you will become a booster for our market.

Hoping to see you in Martinsville with your tobacco, and promising each and everyone courteous and fair treatment.

Yours for success,
MARTINSVILLE TOBACCO BOARD OF TRADE.
